Lindbergh's Accident.
Clouds, Baby Size.
The Flanagans.
T. P. O'Connor.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE

COLONEL LINDBERGH, injured in an airplane accident, no details supplied, is confined to the home of his wife's father, Dwight Morrow.

Fortunately, the injury to Colonel Lindbergh's shoulder, caused, it is supposed, by a forced landing, is not serious.

IT IS useless to talk to Colonel Lindbergh about staying on the ground. But he might promise not to do more than his share of flying.

Napoleon was not ashamed to promise France that he would keep out of danger as much as possible.

DULL in Wall Street yesterday, money "cheap," five per cent for call money, the kind used for stock speculation.

A few little clouds, about size of a baby's hand, not serious. A small bank closed in Delaware, and one exchange firm, in New England, faded into eternity.

TO COMFORT yourself, if you lost, think of the people living near Mount Pelee, ordered to abandon their homes.

Official observers have noticed "flashes of light" coming through a slit in the volcano's cone, 240 feet high, with underground rumblings. The last eruption of Mt. Pelee was earth's greatest disaster since the Lisbon earthquake, not including war.

JUSTICE rarely "gets" leading gangsters, gunmen and racketeers. But the gentlemen get each other.

The Flanagan family is getting smaller.

Joseph has taken his ride in New York. A gun pressed against his temple did the work.

JOSEPH'S brother, Thomas, better known as "Turk" Flanagan, was "bumped off" some time ago in front of "Yumpsy" Cunningham's place.

A THIRD brother, Frank Flanagan, called "Death House" because of time spent in that resort, survives.

Gangsters kill each other, sometimes for treason, sometimes for squealing to oblige detectives, sometimes for interfering with a "racket."

T. P. O'CONNOR, Parnell's follower, last of the Irish Nationalists and born in Ireland, will be buried, at his request, in English soil, in the Roman Catholic Cemetery at Kensal Green.

Cheered in his last moments by a message from King George and a blessing from the Pope, the oldest member of the House of Commons died contented.

HE SAID before he died that England and Ireland should be friends. Setting up the Irish Free State had established the era of friendship.

ON THIS day 177 years ago, in Albemarle County, Virginia, was born John Rogers Clark, victor at Vincennes, organizer of Kentucky, founder of Louisville.

IF THAT particular baby had not been born, the region including Ohio, Indiana, Illinois and Wisconsin might now be part of Canada.

At last a national memorial is to be built to commemorate Clark's services to this country.

THREE members of United Textile Workers of America were expelled from the Baptist Church in Marion, N. C., for "conduct unbecoming members of the Baptist Church."

Church authorities have postponed indefinitely the trial of those members. That postponement is a good idea.

ONCE, in England, a laborer that wandered from one parish to another, looking for work, without permission, was branded on the face with a red-hot iron.

No church should take up the branding proposition at this late day.

A THOUSAND fathers of university students learned something about prohibition and its "abolition of whisky" at Champaign, Ill., on Saturday.

While proud fathers were celebrating "Dad's Day," Sheriff Shoaff raided the Gamma Eta Gamma fraternity house, arrested three students, collected ten gallons of rum.

Gamma Eta Gamma had been buying the liquor for $12 a gallon, retailing it for $32 a gallon. A good profit while it lasted.

IN OLD pantomimes, the old clown promised to be good, but never remained good for long.

Britain's labor government finds Russia imitating that clown.

Britain thought Russia would resume business, make money and stop Bolshevik propaganda among people under British rule.

RUSSIA'S official newspaper, Pravda says: "No, we don't ask you to resign from the League of Nations, we don't ask you to stop criticising Bolshevism. You must not try to run us."

LAD IGNORES GUN THREAT TO PHONE FOR AID

Youth of 12 Routs Burglar In His Home

Mother's Screams Awaken Youngster; Prowler Flees Before Police Reach Home

A mother's screams routed a burglar from the William M. Simpson home, 2233 Beechwood boulevard late last night.

Mrs. Iva Simpson, 32, was in bed with her 14-year-old daughter, Dorothy, when she saw in the hallway the reflection of a flashlight. The reflection seemed to be directed from the bedroom of her son, Buddy, 12.

THREATENS TO SHOOT

Mrs. Simpson screamed. A dapper young man in light topcoat and soft hat stepped into her room and played the flashlight on the walls.

"Don't call," he ordered, "or I'll shoot."

He backed out of the room.

Mrs. Simpson's screams had awakened Buddy. He ran to his mother's room.

"What's the matter, mother?" he asked.

TELEPHONES FATHER

Told, he ignored possible dangers, ran to the telephone on the landing of the steps and called his father at the Simpson drug-store in Wilkinsburg.

Simpson called police.

The burglar had left by the kitchen door. He had entered by cutting a panel of glass from the front door and reaching through to turn the lock.

On the floor of Buddy's bedroom was a pile of Buddy's belongings, emptied from the dressers by the burglar before he was interrupted by Mrs. Simpson's screams.

In Mrs. Simpson's room valuable jewelry lay undisturbed.

GIRL HEARS INTRUDER

When it was all over Dorothy told her story. She had been in bed in Buddy's room, heard noises downstairs and gone to her mother's bed.

Frightened, she said nothing. She heard "noises like marbles rolling," presumably when the front-door glass shattered.

"I heard somebody coming up the steps, but I couldn't talk," Dorothy explained.

DOROTHY, 14, ON WHOM BURGLAR PLAYED FLASHLIGHT

Awakened by his mother's screams in their home, 2233 Beechwood boulevard, Buddy, 12, told that an intruder had shone a light on her and her daughter, Dorothy, ran to the 'phone and called his father, William M. Simpson, who sent police at once. The burglar fled after threatening to shoot.

STOCKS ON RISE; TRADING LIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Stock prices turned upward today after an earlier period of selling had carried many issues down $1 to $11 a share. Trading continued relatively light in volume, with the ticker keeping abreast of the market.

Steady accumulation of U. S. Steel common, which advanced $2.50 a share to $162.50 before the mid-way mark of the three-hour session was reached helped to revive confidence.

Johns Manville converted an early loss of $3 a share into a gain of $4, Columbian Carbon extended its early gain to $8.50 and American Can, Atchison, American and Foreign Power, A. M. Byers, J. I. Case, Dupont, New Haven Public Service of New Jersey and Western Union sold $3 to $4 a share higher.

See full details of trading on finance pages.

NEW HAVEN, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—A section of the original Yale fence, an antique valued at $10,000, has been stolen from a photographer's quarters.

Cowboy Shows Big Town How to Bag Auto Thief

Bob Limbert, trick-shot expert and cowboy from the Saw Tooth range, way out West, walked along Smithfield street this morning.

He was thinking that cities are, for the most part, highly overrated compared with his own exciting Idaho.

Then things began to happen. He heard a shout.

The exhaust of a motor coughing start brought him out of his reflections. A car shot out from the curb into the street, a man on the running board cried excitedly to someone inside the car. The nose of a revolver pointed out of the car window.

Limbert marveled. The car was fighting to get clear of traffic. It couldn't. Limbert leaped on the left side, fouled the revolver and the automobile stopped.

A policeman came. Albert E. Jones, of 254 Ridgewood avenue, West View, still gesticulating, claimed the youth at the wheel tried to steal his car and had pointed a gun.

Limbert gave the revolver to Patrolman James Gillespie. The youth at the wheel said he was Glenn Morris, 19, of Forty-third and Butler street. The revolver chambers were empty.

Morris was arrested.

Limbert spent 15 minutes teaching Patrolman Gillespie, Sergeants Frank Goebler and Mickey Callen how to disarm a man without perspiring. He then continued on his way to Everett, Pa., where he said he was to give a trick shot exhibition.

PITT TEAM SEEN COAST CHOICE

Indications today were that the undefeated University of Pittsburgh eleven and the University of California team will meet in the annual Tournament of Roses game at Pasadena, Cal., New Year's Day. Neither team has been selected for the contest, but California is due to be named the western choice by Saturday and the only teams being considered for the East are Pitt, Purdue, the Western Conference champion, and Notre Dame. Tennessee and Tulane, in the South, are other possibilities, but an Eastern or Mid-Western team has the inside track.

Word from South Bend is that Notre Dame is not interested in continuing its season to permit it to make the trip to the coast. Western Conference rules prohibiting post-season games bar Purdue.

Pitt athletic authorities already are on record to the effect that they gladly will accept the invita-

TWO GLASSPORT POLITICIANS KIDNAPED

McClure, State Legislator, and DeVaney, Tax Collector, 'Taken for Ride,' Robbed

Police are searching for two bandits who last night at the point of guns ordered State Representative James H. McClure and Grover C. DeLaney, Grassport tax collector, into the back seat of Delaney's automobile, parked in Monongahela avenue, Glassport, and drove the men to a hollow at Lovedale, where they robbed them.

At the lonely spot the bandits took wallets, watches and several pieces of jewelry and drove off in the machine. Neither of the victims secured a description of the holdup men.

KIDNAPED FROM PORCH

Both men were sitting in front of McClure's residence, talking over politics, DeLaney said, when the two men came up to them.

One of the holdup men opened a door and attempted to get in.

"What do you want?" McClure asked.

"Come on and get out, we are going to take you two for a little ride," McClure said the bandits told him.

When the victims refused, the bandits pulled guns and said, "Both you guys get into the back seat and make it snappy."

FORCED ONTO FLOOR

McClure and Delaney complied and while one of the holdup men drove the other forced them to the floor in the rear and guarded them at the point of a gun.

When Lovedale Hollow was reached after a 15-mile drive, the victims were searched and tied. The bandits drove away with the machine.

With no houses in sight and with a cold rain drenching them, McClure and Delaney managed to free themselves of their bonds and reached the road. There they awakened an acquaintance of Delaney, who returned them to Glassport.

Delaney saved a diamond ring by slipping it from his finger into his shoe. Later the bandits ordered him to remove the shoe, but he protested because "of the wet and cold weather." He was allowed to keep his shoes on.

Honolulu 'Hickman Slayer' Dies Today

HONOLULU, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—F. Fukanaga, confessed kidnaper and "Hickman slayer" of the 10-year-old son of the prominent Jamieson family, was to die on the gallows here this morning.

Fukunaga's parents visited him for the last time yesterday while workmen were erecting the scaffold in the Territorial prison. Since the failure of his appeal to the United States Supreme Court, Fukunaga has spent his time in reading religious literature and in meditation.

French Fliers Plan Round-World Hop

FORD IN PITTSBURGH

HENRY FORD F. A. MERRICK

Mr. Merrick, president of Westinghouse Electric, leaving Pennsylvania Station today with Mr. Ford, whom he greeted upon Ford's arrival for a short visit in Pittsburgh.

CAPITAL PAYING GOOD HOMAGE

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—The capital was in mourning today for James W. Good, of Iowa.

Tomorrow state services will be held in the East Room of the White House for the Secretary of War, who died last evening after a valiant fight against the ravages of peritonitis which followed an appendicitis operation. All the honors that official and diplomatic Washington can pay will be bestowed upon the dead cabinet officer.

Burial will be in the family plot at Cedar Rapids, Ia., on Friday. Mrs. Good, the widow, plans to take the body out of Washington on the Capital Limited, Wednesday afternoon.

MILITARY HONORS

Secretary Good's death had been a foregone conclusion for hours. Although he fought desperately, the attending physicians lost all hope Sunday night, and from then on the end was only a matter of hours. He died peacefully, for he had been in a state of complete coma for some time.

It was at the suggestion of President and Mrs. Hoover that Secretary Good will be accorded a state funeral.

No 'Word' From Girl Airplane Suicide

YONKERS, N. Y., Nov. 19.—(INS.)—The spirit of Ruth Rockwell, 19-year-old girl who leaped to death from an airplane, has not yet made an appearance, her brother, Donald Rockwell, revealed today. In a note left behind, Miss Rockwell promised to communicate with her relatives every evening after her death.

FORD GETS GIFT ON VISIT HERE

Henry Ford came to town today and was presented with, to use his words, "a priceless" gift by the Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company.

The gift was an illustrated history of electricity—an exhibit of 600 pieces, inventions, for the most part, of Westinghouse engineers.

GIFT PRICELESS

This is priceless, Ford described. "It is the perfect link in the record of electricity's development. It is an education in itself for students."

After Mr. Ford had spent more than an hour inspecting the exhibit, which was set up for him, engineers began tearing it down for removal to Detroit. There it will become part of Ford's village of antiques at Dearborn.

Ford's description—"priceless"—seems to fit the exhibit best. A Westinghouse official said that, inasmuch as the exhibit could not be duplicated, it was difficult to value it in terms of dollars.

EN ROUTE TO WASHINGTON

Ford reached Pittsburgh at 7:30 a. m. in his private car, attached to a Pennsylvania Railroad train. At 9:30 o'clock, after he had breakfasted in the car, he was

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—A series of business clinics intended to provide an antidote for the attack of commercial colic brought on by too much stock gorging opened at the White House this morning with President Hoover occupying the role of chief diagnostician.

Today's conference, first of a series that will bring every phase of the nation's business activity under rapid scrutiny during the next 10 days, brought a dozen railroad leaders to the White House to discuss with Mr. Hoover their problems, and to hear from him what measures he believes should be taken at this time to restore the public confidence that is so essential to prosperity.

U. S. LEADS WAY

The President pointed out to his guests that the federal government already has shown the way—by decreeing a material reduction in personal and corporate income taxes and by deciding to increase enormously the public buildings program in the emergency.

The cumulative effect of these federal steps is bound to be beneficial, in Mr. Hoover's opinion, and he sugegsted to the railroad presidents that they can contribute greatly to the result by following the government's example in their own building and expansion activities.

The railroads' annual bill for new equipment and improvements is approximately $1,000,000,000 in ordinarily good times. Due to the collapse in security prices and a slight falling off of business, many railroads have been curtailing somewhat their

Realtor Dragged Out Of Sickbed to Court

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—His clients charging that a shortage of $150,000 exists in his accounts, William Hardt, president of a real estate loan firm, was to be brought into Felony Court today on a stretcher. Police went to Hardt's home last night, bundled, the real estate dealer out of his sickbed and removed him to the Bridewell Hospital under arrest. He is charged with larceny by bailee.

Primo Rivera Denies King Asked He Quit

MADRID, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—Primo Rivera emphatically denied to International News Service reports King Alfonso had recommended he relinquish his dictatorship.

"The report the King had spoken to me and asked for a change in government, proposing Duke Albas as my successor, is absolutely untrue," declared Rivera.

Lindy's Injured Shoulder 'Out' Again, Replaced

ENGLEWOOD, N. J., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Authorities at Englewood Hospital today said X-ray photographs revealed that a dislocation of the shoulder received by Col. Charles A. Lindbergh in an airplane mishap in Mexico last winter had "snapped out" again. The shoulder was reset by Dr. Walter Phillips, it was announced, and the famous flier suffered no ill-effects.

The X-ray plates were made Sunday at the hospital upon Lindbergh's application. He has been staying with his wife here at the home of her father, Dwight W. Morrow, ambassador to Mexico.

Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh left the home of the latter's parents here yesterday afternoon and registered at a hotel in New York.

Col. Lindbergh dislocated his shoulder February 27 at Valbuena flying field, Mexico City, when he landed on one wheel a plane in which he and his then fiancee were flying.

FATHER'S PITY FOR GIRL BLAMED IN SLAYING, SUICIDE

BANKER ENDS OWN LIFE IN AUTO

Invalidism of Daughter, 17, Held Incurable, Believed Responsible for Deaths

International News Service.

TWO HARBORS, Minn., Nov. 19.—The suffering of John A. Barton's 17-year-old invalid daughter proved too much for the sympathetic father and today both lay dead here, the girl a victim of her father's revolver and the parent a suicide.

Barton, who was president of the First National Bank here and one of the community's most highly respected citizens, had given the girl every care his wealth could purchase.

But medical science pronounced the case of Beatrice hopeless. She was deaf and dumb and her imbecility was impossible to cure.

Other members of the family noticed Barton's depression deepening of late.

TOOK GIRL FOR "DRIVE"

Father and daughter were last seen alive together Sunday morning when he left Isabelle and Audrey, two other daughters, at church, saying he wanted to drive around a bit and give Beatrice some fresh air.

Yesterday searching parties found the two bodies in the car which was parked on a lonely road near the village. The father had shot the ailing girl through the heart, then he turned the gun on himself. The first bullet pierced his arm. The second went above the heart and the third pierced his heart. The gun was still clutched in his hand.

SPECIALISTS FAIL

For years the loving father had grieved over the condition of his daughter. Other of his children were normal. Specialists from all parts of the world were summoned in attempts to aid the girl with the child-like mind, but all treatments failed.

Doctors pronounced the girl incurable. With all hope of ever seeing his daughter like other young women discarded, the banker became even more depressed.

Sunday, before leaving for the church services he appeared even more depressed.

Friends and relatives could advance no other motive for the murder and suicide than that a loving father, grief-stricken, had stepped in to take matters into his own hands after everything else had failed.

SURPRISE PARTY FOR LANG, 64

Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, observed his sixty-fourth birthday today.

He had planned to go to his office as usual and to spend the day as he has other days. But his employes decided otherwise. They held a surprise party for him.

Walter Washington, messenger in Lang's office, conspired with Mrs. Lang and her sister, Mrs. Glen Aiken, and when the director appeared he found city officials, friends and his office employes awaiting him.

William A. Fox, engineer in charge of the division of streets, on behalf of other employes, presented him with a matched set of golf clubs and a bag. With Al McBride, "pro" at the Schenley Park links as his caddy, the director tried a few shots.

Girls in the office offered a huge birthday cake with 64 candles on it.

Mt. Lassen Volcano Activity Forecast

RED BLUFF, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Many earthquakes recorded on the seismograph of the Mount Lassen Volcano Observatory during the last few days presage volcanic activity in the extinct crater, R. H. Finch, volcanologist in charge of the station, said today.

The seat of the disturbances undoubtedly was at Mount Lassen, as the seismograph indicated the origin as 12 miles from the station, Finch asserted.

escorted to the Westinghouse plant at East Pittsburgh by F. A. Merrick Westinghouse president, and W. S. Rugg, vice president.

Late this afternoon he was to leave for Washington to attend President Hoover's conference of business leaders. He said he would not determine what his contribution to the conference will be until it is actually under way.

He did say, in the course of an interview: "Booze will never come back."

Following the inspection Ford had lunch with Westinghouse officials. Other Westinghouse officials who were his hosts were T. P. Gaylord, F. H. Shepard, J. S. Tutle and C. K. Lee.

Those of Ford's small party who accompanied him to the plant were his secretary, Frank Campsall, and James Bishop, director of his Dearborn museum.

TYPIST FIGHTS LOVE KIDNAPER

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Miss Margaret Carlin, a stenographer, was kidnaped last night by a man in a chauffeured motor car, but she fought so fiercely that her abductor finally threw her from the machine.

Her kidnaper, she said, was a middle-aged man wearing goggles. He demanded to know the address of John Buit, her fiance. He said he wanted to kill Buit.

The young woman was picked up hysterical from the street and taken to a hospital. She said she did not know the man who kidnaped her, but that he protested his love for her and swore death to her fiance.

Mrs. Fannie French, 65, a Negro, died in West Penn Hospital today as a result of burns received when her clothing caught fire from an open grate in her home, 3324 Ruthven street, shortly after midnight.

New York Editors Back Jailed Reporters

ROCHESTER, N. Y., Nov. 19.—Resolutions of "sympathy and approval" for the three Washington newspaper men imprisoned for refusing to divulge the source of information they printed on capital speakeasies, have been adopted by the New York State Society of Newspaper Editors.

The resolutions, adopted on motion of Dwight Marvin, of the Troy (N. Y.) Record, followed a discussion of methods for guarding newspapermen, as physicians and the clergy are protected in refusing to divulge confidential information.

RUSS CONTINUE RAIL ATTACKS

TOKIO, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Newspaper telegrams from Manchuria today seemed to indicate Soviet forces were pressing their attacks against Chinese troops simultaneously from both ends of the Chinese Eastern railway.

A Harbin message quoted a Chinese report that two Soviet airplanes bombed Khailar on the western section of the railway yesterday. At the same time several other aircraft bombed the Chinese military headquarters at Kahilan on the eastern section of the railway.

There was much uneasiness among the civilian population of the two cities.

WAR SECRETARY HERE IN OCT.

Secretary Good visited Pittsburgh just a month ago with three other members of President Hoover's cabinet to take part in the celebration of the canalization of the Ohio River. The Secretary of War showed keen interest in the waterway project and emphasized the desirability of co-operation between rail and water carriers.

Secretary Good, while here, took part in practically all of the official functions attending the cele-

Just before leaving for Washington last night James Francis Burke paid the following tribute to Secretary Good:

"Another political soldier has fallen in the trenches. He died in service.

"No figure in the White House will be missed more than the genial, kindly James W. Good.

"The country has lost a distinguished public servant. The President has lost one of his most valued counsellors, and I have lost one of the warmest friends of a lifetime.

"It seems but yesterday when he was here at my home in Pittsburgh with his fellow members of the cabinet.

"For 10 years we were close companions in Congress. We were comrades in several presidential battles. He was an adroit and diplomatic leader and schooled in political strategy."

sole Mrs. Good and to suggest that services be conducted in the East Room. Formal notification has gone out over the signature of Secretary of State Stimson to the highest officials, diplomatic corps, Congress and the Supreme Court.

Acting Secretary of War Patrick J. Hurley has taken charge of arrangements. A full military escort will accompany the body to the White House, and later to the station. The Senate and the House each will appoint committees of seven members to act as honor escort on the journey home. Flags on all government buildings were at half mast.

Mrs. Good was holding up fairly well under the strain. She had known that death was certain and the shock thus had been lessened. Her two sons will accompany her back to Iowa.

NOTABLE CAREER

Secretary Good was taken to the hospital a week ago today. Operation disclosed that he was suffering from acute, gangrenous, perforating appendicitis. The appendix was lodged so far down in the pelvic region that it required an hour and a half for an operation which usually requires only 15 minutes, and because of its rupture a local peritonitis prevailed at the time. The best medical skill in the country was employed in the effort to save his life, but conditions and his age—he was 63—were against him.

Secretary Good is the second secretary of war ever to die in office, the other one being John A. Rawlins, in the Grant administration, and the first cabinet officer to die in office since Secretary of Agriculture Henry W. Wallace died, early in the Coolidge administration.

The dead war secretary had to his credit a long career of public service. For 14 years—from 1909 to 1923—he served in the House of Representatives, being at the time of his voluntary retirement to resume the practice of law one of the outstanding Republican leaders. As a politician he had few equals, successfully conducting vital portions of both the Coolidge and Hoover campaigns. Mr. Hoover prevailed upon him to return to public life and enter the cabinet.

In addition to his widow, he is survived by his sons, James William, Jr., 19, and Robert Edmund, 12.

LONG EXPERIENCE

When James William Good became secretary of war in the cabinet of President Hoover, he was familiar with the needs of the Army through long legislative experience.

He had served as a member of the House of Representatives for 12 years, from 1909 to 1921, and rose to the important position of chairman of the House Appropriations Committee. In that capacity Mr. Good had much to do with the formulation of the appropriations for the War Department as he had specialized in the allottment of funds for military defense while serving on the committee.

Besides his familiarity with the needs of the War Department, he also was of assistance to President Hoover as a counsellor in matters dealing with legislation, particularly government financial affairs. While in Congress he had been one of the principal sponsors of the budget system and was able to advise the President on questions of centralizing government expenditures.

REWARDED BY HOOVER

The appointment of Good to the cabinet post was in recognition of his activities as "preconvention western manager" of the Hoover campaign, which led to the nomination of Mr. Hoover as the Republican presidential candidate at the Kansas City convention in 1928. During the campaign he was in charge of the western headquarters of the Republicans and was a leader in the task of winning the Middle Western farmers to the Republican standard.

Like President Hoover, Good was a native of Iowa, having been born at Cedar Rapids on September 24, 1866. After being graduated from Coe College in his native state and the law school of the University of Michigan, he entered upon the practice of law. In 1906 he was elcted to his first public office, city attorney of Cedar Rapids.

Upon the conclusion of his service in Congress he rturned in 1921 to law practice in Chicago, in which he continued until his appointment as Secretary of War.

MARRIED IN 1894

In 1894 Good married Lucy Deacon, of Cedar Rapids. They had two sons.

With the entrance of the United States in the World War in 1917, Good in Congress demonstrated his attitude towards national defense and American soldiers. He led the fight in the House against the opponents of the national defense act and successfully sponsored two amendments "to put teeth in it."

One amendment provided for the government's use of private facilities for the manufacture of munitions and armaments, while the other went further in providing that the government could take over a plant if its owners refused to give the government preference in orders during time of war. The latter was regarded as the first move towards the conscription of industry in time of war.

Good also sponsored the move to increase the pay of private soldiers and sailors on overseas duty from $15.50 a month to $30. When opponents of the measure tried to reduce the figure, the Iowan declared in the House:

"Let us not make this a rich man's war and a poor man's fight. There has been 'no give and take,' it has been all 'take'—take from the pay of the common soldiers of the United States."

GLADYS MOON JONES LEAVING SENATE BUILDING

BANKER CALLED IN LOBBY QUIZ

By EDWARD L. RODDAN.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—The Senate Lobby Committee has summoned Fred I. Kent, New York banker, to appear Wednesday to explain his statement that the tariff attitude of the Democratic-Insurgent coalition was largely responsible for the stock market slump.

Kent is a director and former vice president of the Bankers' Trust Company.

In a speech last Monday night Kent said the plan of the Senate coalition to rewrite the rates of the Smoot-Hawley bill had brought a feeling of uneasiness in the business world which was reflected in the securities market.

HAWES PROTESTS

Business leaders were convinced, the banker stated, that if the coalition had power to prevent tariff increases, it might also decide to revise these rates downward.

Kent also charged that Congressional investigations were tending to lessen the confidence of business and industry.

The committee decided to call Kent, on demand of Senator Hawes (De , of Missouri, who charged on the Senate floor Saturday that the banker's statement was a form of "propaganda."

The committee will ask Kent what facts formed the basis for his charge that the attitude of the Democrats and Insurgents had affected the market adversely.

SUGAR QUIZ RESUMES

In calling Kent, committee members explained that they had no intention of starting a general inquiry into the market situation, which is beyond the scope of their work.

Hearings will be resumed today with the American and Cuban sugar lobbies still under examination. The witnesses summoned are S. H. Love, president of the U. S. Beet Sugar Association; W. L. Petriken, president of the Great Western Sugar Company; Dr. W. R. Cathcart, of the Corn Products Refining Company of New York, and John H. Carroll, local attorney.

Love and Petriken will be questioned generally about the efforts being made by beet sugar growers to obtain an increase in the present tariff rates on sugar. The committee already has developed that a vast nationwide propaganda mill has been at work for some time seeking to influence Congress on the sugar tariff.

CHARITY SUM NEAR HALF MILLION

Returns From Employe Group And House Canvass Speed Welfare Fund Toward Goal

Half a million dollars is the pledge of the people of Pittsburgh in four days' answer to the call of the Welfare Fund to assist 31 of the community's philanthropic institutions.

The exact figures when the tabulating machines closed yesterday afternoon were $498,867, but the money and pledges were rolling in so fast that the great automatic Hollerith enumerator lent by the United States Census Bureau offices could not keep up with the accumulating gifts. The effect of several thousand additional workers who entered the campaign Sunday was felt, and from now until the end of the canvass the tabulators will be far in arrears of the actual contributions.

MESSENGERS HELP

Returns from the hundreds of workers in the employe division and the house-to-house canvass sent the figures skyward. With all the leading business concerns and industrial plants joining in the campaign, Chairman F. J. Chesterman, directing the employe canvass, was overwhelmed by the activity of his subordinates. Western Union messenger boys organized for their own money-getting, the postal employes and men in other government offices, working as individuals, gave their assistance.

"The man in the street" has caught the spirit of the campaign, it was declared, and everywhere Pittsburghers are rallying to the support of the Welfare Fund. In the house-to-house canvass, Miss Elizabeth Wrenshall, chairman for Bellevue, turned in the first report. It was followed by those of other North Boroughs towns, and word reached the headquarters in the William Penn Hotel that the canvass was making good progress throughout the rural and suburban districts of the county.

WOMEN IN LEAD

Returns from the employe division leaped to $51,192 when the dead line was drawn on yesterday's tabulation and nipped off hundreds of other contributions which doubtless would have sent the totals much higher. These will be reported in tomorrow's returns.

The women's teams have gathered in $205,188 and the men are credited with $143,537. The Sewickley team is still running away, leading all the others, with a total of $97,732. Section No. 3 in the women's division, Mrs. John W. Lawrence, chairman, has reported $99,598 for five teams headed by Mrs. Joseph Dilworth, Mrs. George W. J. Bissell, Mrs. W. B. Trainer, Mrs. F. T. Willings and Mrs. F. C. Irish.

LESS DEATHS ON AIR LINERS

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—Only 16 pilots and passengers were killed on regularly-operated air lines during 1929 up to June 30, as compared with 22 fatalities during 1928, Maj. Clarence M. Young, Assistant Secretary of Commerce for Aeronautics, declared in his annual report made public today.

Other features of the report are:

Fatalities on regularly-operated airways from 1918 to June 30, 1929, numbered 58 pilots and 21 passengers;

The total mileage flown by mail and transport operators during 1929 was 9,206,776 miles;

The number of airplane miles per pilot fatality in the first half of 1929 was 1,063,296 for contract air lines as compared to 1,120,613 miles per pilot fatality during 1928.

Flier to Hunt Eielson, Wrecked in Far North

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Preparations for an aerial expedition to go to the aid of Carl Ben Eielson, noted Arctic aviator, whose wrecked plane was reported seen on the icebound coast of Siberia nine days ago, were being made at Teller, Alaska, today by his companion flier, Frank Dorbrandt.

Word that the wreckage of Eielson's plane had been sighted 60 miles from the icebound fur trading ship Nanuk, whose passengers and valuable cargo Eielson and Dorbrandt had been removing to Alaska by air, reached here yesterday but there was no information as to the fate of the explorer himself.

Since the news of the wreck came by radio from Nanuk it was presumed that natives traveling along the coast with dog teams had sighted Eielson's plane and had brought word of it to the ship. A mechanic named Borland was with Eielson when the explorer last was heard from directly.

Conditions for rescue work were reported to be adverse, with a blizzard raging at Teller.

Dorbrandt and Eielson each had made one trip from the Alaska mainland to the Nanuk and return, bringing six of the ship's passengers and valuable loads of furs.

Couple Married 78 Years Hit Modern 'Evils'

COLUMBUS, Ga., Nov. 19.—(AP).—Expressing opposition to companionate marriages, divorce, bobbed hair, short skirts, prohibition and petting parties, Mr. and Mrs. A. O. Blackmar, believed to be the oldest married couple in the world, yesterday observed their seventy-eighth wedding anniversary.

The husband, who has lived an even century, and the wife who is two years his junior, look forward to several years more companionship.

Mr. Blackmar said that to be happily married a young man must "be judicious in his selection of a wife, know the young lady well and form a correct judgment of her and then after marriage keep in the narrow path prescribed in vows taken at the altar."

Mrs. Blackmar advised the young women about to be married to be "influenced only in her choice of a husband by her love and respect for him. Marriage for money or position in life doesn't bring happiness. A woman must regard, love and respect her husband if she is to contribute her share to marital bliss."

The aged wife believes it "makes no difference whether the word 'obey' is left in the marriage ceremony, a woman will do as she pleases about obeying her husband anyway."

As for companionate marriage and other "evils," of the jazz age, both were agreed these things would "wear themselves out before long."

From 6 to 6:30 p. m. last night a message from the couple was broadcast from radio station WDAF, Kansas City.

JURY CHOICE IN M'MANUS CASE SLOW

Single Talesman Accepted, Tedious Task Resumed at Rothstein Killing Trial

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN, International News Service.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—With one juror accepted, the tedious task of selecting a jury which will try George A. (Smiling George) McManus, race track bookmaker, for the murder of Arnold Rothstein, Broadway gambler de luxe, was resumed today before Judge Charles C. Nott, Jr., in the famous old Criminal Courts Building, which adjoins the Tombs.

This juror is Eugene A. Riker, a traveling salesman, who occupied the seat of "Juror Number Two." Just before court was adjourned late yesterday "Juror Number One"—William S. Simmons, a broker—was excused when he presented to the court a medical certificate showing that he was suffering from a serious stomach ailment.

BRIDGET'S BIG DAY

Bridget Farry, maid at the Park Central Hotel and one of the state's star witnesses, appeared in court today in scintillating costume for her big moment.

She wore a bright green dress, gold slippers and silver-colored stockings. A green ribbon tied around her long black hair crowned the dazzling effect.

Another star witness for the prosecution appeared in the person of Alvin C. Thomas, better known as "Titanic" Thompson, who arrived here from Milwaukee where he had been ill in a hospital.

Thomas' indisposition had delayed the trial from proceeding last Tuesday, the prosecution claiming its case would be injured if Thomas were not available.

The witness was accompanied by a detective and was kept incommunicado.

McManus, smiling and unconcerned, sits at defense counsel table watching with interest the work of picking the jury. He is a well dressed, strapping man, weight well over 200 pounds, black haired, dark complexioned, heavy jowled. He gives his lone attorney, James D. C. Murray, plenty of leeway, making no suggestions as the lawyer accepts or rejects talesmen.

McManus is standing trial alone. He is accused of having fired the shot on the night of November 4, 1928, that resulted in the death of Rothstein in Polyclinic Hospital two days later. Rothstein died without revealing who "plugged" him.

ENRIGHT TALKS

PARIS, Nov. 19.—Reiterating his assertions that he knows who killed Arnold Rothstein, notorious New York gambler, Richard J. Enright, former New York city police commissioner, added the information today that he may soon voluntarily reveal the name of the slayer and show proof of his contention.

In an exclusive interview with International News Service here today, the former New York police head ridiculed the placing on trial of George A. McManus on charges of murdering the underworld leader.

SHOCKS FELT OVER WIDE AREA

Tremors Extend From Halifax To New York for Hour; Skyscrapers Felt to Sway

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Broken china and pottery and smashed lighting fixtures constituted the only damage done by the series of light earthquake tremore which shook the Eastern part of the United States and Canada, a checkup revealed today.

The shocks were felt throughout New England and Eastern Canada and in the metropolitan district for an hour, starting at 3:31 p. m. yesterday. The center of the disturbance, according to Dr. J. J. Lynch, director of the seismological laboratory of Fordham University, was about 880 miles north of New York.

SKYSCRAPERS SWAY

The quake, according to belief in scientific circles here, probably originated in the St. Lawrence Valley, source of many previous shocks and the origin of the severe quake which shook New England and Eastern Canada on February 28, 1925.

While Weather Bureau officials in New York were disinclined to connect the two events, an abnormally high tide ran along the seacoast at the time the tremors were in progress. Thousands of dollars in damage was done at maritime points near New York by the tides, while floods were reported at Winthrop, Mass., when the breakers crashed over the sea wall.

TIDE RUNS HIGH

The shock was felt all the way from Halifax, N. S., to New York. Several skyscrapers in this city, according to reports, were felt to sway slightly, but no damage was reported. Many persons declared pictures were knocked askew on the walls and crockery sent hurtling.

While the main tremors ceased an hour after they began, intermittent shocks were felt throughout last evening, but from no quarter were reports of extensive damage received.

NOVA SCOTIA DAMAGED

HALIFAX, N. S., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Shattered chimneys, collapsed barns and broken dishes today remained as evidence of the most severe earthquake ever recorded in Nova Scotia.

The shock continued for about two minutes, startfig at 4:32 p. m. yesterday, and extended with about equal intensity to New Brunswick and Newfoundland.

In Nova Scotia a dozen chimneys crashed at Sydney and two at Kentville. Several barns collapsed in the outlying sections. Stocks of goods in many stores were thrown to the floor and dishes in homes broken.

OFFICES IN PANIC

Office staffs in Halifax buildings were thrown into confusion and several persons fainted. A scene shifter at a theater fell 20 feet, but escaped injury.

In New Brunswick the shock was severe enough to send occupants of the taller buildings at Moncton to the street to ascertain the cause of the disturbance. Employes on the sixth floor of a building said it swayed so much they became faint.

The tremor was distinctly felt throughout Newfoundland and several telegraph cables off the island were broken.

STUDY SCHOOLS FOR POLL USE

Acting on a recommendation of Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, County Commissioners yesterday named County Solicitor W. Heber Dithrich to head a committee to consider use of county schools for voting places. The committee will confer with directors of schools throughout the county.

James E. Routley, assistant chief clerk in the commissioners' office, said that 90 per cent of the schools in Pittsburgh are used as polling places. Commissioner McGovern suggested that in the county schools be dismissed election day in order that buildings could be used for voting purposes.

PRISON CHANGE AWAITS BOARD

Proposed plans for converting the Parkview prison into a detention building to house untried prisoners will be submitted at a meeting of the county prison board December 2, it was announced at a meeting of the board yesterday. Judge James R. Macfarlane, president of the board, presided.

John McGruder, of Pittsburgh, working for Dr. Leon Stern, of Philadelphia, reported that he has completed his study of local conditions. The object of the survey is to determine if it is best to use the present structure, erect a new one or select another location for the prison.

DETROIT MAYOR VOTE O.K. DENIED

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Circuit Judge Alfred J. Murphy today signed a temporary restraining order and an order to show cause, restraining the board of city canvassers from issuing Charles Bowles his certificate of election as mayor of Detroit.

The writ, asked by John W. Smith, the defeated candidate, was made returnable one week from today, at which time Judge Murphy will hear arguments on an application for a temporary injunction.

The application for the writ was based on allegations of fraud in the municipal election November 5.

Smith lost the election to Bowles by 8,462 votes, according to final recount figures announced today.

HOTEL AT 'CURE' SHRINE URGED

International News Service.

MALDEN, Mass., Nov. 19.—With many prominent names being added daily to the list of thousands thronging to the grave of the Rev. Patrick Power seeking surcease from bodily ills, Holy Cross Cemetery officials today were conferring with police on the advisability of establishing regular hours for visiting the newly-established shrine.

So great has become the demand for lodging by visiting pilgrims a representative of a large hotel chain is reported seeking options on land across the street with the purpose of erecting a hotel if the miraculous curative powers attributed to the tomb become permanent.

Defying a drenching rain and biting winds, some 25,000 visited the grave yesterday. Among the vast throng was Jack Sharkey, heavyweight boxer, who knelt beside the tomb and prayed for the recovery of his daughter, Dorothy, 4, who was born with little vision in her left eye.

The cure-seekers disregarding the rain-drenched ground, knelt on the muddy soil, many of them smearing mud on their limbs and faces in the hope that cures would be effected. Two statues of the Virgin Mary were left on the grave, adding to the collection of objects which have been placed on the tomb.

RESIDENTS ASK SIDEWALKS

A communication from Ralph Artuso asked Council to order the construction of a sidewalk in front of his property at 634 Hillsboro street.

L. N. Kloppman, of 1300 Queensbury street, has requested a boardwalk or a cinder path on Queensbury street and Lynch street, Twenty-eighth Ward.

Council has been petitioned to order the construction of a boardwalk on Hethlon street from Behern street to Coverdale street.

Property owners and residents have made a written request for the erection of steps from Evergreen road to Waldorf street.

Joseph Baier, of 643 Chess street, has complained of the neglected condition of the roadway of Chess street, Nineteenth Ward.

A letter from the Young Men's Polish Association stated that a city owned retaining wall is menacing the club's property at 941 Herron avenue.

4 Bandits Posing As Musicians Get $2,000, Gems

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Four men wearing dinner coats and posing as musicians, entered an apartment in West Sixty-eighth street last night and held up and robbed Carmine Lombardo, orchestra leader, his wife and a woman guest of $2,000 and jewelry valued at $20,000.

A fifth man waited downstairs at the wheel of an automobile. After sealing their victims' mouths with adhesive tape and binding them with rope, the four men escaped.

Lombardo is the leader of the Hotel Roosevelt Orchestra, and police said that the $2,000 was to have been paid to the members of the orchestra.

BABE FOUND IN AUTO CLAIMED

Oakland police last night had visions of another abandoned baby case when Patrolman Louis Lefkowitz walked into the station with a 10-months-old girl in his arms.

Lefkowitz found the baby asleep in the seat of a coupe owned by E. W. Thompson, of 943 Ramsey street, Wilkinsburg, which was parked in front of Duquesne Garden. Thinking her abandoned, he took her to the station. The automobile was ordered towed in.

The case was cleared in less than 30 minutes when Thompson informed police that the baby had been left in the car by her mother, Mrs. Charles M. Karl, of 1834 North Grant avenue, Kittanning, while she watched Thompson and her sister skating in the garden.

"Mrs Karl didn't want to disturb Sally because she was asleep," Thompson explained to police. "She ran out of the garden every few minutes to watch the baby."

GALE MENACES MAWSON SHIP

By SIR DOUGLAS MAWSON, Commander of the British, Australian and New Zealand Antarctic Research Expedition.

S. S. DISCOVERY, Nov. 19.—The Discovery beat its way back to the northeast coast of Kerguelen Island at dawn Saturday, when a rising wind changed its direction, making further progress impossible.

The accompanying heavy snow squalls, obscuring the view, resulted in a few anxious hours for such a low-powered ship as the Discovery. By afternoon the danger cleared, and Capt. John King Davis set the course up Royal Sound, arriving by evening at the coal depot, left for us by the Irving Johnson Whaling Company.

The 30-mile journey up the sound was of remarkable interest, the scenery revealed along the winding waterway dotted with innumerable islets proving entrancing. The lower country is carved by an extensive ice sheet, which is also responsible for the labyrinthic fiords—narrow channels that are the most prominent feature of this coastal region.

Dominating all were volcanic peaks unnumbered, carrying the marvelous picture to the clouds. The whales and sea birds of every description, sporting in the landlocked waters, little noticed the intrusion of the Discovery.

East End Woman, Hurt on Car, Sues

Alice Wilson, of the East End, filed suit against the Pittsburgh Railways Company in Common Pleas Court, seeking to recover $15,000 for personal injuries. While attempting to board a street car at Agnew street and Lincoln avenue, December 31, 1928, it was suddenly started as she had one foot on the step and she was thrown forcibly to the street and sustained serious injuries, according to the allegations. She alleged that her condition was aggravated when she boarded the car after being thrown to the street and a delay in obtaining medical attention resulted when the car broke down and a transfer to another car was necessary.

Long Term in Pen Given for Robbery

Following his conviction on two counts of robbery, Joseph Gilhooley, 34, of 3134 Cabinet street, has been sentenced to serve from 6 to 12 years in the penitentiary by Judge Thomas D. Carnahan.

William Moody, manager of a chain store on Friendship avenue, and David Jenkins, manager of a store at Cypress and Millvale avenues, identified Gilhooley as the man who held them up October 5.

Menjou, Film Star, Goes Under Knife in Paris

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—Adolphe Menjou, famous motion picture star, was operated upon here today for appendicitis.

The operation took place at the American Hospital, where Menjou was rushed early this morning following a sudden attack.

Dr. Bove, physician who performed the operation, told International News Service that no complications had developed and that the patient was doing satisfactorily.

Menjou's wife, the former Kathryn Carver, also well known on the silver screen, was at her husband's bedside.

The attack came with alarming suddenness, as Menjou had given no previous dication of illness He was taken immediately to the American Hospital, and after a brief examination, an immediate operation was decided upon.

The Menjous have been in Paris for some weeks. The star is understood to have signed contracts with a number of French motion picture producing companies to make films here. He came to Paris following his retirement from pictures in America, where he was quoted as saying he was unable to obtain work because of his affiliation with the Actors' Equity.

Since his arrival here, Menjou has been staying at a local hotel, where he was stricken.

Society Wedding Called Off On Day of Ceremony

Mrs. Buchanan is the daughter of one of the city's oldest families. She was married to Thompson Buchanan, widely known playwright in New York in 1915 and was granted a divorce at Los Angeles in 1926.

WEST LEADERS O. K. HOOVER PARLEY

Chicago Merchants, Bankers Have Faith in President's Business Stabilization

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Chicago's business leaders have hailed with enthusiasm the announcement that President Hoover has called conferences of the nation's industrial, agricultural and labor captains "to assure the orderly march of business."

Heads of banks with many millions of dollars in resources, merchants whose activities extend into every corner of the country and through every social and economic level, and presidents of transportation lines tapping the great Middle West joined in their acclamations.

And significantly all of them viewed business conditions as reflected in their particular domains as giving every evidence of continued prosperity.

JULIUS ROSENWALD, chairman of the board, Sears Roebuck & Co: "President Hoover is performing very helpful service to his country in bringing these men to Washington to express their views as to what, if anything, should be done to quiet the fears of people who are liable to be pessimistic. I have every faith in Mr. Hoover's selection of the men whom he has invited to take part in the conferences.

DAVID R. MORGAN, vice chairman, National Bank of the Republic: The present pessimism is purely psychological and the assurances arising from the conferences called by President Hoover will have a powerful effect in restoring confidence. So far as I can see from my point of view as a banker American industry is in an excellent condition. Expressions from the leaders called together will help spread this view.

SILAS STRAWN, chairman of the board, Montgomery, Ward & Co.: As Secretary of Commerce, Mr. Hoover has always kept his fingers on the business pulse of the nation. Presumably what he is trying to do now is to get a complete picture of the situation as seen through the eyes of industrial leaders, as well as expert opinions on which to base concrete suggestions for improvement if necessary. This is an excellent thing. Mr. Hoover will probably find, however, that there is nothing basically wrong with our industries in spite of the natural pessimism of people caught in the stock market debacle.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Nov. 19.—President Hoover's plan to summon into conference industrial, agricultural and labor chiefs with the view of stimulating construction work and other business has been enthusiastically indorsed by Milwaukee leaders in the various branches of activity.

OSCAR F. STOTZER, president Milwaukee Association of Commerce: Inasmuch as there has been an upheaval in the stock market, which has created an uncertainty in the business, industrial and labor world, President Hoover's move is timely. The President apparently feels that, despite the stock market flurry, business is basically on a stable basis and that a coming together of leaders will bear out his belief and restore confidence. I look for direct, concrete results from such a meeting.

HERMAN FEHR, president of the National Bank of Commerce: President Hoover is to be commended for his prompt action. I believe it is a real honest effort to aid business. The conference of high government officials and leaders of the nation's business will result in many accomplishments, including the release of many governmental and private projects. This will tend to take up the slack caused by overproduction in the automobile business. Other industries are fundamentally sound.

J. J. Handley, secretary, Wisconsin State Federation of Labor and a pioneer in the organized labor movement—I think a great deal can be done through a conference of business and labor leaders as proposed by the President. Conditions are not as bright as they might be right now and there are many persons out of work. To the end that jobs can oe provided for the unemployed I feel that a conference will be beneficial.

W. W. Coleman, president, Bucyrus-Erie Company—I feel that the conference is in accord with the President's expressed ideas as to what should be done in a situation of this kind. It is an excellent idea. Any discussion will be of benefit. While I do not believe there is serious depression, the President undoubtedly is exercising foresight and calling this meeting as a precautionary step.

Hurt by Air Hose, Man Dies; One Held

Joseph Kubanze, 21, of 629 East Ninth street, Munhall, died in Homestead Hospital early today from injuries suffered Saturday when it was alleged several employes in the Mesta Machine Company plant, West Homestead, where he was employed, placed an air hose against his back. Louis Morinini, 20, of 658 Watson street, Hays Borough, was arrested a short time later by county detectives. He was to be turned over to the coroner today.

HOOVER PLEADS RAIL EXPANSION

PLEA TO "CARRY ON"

Such retrenching at a time like this cannot but help to contribute to the general decline of business, Mr. Hoover pointed out, for the railroads are the greatest users of steel, cement and other commodities, to say nothing of labor, and what the railroads are doing is reflected in almost every phase of the nation's business activity.

The President's appeal to the railroad leaders, therefore, was to "carry on" confidently in this present situation, and increase rather than diminish their commitments for progress and expansion. Such a policy inevitably would be reflected in the general business structure, it was pointed out.

Around the President's conference table were represented all but one of the major railroads of the East and some of the West. Th dozen executives represented not only the major lines, but through subsidiaries and branch lines, nearly the entire railroad world east of the Mississippi River.

LEADERS PRESENT

Among them were P. C. Crowley, president, New York Central; R. H. Aishton, president, American Railway Association; Fairfax Harrison, president, Southern Railroad; J. J. Pelley, president, New York, New Haven and Hartford; A. T. Dice, president, Philadelphia and Reading; W. W. Atterbury, president, Pennsylvania System; J. J. Bernet, president, Chesapeake and Ohio; F. W. Sargent, president, Chicago and Northwestern; Jeremiah Milbank, Southern Railroad, and L. F. Loree, president, Delaware and Hudson.

Besides Secretaries Mellon and Lamont, government officials attending the railway executives conference included Chairman Lewis of the Interstate Commerce Commission.

All of the railroad presidents who were invited were present with the exception of Daniel Willard, of the Baltimore and Ohio, who is ill with an attack of bronchitis.

GREETED BY MELLON

The railway heads were welcomed by Mr. Mellon who went from the cabinet room to the reception room to greet the officials, all of whom are well known to him personally.

The President called the conference to order in the cabinet room promptly at 11 a. m., and outlined his purpose in summoning the gathering. There followed a general discussion as to the part the transportation systems could take in the whole program to accelerate progress in the commercial, industrial and agricultural fields.

The railroad executives, together with many others, are now en route to the annual meeting of the American Railway Association in Chicago, so that they may go directly from the White House with Mr. Hoover's program and lay it before virtually every railroad executive of consequence in the country. In that sense, today's meeting was held at a most propitious time.

Mr. Hoover's advice to the railroad men to carry on with confidence and to accelerate their building and expansion plan is, in a general sense, what he plans to tell the other business groups who are to come to Washington to confer with him during the next week.

BASIC SOUNDNESS SHOWN

He will tell them that from the government's own knowledge of conditions, the basic business structure of the country is sound and healthy, that there exists no need for doubts or fears, and that if the business leaders of the country will keep their heads and look forward instead of backward, the effect of the recent stock market debacle can be speedily overcome.

The administration's decision to go ahead with a greatly increased building program is by itself no small gesture.

It will throw more than $200,000,000 into the general business pot in the immediate future.

SPEED TO BE SHOWN

Congress has already authorized the program but it had been planned to go leisurely at the task, appropriating relatively small amounts from time to time, for construction of needed public buildings in and out of Washington.

Now, the regular session of Congress that starts two weeks hence will be asked to appropriate the funds necessary to speed up the work.

Later in the day, another conference was scheduled with members of the advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board who, coming from all sections of the country, were enabled to lay before the President a vivid picture of credit and banking conditions the nation over.

STUDY BUILDING PLAN

Meanwhile, there was a close study of the Treasury Department's building program. Congress will be asked next month, Secretary Mellon said, to approve an increased appropriation of $175,000,000 for governmental building, bringi the total of authorization for this purpose to $423,000,000.

The funeral of the late James W. Good, secretary of war, will take place at the White House tomorrow, and out of respect for the memory of his cabinet officer, President Hoover has deferred until Thursday the scheduled conference with representatives of the United States Chamber of Commerce and business and industrial leaders. The meeting of agricultural spokesmen originally planned for Thursday has been indefinitely postponed.

The advisory council of the Federal Reserve Board is meeting in Washingtor to determine whether the rediscount rates of the 11 reserve banks outside of New York City shall be decreased. Its members come from the 12 federal reserve districts and it was regarded as a singularly fortuitous circumstance that they should be meeting in Washington coincidentally with the inauguration of Mr. Hoover's program.

tion to play in the Rose game if it is tendered.

Coast Team to Have Choice of Opponent

By MAXWELL STILES,
Special Correespondent

LOS ANGELES, Nov. 19.—No invitations to play in the annual New Year's Day East vs. West football classic at the Pasadena Rose Bowl will be extended by the Tournament of Roses until Saturday evening of this week, and then only to the university that is to represent the West.

The western school receiving the bid, and not the Tournament of Roses, will make the announcement thatit has been invited. In addition to this, the western university, instead of Pasadena officials, will invite the Eastern, Middle Western or Southern team which it chooses to play on January 1. The Tournament of Roses will have nothing to say about which of the several teams available is to be asked to face the Pacific Coast representatives.

This definite outline was given in very emphatic language to the writer last night by C. Hal Reynolds, president of the Tournament of Roses Association, which sponsors the game. Reynolds was prevailed upon to speak following receipt of telegrams from Pittsburgh and other sections of the country demanding some explanation of Pasadena's attitude in the matter.

UP TO WESTERN TEAM

"The Tournament of Roses, as is its custom in accordance with a rule of the Pacific Coast Conference, intends only to invite a Western team," Reynolds declared. "This invitation has not yet been made and will not be made until Saturday night at the earliest. It then will be purely the business of the Western team to extend an invitation to whatever opponent of the East, Middle West or South it deems most worthy or would prefer to meet."

It is no secret that California or St. Mary's College will receive the Pasadena invitation. Pittsburgh is the only Eastern team in the running, and the Panthers are very anxious to appear at Pasadena. Notre Dame is in the running if the Irish defeat Northwestern, while both Tennessee and Tulane still are to be considered. So is Purdue.

Reynolds would not officially admit that California is to be invited immediately after Saturday's game with Stanford if the Bears win or make a creditable showing. He said that St. Mary's is quite anxious to secure the date, but turned off without other reply than a smile intimation that Pasadena would not dare to go outside the Pacific Coast Conference in seuring a team.

ST. MARY'S IN RUNNING

On the other hand, there are intimations of other tournament officials that California is certain to get the bid unless badly defeated by Stanford, and, on the other, the plain fact that if California is beaten by whatever margin St. Mary's then would remain the only undefeated team in the west—a team, in fact, that outplayed California, several times threatened to score and never allowed the Bears to penetrate within the St. Mary's 40-yard line.

An informant closely in touch with sentiment in Berkeley last night wired the writer that it is the belief there that the Bears will accept if invited; that California prefers to play Pittsburgh, and that St. Mary's is so anxious to get the game that it is willing to meet anybody.

As to Pasadena's part in any feelers that might have been put out, Reynolds asserted that neither Pittsburgh nor Notre Dame—"nor any others"—had been approached either officially or otherwise. If such feelers have been put forth they must have come from some Pacific coast university which expects to get the bid and which is looking for an opponent, he said.

KEEN FOR IRISH

In summary, it seems safe to say that unless the Bears are badly beaten by Stanford, California will be invited Saturday night. California then will invite either Pittsburgh or Notre Dame, probably the former. If California loses badly to Stanford, the bid will go to St. Mary's and it is more than likely that the Gaels would prefer to meet Notre Dame than Pittsburgh, always providing that the Irish defeat Northwestern.

Popular opinion in Los Angeles esceems to be that Notr Dame would be a bigger attraction than Pittsburgh. This is because, if Knute Rockne has a backfield the equal of the "Four Horsemen," Mr. Los Angeles Fan wants to see it.

College Frat Rum Owner Given $500 Fine

URBANA, Ill., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—William Sherman, of Crown Point, Ind., one of three University of Illinois students arrested on charges of illegally possessing liquor during a raid on the Gamma Eta Gamma Fraternity house Sunday, pleaded guilty to the charges and was fined $500 and costs. Charges against the other two students were dismissed.

Sheman's fine and costs, the latter amounting to $21.40, were paid immediately by his father, George V. Sherman, Crown Point real estate operator. Both Mr. and Mrs. Sherman accompanied their son to court.

Those freed of the charges were Alfred J. Withers, of Hibbing, Minn., and Ernest Longbons, of Marion, Ill.

Ex-Employe Wins $15,311 P. R. R. Suit

Leo Manning, 24, electrician formerly employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, was awarded a verdict of $15,311.70 in Federal Court for injuries sustained February 3, 1928.

According to the testimony, Manning was repairing a company crane in the Conway yards when the crane was started and he was caught between the motor generator box and a steel girder.

EIELSON FLIGHT FATE MYSTERY

NOME, Alaska, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—The fate of Lieut. Carl Ben Eielson, veteran air pilot of the North, and a mechanic who accompanied him, on a mercy flight to Siberia, remained in doubt today.

Eielson has not been heard from since he left Teller, Alaska, 10 days ago to fly to North Cape, Siberia, to bring back members of the crew of the ice-bound trading ship Nanuk.

Pilot Joe Crosson from Fairbanks was expected to take off from Teller with the first favorable weather to verify reports that wreckage of Eielson's plane had been seen not far from the point at which the Nanuk is ice-bound.

Friends of Eielson here are hopeful that he will be found safe.

Eielson has had vast experience in flying the northern wastes. He piloted Sir George Hubert Wilkins in the explorer's flight from Point Barrow to Spitzbergen.

WOOD ALCOHOL KILLS MAN

CUMBERLAND, Md., Nov. 19.—Louis P. Van Dusen, Dallas, Tex., died at Allegany Hospital yesterday of alcoholic poisoning, according to police. His companion, T. J. Griffith, New Orleans, La., stated they had purchased wood alcohol at Clear Springs, Md., and denatured alcohol here.

Charles Van Dusen, Dallas, Tex., said to be a brother of the dead man, was notified. Van Dusen was a telegraph operator and followed race tracks. Griffith also is a telegraph operator.

Six Lost on Italia Held Officially Dead

ROME, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—The six members of the Nobile arctic expedition of 1928 who were carried away with the bag of the dirigible "Italia," have been declared legally dead by Italian authorities. This decision is based on the Italian civil code and the provisions of the merchant marine code regarding persons lost at sea.

MAN HURT BY BLOW-OUT

A sharp explosion, caused by burning out of a transformer on the Pittsburgh Railways Company side of the Duquesne Light Company sub-service station, West Liberty avenue and Saranac street, early today, gave the neighborhood a bomb scare and resulted in injury to a policeman.

The injured man was Patrolman Arthur A. McDonald, of 1207 Belasco street, reporting at Mt. Washington station, who was passing the power station.

McDonald started across the street to a fire alarm box and was struck by an automobile driven, police said, by J. B. Jackson, of 2825 Connecticut avenue, Dormont. Jackson was arrested on a reckless driving charge and sent to Mt. Washington station.

When firemen arrived at the scene after the accident to the transformer, which caused a sharp report, followed by a flash of vivid blue flame, they found no fire. Employes at the plant said the damage might amount to several thousand dollars, but after a checkup, R. S. McCarty, of the Duquesne Light Company, said the loss, confined to the transformer apparatus, would be only a few hundred dollars. The report of the blast was so loud that many residents near the power station thought that it had been caused by a bomb.

McDonald was taken to Mercy Hospital, where his condition was believed to be serious. He suffered several deep gashes in his head and injury to his arms.

War Bride Wins Divorce From Veteran

STEUBENVILLE, O., Nov. 19.—The end of the war meant the start of battle between Lena and Charles Meagher. He was a member of the American Army of Occupation that moved into Coblenz 11 years ago. There he married her, the petition alleges.

In Germany, everything was lovely but en route home he began abusing her. It has continued since, she claims.

The court granted her a divorce and allowed her $10 a week alimony as well as custody of the child.

VET INSURANCE TO CUT MELON

Veterans holding government life insurance policies will be parties to a "melon-cutting" of dividends in 1930, when an increase of $1,050,000 is added to the year's apportionment, all of which will total $7,300,000, the United States Veterans' Bureau has announced. Announcement of the increased dividend was made by Brig. Gen. Frank T. Hines, director. The increase will be nearly 7 per cent.

Pittsburgh veterans who carry the insurance policies will benefit, bureau officials said. Dividends are paid on the anniversary of the issuance of each policy.

WIDOW'S KILLER GIVEN LIFE

The drunken Negro who murdered Mrs. Mary Mulvehill, 75, a widow, with a hatchet, in her home at 802 Shaler street, West End, today was sentenced to life imprisonment rather than the electric chair.

Visiting Judge William T. Darr announced that he had taken into consideration the Negro's strange actions before the crime. Judge Darr fixed the crime as first-degree murder.

The Negro, Wilbert Rose, 34, of Steuben street, West End, who pleaded guilty yesterday, had been drinking before he entered Mrs. Mulvehill's home, according to testimony.

When Mrs. Mulvehill discovered him ransacking her home, he attacked her with a hatchet.

Say Wives Deserted, Two Ask Divorces

Two suits for divorces were filed in Common Pleas Court in which wives were alleged to have deserted their husbands. John Karl, 22 Merritt avenue, Carrick, asked a divorce from Margaret J. Karl, 42 Laclede street, East End, alleging desertion November 26, 1925. Edward Hughes, 4310 Stanley street, Greenfield, asked a divorce from Sarah Hughes, 1101 Ridge avenue, North Side, stating she deserted him without just cause June 5, 1926.

Tax-Protection Rum Plan Seen As 108 Plead

COUER D'ALENE, Ida., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—One hundred and eight prisoners, most of them liquor law violators, pleaded in Federal Court as an overture to what prohibition agents termed the exposure of the most unusual system of violations in their experience.

Information on the "unique system," made public in court, indicated that the charges against the officials involved a taxation plan which in reality, officers said, was a system of protection for bootleggers.

HAIR FASHION SHOW STAGED

Four hundred hairdressers from many points in Western Pennsylvania last night attended the forty-first anniversary celebration of the Edlis Barber and Beauty Supply Company in the Edlis Building, 329 Boulevard of the Allies, characterized as "Pittsburgh's First Style Show."

Twenty-five models were displayed, the 1929 styles in coiffure being arranged by Frederic Lichti, Frank Sraka, Emery Hajas and Felix Colle, Pittsburgh hairdressers, and Louis Trasport, of Aliquippa. Judges were Lillian Paterson, Mrs. J. E. Plymire, Eva Nadell, Robert Bishinger and Dr. E. A. McGinnis.

MEXICO REVOLT SCOUTED

MEXICO CITY, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—A published statement of Jose Vasconcelos, defeated Mexican presidential candidate, that he shortly would come to Mexico City was accepted here today as assurance he would attempt no armed movement at present in support of his claims of fraud in the election Sunday of his opponent, Pascual Ortiz Rubio.

Otherwise his statement, while claiming the election really was won by himself, indicated, it was believed, a disposition to wait and see what action the Mexican Congress would take.

A Guaymas dispatch to El Universal quoted Vasconcelos:

"I am the only person who has authority today in Mexico emanating directly from the people. I am the president-elect and I am only waiting for for Congress to give way before the evidence."

He said he would rest in Guaymas for a few days before returning to Mexico City. His trip to the capital was planned to put an end to rumors he would leave Mexico City for the United States.

Estimates of the National Revolutionary party on the total nation-wide vote showed, Pascual Ortiz Rubio, 1,424,140; Vasconcelos, 12,420, and Gen. Rodriguez Triana, Workers' party, 14,800. The states of Guerrero, Sinaloa, Sonora, Tamaaulipas and Zacatecas and the territory of Quintana were not included.

The Vasconcelistas claim they were victimized by the provision of Mexican law, which says the voting booths shall remain in the charge of the first nine voters arriving to cast their ballots. It so happened that throughout the country these first nine voters were partisans of the elected candidate, Pascual Ortiz Rubio.

Five Erie Autoists Taken to Hospital

GROVE CITY, Pa., Nov. 19.—Five Erie men are in a local hospital with injuries sustained in an automobile accident at McCoytown, near here. They are: Frank Althamer, Mike Cannavino, John Masselo, Joseph Chessario and P. J. Sandy. They were en route to Pittsburgh when their car left the road and turned over in a field.

WASHINGTON, Pa., Nov. 19.—Dr. W. W. Sprowls, 77, resident of Houston, former postmaster there and former member of the legislature, is dead in his home, following a lingering illness. He was a graduate of Western Reserve University. He leaves two sons.

J. & L. WILL PAY CITY FOR SEWER

Council has received an ordinance authorizing an agreement between the city and the Jones and Laughlin Steel Corporation, whereby the company would pay the cost of a reinforced section of a sewer crossing the company's property from Second avenue to the Monongahela River.

An ordinance for the construction of catch basins on Oakley way and intersecting streets from Sumner street to Arlington avenue at a cost of $3,000 has been presented to Council.

WIDOW HANGS SELF IN GRIEF

Grief over the death of her husband is blamed for the reported hanging of Mrs. Joanna S. Martin, 46, of 1166 South avenue, Wilkinsburg, widow of the former superintendent of Wilkinsburg schools.

Two daughters, Ruth and Helen, returning home from high school yesterday afternoon, were unable to gain admittance to their home.

They summoned neighbors, who forced an entrance and found Mrs. Martin dead, hanging from a closet door, according to the coroner's report.

The cause of death was given as strangulation.

Mrs. Martin, friends say, had grieved constantly over the death, during the Christmas holidays last year, of her husband, Prof. William H. Martin.

Writer, Native of Beaver Falls, Dies

INDIANAPOLIS, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Thomas A. Carroll, 51, widely known writer for hardware trade journals, died at his home here last night. He was born in Beaver Falls, Pa., and lived there until 1913.

Pal, Famous Dog Movie Actor, Succumbs

HOLLYWOOD, Cal., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—"Pal," one of the most intelligent and best-known dogs of the silver screen, died in the film capital yesterday.

"Pal" was a 14-year-old bull terrier and in his life he counted associations with most of moviedom's biggest stars. His face was familiar particularly to boys and girls for his parts in comedies of youth in which he played largely in late years.

Ten years ago "Pal" started his screen career with the famous Wallace Reid and from that point on he starred in movie dogdom.

In the past few months he failed rapidly from old age. He was owned by a kennel here.

Obituary

John T. Dale.

TIONESTA, Pa., Nov. 19.—John Taylor Dale, 81, former Forest County commissioner and for many years a resident of this place, died in the Masonic Home at Elizabethtown. He was born in Tionesta, the only son of James and Nancy H. Dale, early settlers of Forest County.

William B. Thorne.

William Byers Thorne, 61, died Monday at his home, 304 Craig street. Mr. Thorne was born in Beaver Falls, the son of the late Mary J. Thorne and Alexander C. Thorne, early settlers of that community. He was a member of the Second Presbyterian Church of Wilkinsburg. He leaves his wife, two sons, Howard F. and Woodburn B. Thorne, and a brother, Rob Roy Thorne.

Bowser Funeral.

MEYERSDALE, Pa., Nov. 19.—The funeral of William Bowser, 57, former proprietor of the Baltimore and Ohio Hotel opposite the Baltimore and Ohio station in Meyersdale, who died at Philipsburg, Pa., was held from the Church of the Brethren here, of which he was a member. At Philipsburg he operated a hotel, farm and some coal mines until illness obliged him to retire from business. He is survived by his wife, one son and four daughters. Emmanuel Bowser, this place, is his oldest brother.

BRITISH DELAY NAVAL WORK

LONDON, Nov. 19. — (AP).— Prime Minister MacDonald told the House of Commons that the government had ordered slowing down of work on the great Singapore naval base without formally consulting the dominions. He added that the dominions would be consulted before any decision was taken affecting the scheme as a whole.

Mr. MacDonald explained that the coming five-power naval conference might affect the question of the base, and, therefore, it had been thought desirable to close down or suspend certain work until the results were known. He referred his questioner, Lieut. Col. Howard Bury, Conservative, to the statement given several days ago by the Fifth Lord of the Admiralty, A. V. Alexander, who had said the dominions were notified of the decision.

Colonial governments had not been previously informed, the Prime Minister added.

Wheeling's Liquor 'King' Posts Bond

WHEELING, W. Va., Nov. 19.— While Department of Justice agents and deputy U. S. marshals were scouring the country for him, William (Bill) Lias, Wheeling liquor king, voluntarily appeared before U. S. Commissioner John W. Kindelberger and posted $3,000 for his appearance at the May term of the United States District Court.

Lias announced that he had been on a vacation in Cuba. He was indicted by a federal grand jury on three counts of conspiracy to violate the national prohibition law. He formerly served a term in Atlanta.

Firemen At Beaver Rename President

ROCHESTER, Pa., Nov. 19.— Councilman George E. Dietrich, Monaca, president of the Beaver County Firemen's Association, was nominated for re-election.

Other nominees are: David Buttermore, East Rochester, and Elmer Faust, New Brighton, first vice presidents; Lisle McGowan, Pulaski Township, and Earl Mowry, Ellwood City, second vice presidents; Joseph H. Goehman, Rochester, and Frank Kennedy, Pulaski Township, secretaries; George F. Snead, Freedom, treasurer; Earl Mowry, Ellwood City, trustee. The election will be in December.

2 Hurt At Ambridge In Auto Accidents

AMBRIDGE, Pa., Nov. 19.— Joseph Foreano, 8, suffered a fracture of the arm and bruises about the body when struck by an automobile, driven by Edward F. Dignan, Leetsdale.

Running into the fender of a car driven by H. E. Gardner, of Cleveland, O., Stanley Blinney, 22, sustained numerous cuts and bruises.

Annexation Urged In Two Districts

W. E. Armstrong, president of Baldwin township commissioners, has asked Council to hold a hearing on the proposed annexation of the Elwyn district of Baldwin township.

Mrs. Rose Reynolds and Frank Zager have written urging favorable action on legislation authorizing the annexation of a section of Penn township to Pittsburgh.

HUNT JAWORSKI PAL IN HOLDUP

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Search for Frank "Whitey" Kraft, member of the Paul Jaworski gang, was under way here after it became known that it was Kraft, wanted for killing a policeman during the holdup of the Detroit News business office, June 6, 1928, whom a bartender in a Hamtramck saloon wounded with an icepick last night during a holdup.

Police said they had been under the impression that Kraft had avoided Detroit since Jaworski, several months before his execution, in Pennsylvania, in January, 1929, named Kraft as one of the six men who held up the Detroit News. They believe now that the seriousness of his wounds may prevent flight from here.

Kraft was stabbed four times, twice in the shoulder and twice in the abdomen, by Joseph Stanley, a bartender in the saloon which Kraft and two companions held up. The bartender set upon Kraft as the gangster started to leave after he and two companions had taken $40 from patrons of the place. Stanley was shot in the hand during the battle, and Kraft with one of the three men escaped.

Joseph Janiak, the third man, was arrested and named his companions as Kraft and Frank Hallas. Hallas later was arrested on Janiak's information, according to police.

Pedestrian Struck By Auto Found Hurt

OIL CITY, Pa., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—A pedestrian struck by an automobile near here Sunday night, who was believed to have escaped uninjured, was found to have suffered two arm fractures, dislocation of the elbow and lacerations. The victim is Charles Robinson, of Nickleville, who has but one arm. The machine that hit him was driven by J. E. Taylor, of Emlenton, and Taylor and four members of his family were slightly injured when the car was steered into a ditch in the accident. It later developed that he was picked up by a passing automobile and taken to the home of a relative at Knox.

Royal Physician Now Italian Count

TURIN, Italy, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—The doctor who presided at the birth of Crown Prince Humbert a little more than 25 years ago had his reward on the occasion of the Prince's engagement to Princess Marie Jose of Belgium. He will henceforth be known as Count Giovanni Quirico, the royal family having ennobled him for more than 30 years' service to the house of Savoy.

Upper Potomac Coal Mines Running Full

WESTERNPORT, Md., Nov. 19.—Conditions have improved at the coal mines on the Western Maryland Railway in the Upper Potomac field. All the mines of the Davis Coal and Coke Company are running full. Buffalo mine at Bayard is unable to supply the demand for certain grades of coal.

CHINESE WARN ON PRIVILEGES

PARIS, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—China has warned the world that unless the treaty powers give up their special privileges in China, the new Chinese government may be forced to withdraw from foreigners their right of residence.

Resuming the offensive for the removal of extra-territorial rights that was begun at the September assembly session of the League of Nations, a Chinese delegate today told the international conference on the treatment of foreigners that the special privileges enjoyed by foreigners were incompatible with China's conception of her national dignity.

The conference took no action on the Chinese declaration.

Woman Penalized In Smuggling Case

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—Mrs. Charles H. Coit, of Fenway Hall, Cleveland, was penalized a total of $4,200 by Assistant Solicitor of Customs George H. Brewer. He charged Mrs. Coit failed to declare a quantity of jewelry and clothing when she returned from Europe on the Berengaria. Mrs. Addison Kelly, of Buffalo, accompanied Mrs. Coit.

Mothers, Mix This At Home for a Bad Cough

You'll be pleasantly surprised when you make up this simple home mixture and try it for a distressing cough or chest cold. It takes but a moment to mix and costs little, but it can be depended upon to give quick and lasting relief.

Get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. Pour this into a pint bottle; then fill it with plain granulated sugar syrup or strained honey. The full pint thus made costs no more than a small bottle of ready-made medicine, yet it is much more effective. It is pure, keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

This simple remedy has a remarkable three-fold action. It goes right to the seat of trouble, loosens the germ-laden phlegm, and soothes away the inflammation. Part of the medicine is absorbed into the blood, where it acts directly upon the bronchial tubes and thus helps inwardly to throw off the whole trouble with surprising ease.

Pinex is a highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway Pine, containing the active agent of creosote, in a refined, palatable form, and known as one of the greatest healing agents for severe coughs, chest colds and bronchial troubles.

Do not accept a substitute for Pinex. It is guaranteed to give prompt relief or money refunded.

GERMANY AIDS SOVIET FARMS

BERLIN, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—The German cabinet has decided to appropriate funds for relief of 10,000 German farmers in the Soviet union and appointed Daniel Stuecklen, member of the Reichstag, as relief commissioner.

A dispatch to Tageblatt from Moscow reported that 2,000 of these emigres had been arrested and forced to sign a declaration obligating themselves to return "voluntarily" to their home towns. Many were said to have signed only when threatened with deportation. Most of those leaving Russia are planning to settle in Canada.

"EVERYTHING I TRIED FAILED EXCEPT KONJOLA"

Stomach and Kidney Troubles Vanish When New Medicine Is Put to Work.

How much better to have health instead of wishing for it. Meet the Konjola Man nearest you. There is one at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, and another at Dow's Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Diamond and Smithfield Streets.

MR. PATRICK J. DEVLIN

Learn why it is that Konjola triumphs even after all else tried has failed. Hear of any number of actual cases of Konjola's amazing victories, as in the case of Mr. Patrick J. Devlin, 2125 Boustead Street, this city. His is a remarkable experience with this new medicine, but not an unusual one. It is just one of tens of thousands of other proofs of Konjola's merits. Konjola is a scientific blend of 32 ingredients that goes speedily to the ills of the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels, and is also recommended for rheumatism, neuritis, and nervousness. Profit by the experiences of others, and be guided by facts. Give Konjola the chance that Mr. Devlin did. Read, now, what he said to the Konjola Man:

"Everything I tried failed me except Konjola, and due to this really wonderful medicine I am enjoying health that I feared I would never have again. For four years I suffered from indigestion, kidney trouble, and constipation. Continual suffering from these ailments brought on nervousness, and my whole system became weak and rundown. Every meal was followed by pain and misery. I was forced to get up several times each night on account of irregular bladder actions. I feared I never would find a way of escape as medicine after medicine failed to give any relief.

"But what a change Konjola made in my life. My ailments were of long standing and were deeply seated, but Konjola seemed to go right to the bottom of my case and within two weeks I noticed some improvement. That gave me encouragement and I eagerly continued with the treatment. I did not miss a dose in the next few weeks and my reward is new health. My bowels are regular; my appetite is fine, and I eat what I want without the least indigestion. I sleep better and feel better than I have for years. Why, the change that Konjola made in me is almost beyond belief. I am fully convinced that Konjola was a lifesaver for me."

On such experiences rests the fame of Konjola, the medicine that has won and kept more than a million friends.

There is a Konjola Man in Pittsburgh at the Dow Drug Store (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, where daily he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this new compound. Konjola is also sold at all Dow Drug Stores in Pittsburgh and vicinity.

Crew-Levick Gets Two Service Firms

TITUSVILLE, Pa., Nov. 19.—Negotiations have been completed for the Cities Service Company, through its Pennsylvania subsidiary, the Crew Levick Company, is taking over the holdings of the Consolidated Service Stations Company and the Towco Filling Station Company, two Titusville organizations distributing gasoline and oil in Crawford and Erie counties.

Wedding Liquor Brings Workhouse

WAYNESBURG, Pa., Nov. 19.—Five gallons of liquor which he had secured for his wedding celebration, landed Louis Nebrosky, of Mapletown, Green County, in the Allegheny County workhouse, for three months. When he appeared for sentence Nebrosky told Judge Sayers that he had secured the liquor for his wedding. Three other liquor law pleaders were each fined $200.

POWER AUDITS PROPOSED

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18.—(AP.)—Predicting that either the federal or state governments would take over all the power projects authorized by the Federal Power Commission at the end of the 50-year licenses, Representative Arentz (Rep.), of Nevada, said government appraisers should be allotted to the commission to determine construction costs of the projects.

Arentz introduced a bill to authorize the commission to request the President to designate auditors and accountants from the War, Interior and Agriculture departments for the appraisal work.

Under licenses granted power enterprises by the power commission the federal and state governments have the authority to take over the projects at the end of 50 years, provided the concerns are reimbursed for their investments.

R-101 TRIUMPHS OVER FOG

CARDINGTON, England, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Despite a fog blanket that covered all the midlands and southern section of the British Isles, delayed railway traffic, and held ships in port, Britain's great new dirigible R-101 yesterday completed her longest flight since her launching.

Leaving her mooring mast Sunday morning with technical experts and the crew aboard, the airship sailed to Newcastle in Northern England, and then by way of Edinburgh and Glasgow to Belfast in Northern Ireland. From Belfast she zig-zagged down the Irish sea, passing over the Isle of Man, Blackpool, Dublin and Holyhead. She returned home this afternoon by way of Chester and the midlands.

The flight lasted more than 30 hours and was completed without a hitch. Maj. G. H. Scott, commander of the R-101 was enthusiastic over the results. He said that the airship had maintained an average cruising speed of 60 miles per hour and made satisfactory turning trials during the night.

The persons aboard rarely glimpsed the ground today because of the fog, and Maj. Scott brought the dirigible home earlier than he had expected in order to reach the mooring mast before darkness added to the difficulties caused by the fog.

Dispute Over Hat Held Murder Cause

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 19.—A hat belonging to Steve Garlich, 35, now in jail charged with the murder of George Marcotta, 37, is said to have started the argument that ended in the fatal shooting of Marcotta Sunday evening at Carbon, west of the city. The wounded man was hurried to the Youngstown City Hospital where he died. Constable William Edwards, of Hillsville, arrested Garlich. Marcotta was shot four times.

Aide to Marry Admiral's Daughter

RIO JANEIRO, Brazil, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Mrs. Noble Irwin has announced the engagement of her daughter, Phyllis, to Lieut. Commander Charles A. Lockwood, U. S. N., aide to Admiral Noble Irwin, chief of the American naval mission to Brazil. The date for the wedding has not yet been set, but it probably will be in January.

Ishbel MacDonald Joins Language Committee

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Ishbel MacDonald has become a member of the education committee of the English-Speaking Union since her return from her American tour with her father.

Ishbel, who is keenly interested in all educational problems, is anxious to learn more of the educational systems of the English-speaking countries. She is already a member of the education committee of the London County Council.

STOP BAD BREATH

Thousands of people afflicted with bad breath find quick relief through Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets. The pleasant, sugar-coated tablets are taken for bad breath by all who know.

Dr. Edwards Olive Tablets act gently but firmly on the bowels and liver, stimulating them to natural action, clearing the blood and gently purifying the entire system. They do that which dangerous calomel does without any of the bad after effects.

Olive Tablets bring no griping pain or any disagreeable effects.

Dr. F. M. Edwards discovered the formula after 20 years of practice among patients afflicted with bowel and liver complaint, with the attendant bad breath.

Olive Tablets are purely a vegetable compound; you will know them by their olive color. Take nightly for a week and note the effect. 15c, 30c, 60c.

YES, PEBECO DOES MORE THAN CLEAN

There is no royal road to the charm of beautiful teeth. Neglect them and sooner or later you pay in pain. But use PEBECO Tooth Paste twice daily and you soon realize there is a dentifrice that does more than clean. Pebeco actually checks the mouthacids which cause decay. It stimulates the flow of the salivary glands which neutralize the food-ferment acids. If you delay giving Pebeco a week's test you cheat only yourself.

30 ASSESSORS BACK, 12 OUT

Thirty of the 42 employes of the Board for the Assessment and Revision of Taxes who were laid off last week have been ordered by George J. Schad, chairman, to return to work.

No such orders have been given to 12 others, including John Carson, who was active for Councilman James F. Malone in the primary contest.

Schad, who insisted that the men were laid off because of lack of funds and denied rumors of political retaliation, said he ordered the 30 to return after securing $21,000 from the County Commissioners yesterday.

Those still off the payroll are Carson, James Coyle and John Martin, clerks in the transcribing room; Ellsworth Lawler, Thomas Barnes, Otto Espy, of Harrison Township; Martin Harmon, of Crafton; Arthur Kennedy, of Wilkinsburg; Harry Harrison and John T. Thompson, assessors.

The assessors are laid off when they finish the work in their districts, Schad declared.

STORMS DELAY WILKINS PARTY

By CAPT. SIR HUBERT WILKINS
Commander of the Second Wilkins-Hearst Antarctic Expedition.

DECEPTION ISLAND (Antarctica), Nov. 19.—(Via S. S. Melville and KUP, San Francisco Examiner Wireless Station)—Winds of gale-like force, rains and sleet have confined us to indoor work, thus delaying our preparations.

Alternating freezing and thawing temperatures, such as we are experiencing, create the worst possible conditions on the harbor ice from which we hope to take off from Deception Island.

Newly-formed ice coats our machines and every stationary thing. Tarpaulin covers, when moved, crack like shattered glass.

The Melville is moored near the beach, a long floating gang-plank extending from ship to shore. On days like today the gangway, ice-covered, becomes as slippery as the proverbial eel.

Several times the winds blew our feet from under us and we narrowly avoided duckings in the chilly water by clinging desperately to the ice-covered planks and progressing on hands and knees.

The barometer indicates the weather will improve.

Novelty Musicians Make Radio Debut Tonight

By DARRELL V. MARTIN, Sun-Telegraph Radio Editor

WHAT music can be coaxed from a bicycle pump and a toy balloon will be radioed for the first time tonight fhen the Weaver Brothers do their tricks before an NBC microphone.

Peter Higgins, tenor, a hometown boy whose heart once thrilled to face the microphone at WJAS, will also be heard on the RKO Hour, to be heard in Pittsburgh at 10:30 through WCAE.

A trumpet quartet will give a "Fantasy on Popular Songs" during the Prophylactic Music over WCAE at 8:30 o'clock.

The old favorite collegiate love song, "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," will be included in Paul Whiteman's repertoire on the Old Gold Hours, WJAS at 9 p. m.

The Dutch Minstrels, KDKA at 9:30, have a bang-up entertainment.

Stamp collecting is the pastime of Bill Behrenberg, KQV pianist, who does a lot of his own arranging. Bill has a West Indies issue that catalogues at $650 and his collection is said to be valued at $2,000.

Besides banging the piano Bill toots a sax and plunks the banjo.

Mrs. I. William England, who studied under I. N. Shepard, New York, nationally famous authority on bridge, will discuss the game with the WCAE audience every Wednesday morning at 11:45, starting tomorrow.

STOPPIT! Wheeling fans complain that WWVA is interfering with KDKA programs.

Whistling in a dressing room is a sure omen of bad luck for the actor, but such superstitions do not obtain in broadcast studios, says Paul Oliver, whose lucky day is Friday, the thirteenth, and whose encore on the Palmolive Hour is usually "No. 13."

"Jonesy," the Negro night attendant at KDKA, has a remarkable memory.

Allan Machesney's child, Leroy Donald, is sporting two new teeth.

Sanderson and Crumit.
Tonight Frank Crumit and Julia Sanderson will be guests of "Capt. Blackstone," the philosophical old Cuban tobacco planter, aboard his yacht, "sailing" the West Indian waters that have been historically famous since Columbus first discovered them. The Captain's own guitar orchestra will play several popular Cuban and Spanish airs.
Among the numbers Frank and Julia will sing are "Don't Ever Leave Me," from the new musical comedy hit "Sweet Adeline;" "Old Fashioned Love" and "Garden in Sweden." Frank is scheduled to do two old favorites, "Steamboat Bill" and "Sweet Alice from Dallas," accompanying himself, of course, on his ukelele. For her solo

FOSHAY ACTION AIDS CREDITORS

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Friendly receivership action involving the three W. B. Foshay Holding Companies here November 1, was taken to insure protection for all creditors and stockholders by working out orderly liquidation, J. E. Brill, of Brill and Maslon, attorneys for W. B. Foshay, announced.

The action for receivership was generally misunderstood, Mr. Brill said. First reports, carried by the Associated Press, said the petition was in bankruptcy. It was, however, a petition for receivership brought in a friendly manner in Federal Court by officers of the company with the company's consent.

"The majority of the assets of the W. B. Foshay Company consists of securities issued by the public utilities companies," Mr. Brill said. "These assets were carried at a valuation fixed at independent appraisal and approved by the Arizona Commerce Commission. One of the purposes of the present receivership is to permit liquidation of these securities in an orderly manner.

"If this is accomplished, and the balance of the assets properly liquidated, as I believe they can be, there is no apparent reason why the creditors of the W. B. Foshay Company should not be fully paid and the corporation returned to stockholders in sound condition."

A meeting of stockholders of the three Foshay Holding Companies will be called within the next 10 days, Mr. Brill said.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

White Furs Choice of Society

NO matter how busy society folks are, there's one event that attracts all the various sets, from the sub-deb to the grandmother, and that's one of the Theater Guild plays.

Last evening I saw ever so many folks at "Wings Over Europe," another Theater Guild play, at the Nixon, and a very smart audience it was.

One of the most charming members of the younger set there last night was Virginia Wright, petite blonde daughter of the Thruston Wrights, who'll make her bow this season. Virginia was in a gown of black velvet, moulded to the figure, with riffles of the material decorating the skirt and the train. And she wore a smart little coat of white ermine, reaching to the hips.

Another debutante there last night was Martha Edmondson, whom I saw entering the theater with her mother, Mrs. F. W. Edmondson. Martha was wrapped in a long white ermine coat.

Have you noticed how popular white furs are this year? I saw at least seven or eight coats of ermine, and ever so many trimmed with this kingly fur.

Suzanne Trimble was wrapped from the tip of her nose to her knees in a luxurious coat of white ermine with a fluffy white fox shawl collar and deep cuffs. Her gown, very long, of course was of gold-green satin.

During one of the intermissions I saw Mrs. T. M. Jones III, one of the most distinctive members of the younger married set, talking with Helen Leovy and Mrs. Raymond Ford Moreland, who before her marriage was Mary Louise Johnson. Mrs. Jones, by the way, who is one of the smartest looking members of the younger married set, with her smart blonde bobbed head and sculptured features, wore green satin and a coat of mink.

Mrs. Moreland also wore a mink coat over a flowered black dress, lined in red, and Helen Leovy was in a green satin gown.

A few rows in front of me I saw the John W. Lawrences. Mrs. Lawrence wore a black velvet gown and a gray fur coat, with a gray fox collar. Not far from the Lawrences were the Nathaniel Spears, with Mrs. Spear in a sable coat.

The Stephen Stones and their daughter, Mrs. Sidney A. Stewart, I noticed, too. Mrs. Stone wore a dark blue velvet cloak, trimmed with an ermine collar and crystal.

A black velvet wrap was worn by Mrs. Daniel M. Clemson, and a gown of figured gray velvet by Mrs. William Thaw, Jr.

I noticed Mrs. F. A. Leovy in green velvet, with Mr. Leovy and the Joseph Scribners and the junior Charles Hale Matthewses.

Others I noticed in the audience were Mrs. Clinton Childs, that popular hostess, and Mrs. Percy Donner.

Virginia Wright was there with Mrs. William N. Frew in a black and white metal cloth wrap over a black velvet gown.

Mrs. J. E. Lewis, whom I caught a glance of as she was leaving the theater, had a deep collar of ermine on her coat.

An attractive pale green lace gown was worn by Josephine Nicola, and a black velvet dress with a moleskin coat was chosen by Eleanor Chalfant.

Jane Allderdice was there, and Malcolm McGiffin and Herbert A. May, and James Bovard, too. And the junior Wallace Hurtte Rowes. Mrs. Rowe was attractive in a hydrangea blue satin gown.

I also caught sight of the James Shirley Austins, of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Kelly, III, the Thomas Armstrong Robinsons, Mrs. George Bassett, Jr., Mrs. Sidney Hammond and Mrs. Howard S. Evans.

And attractive Christine McKelvy, tall, slender and blonde, was there in a black dress and a coat of gold metallic cloth.

TODAY finds a group of Pittsburgh folks in New York to attend the wedding this afternoon at 4 o'clock of Elizabeth James, daughter of the Philip L. Jameses, of New York, to Reginald Rinehart Church, who is the son of the Samuel Harden Churches, of Pittsburgh, I hardly need add.

And the ceremony is being performed at 4 o'clock in the Central Presbyterian Church, with a reception in the Hotel Ambassador to follow. Performing the ceremony is the Rev. Dr. Dwight Witherspoon Wylie.

The bride, who is being given in marriage by her father, is wearing a gown of ivory satin in the princess mode with the train lined with pale green chiffon, and a veil of tulle. Her flowers are calla lilies.

The matron of honor, Mrs. George Shupp, of New York; the maid of honor, Marjorie James, the bride's sister; George Pearson, of Pittsburgh; Emily Merriman, of Providence; Henry L. Jones, II, of Wilkes-Barre; Rosemary Street, of New York; Mrs. Charles F. Haight, Jr., of New York, and Elizabeth Drake, of Chicago, will wear similar gowns of yellow taffeta and tulle in the new princess mode and brown velvet turbans. They will carry roses in fall shades.

And soon after the reception, the youthful Churches will leave for a honeymoon trip through the South. And they will live in Pittsburgh upon their return.

And I almost forgot to mention the bridegroom's attendants! Henry L. Jones, II, of Kingston, will be best man, and the ushers will be Edwin P. Stevens, Clarke Miller, Van Lear Perry Shriver, Beverly R. Shriver, James W. McFarland, James Bennett Walker and George L. Craig, Jr., all sons of Pittsburgh; and W. Mercer Parker, of Cleveland.

AND this afternoon Mrs. Thomas Atterbury McGinley, of North Lincoln avenue, North Side, and Sewickley Heights, will present her daughter, Mary Elizabeth Floyd, to Pittsburgh society in their Sewickley Heights home, at a tea.

And I also happen to know the buds who will aid the deb at the tea. They are Peggy Milligan, Mary Franklin Robinson, Katherine Collin, Rosamound Fitch, Rebecca Doyle, Susan O'Neil, Nancy Allderdice, Harriet Fickes, Emily Frew, Helen Pendleton, Virginia Wright, Sylvia Robertson, Lydia Irish, Marie Louise Bickford, Laura Evans and Caroline Crittendon.

And then Mrs. McGinley will have as her aids Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, Mrs. Benjamin R. B. Townsend, Edna Wood Sutton, Mrs. George S. Ebbert, Mrs. Henry Holdship Robinson, Mrs. John C. Neale, Mrs. Cyrus R. Miller, Mrs. A. Fleming Fell, Mrs. A. T. Gordon, Mrs. George Grier Coolidge, Mrs. Franklin C. Irish and Mrs. Sydney S. Liggett.

AND tomorrow afternoon Helen Pendleton, daughter of Maj. and Mrs. Alexander Garland Pendleton, will make her bow to society at a tea given by her mother and Mrs. James Dean Tilford, in the Pendletons' Fifth avenue home.

Mrs. Pendleton will be aided by her aunts, Miss Elizabeth Mackintosh, Mrs. Augustus K. Oliver, Miss Beatrice Hawkins, Mrs. Richard H. Hawkins, Mrs. William McKennan Reed, Mrs. Carroll Davis, Mrs. Eugene Messler and Mrs. Frank N. Black.

And then Helen will have several sister buds as her aides and they include Emily Berry Frew, Virginia Wright, Anne Douglas Steward, Peggy Milligan, Frances Reed, Ruth Drake, Marie Louise Bickford, Margaret Shaw Rose, Anne Allen Rose, Lydia Irish and Mary Franklin Robinson.

DECIDEDLY FEMININE ARE THE NEW COAT MODELS

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

PARIS, Nov. 19.—The seal of approval this season, means that lovely lustrous fur in its natural color. Some of the smartest coats designed for walking wear, and some lovely suits, too, have sported trimmings of natural seal in all its rich brown glory. It is especially good with brown tweeds of all shades. Another fur that is going places this autumn is kolinsky. It is being used in original treatments on daytime coats, and is used to trim evening wraps, blending especially with the rose shades that are so much liked for these garments.

THE cloth coat continues to make the most of its popularity. The black cloth coat is especially well liked, and without any hint of coercion, telepathy or any of the black arts, and with a wealth of colors and styles from which to make a selection. Almost every woman here, wears a black cloth coat, many of these being caped with broadtail or caracul or trimmed with skunk or astrakan. Such coats are both smart and useful and have become a sort of uniform here just now, although there is nothing stereotyped about any of them.

WE show today a lovely bolero coat by Jenny. It is of very dark brown homespun with a shawl collar and cuffs of natural unplucked seal, and we wish we could adequately describe to you, how distinguished this garment is, and how becoming the natural seal. The cut of the coat is quite complicated. Starting at the right side of the front, the bolero is carried around to the back in a diagonal line and ends in a point at the left side just back of the arm. Repeating this diagonal, one-sided line, a wrapped-around piece is placed on the lower part of the coat. There is a patch-pocket at one side, and just above the elbow, the diagonal line is further emphasized by the empiecements that trim the sleeves.

THE very striking and smart suit of hunter's green velours de laine, lavishly trimmed with dark kolinsky, is from Worth. The three-quarter length coat is snug at the bodice and flares in wide fur-trimmed godets at the sides. The skirt is laid in four deep pleats at the front.

Club Women Hear About Gypsies

THE narrative of a Gypsy's life from his unattended birth to his strange burial ceremonies was simply but fascinatingly told to Twentieth Century Club members yesterday morning by Konrad Bercovici, the Rumanian author.

Gypsies will steal and cheat and lie, but never among themselves, this adopted Gypsy son said. Gypsy children learn to dance and sing almost before they speak; their childhood is free from restraint and reproach and at adolescence they have a voice in tribal affairs.

Polygamy and polyandry are practiced among some tribes, but are not recognized in others that are so strictly monogamous as to make even infidelity unknown. All these the celebrated author told, going on to describe the burial rites wherein everything belonging to the dead, sometimes even his horse, is burned. Widows frequently immolate themselves to the extent of taking other names, and aged widows live as among the dead. Death and old age are looked upon as abnormal and the result of carelessness.

Freed by his mode of living from the necessity of hunting for food or shelter, the chief consideration in a gypsy's life is the selection of a mate, and this is done very carefully and only after many tests. In concluding his talk, Mr. Bercovici mentioned briefly gypsies who have been famous—Jean Richepin, Sir Richard Burton, Sarasate, Zuloaga and Sara Bernhardt, who, he said, had declared on her deathbed she was a gypsy and not a Jewess.

IN a most engaging little talk before the local League of American Pen Women yesterday, Mrs. Ernest Thompson Seton, former national president, told of the part women of the Orient are playing in world affairs. Wherever there is a nationalist movement there one finds women active and prominent, Mrs. Seton said, observing, "The royal purple is fading and the ermine is moth-eaten."

Mrs. Seton also talked shop a bit, telling what the National League is doing in the way of music, membership, clubhouse and convention—the annual convention is to be held April 21 to 25, in Washington. The League has bought the late Mrs. E. D. E. N. Southworth's home on the Potomac in Georgetown and is remodeling and adding to it to suit its needs and finances. Mrs. Seton was presented with a corsage of yellow roses and orchids by Miss Suzanne Beatty, president, and was introduced by Mrs. Ambrose Nevin Diehl, whose guest she is for a day or two. Mrs. Diehl spoke of Mrs. Seton's vision of a secretary of art in the President's cabinet.

Pat Is Overwhelmed With Happiness When She Gets New Car

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Mary Patricia Dawn, pert, young, demi-brunette, sees her little brother, Dickie, fail to rise after a dive in the lake. Pat brings up the apparently lifeless body. All hope seems gone when suddenly an airplane sweeps down out of the sky. Pat's father arrives with Guy Elliott, a tall, handsome youth as pilot. Quick action follows and Dickie recovers. Later Elliott kisses and takes Pat for an air ride. Happy days follow, with Pat and Guy in love. Then comes Barbara Bryce with the seductive lure of shadowy eyes. She is the widow of young William Bryce, whose father owns the airplane factory where Guy works. While trying out her new plane, Barbara has an accident but is saved. In the excitement, Guy forgets an appointment with Pat. Later, while airplaning with Guy, Pat has a glimpse of Barbara in another plane. Pat marvels at Barbara's beauty and wonders if Guy is moved by it. Later, Guy receives a visit from Barbara and her young son, upon whom old Bryce squanders a fortune. Tom Burns, a workman, rages about the unfairness of wealth. His invalid son is dying for want of necessities. When Bryce refuses a loan, Burns leaves swearing revenge. The next night, in the factory, Guy hears a stealthy footstep. It is Burns, who has robbed the safe. He is captured by the watchman and arrested. Bryce refuses to intercede for Burns and he is put in prison. In Pat's home preparations are being made for her to enter college. Hearing much gossip about the youth of today, Mrs. Dawn prays that Pat will remain the sweet girl she is.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XII.

PAT had been standing at the window, Idly—in a glow and day dream. Suddenly she sprang back and called to her mother with startled slowness: "Well—will you look what's coming up the drive. Just look at him!"

She turned, saw her mother's flushed, happy eyes: "You knew? And you never told me? Well—the pair of you!"

Then her father stopped the new little car, poked his head from the window and with a wide, boyish grin: "Come on out, girls!"

Pat flew across the patio. She stood with one foot on the running board, her eyes full of big shine and a torrent of eager, excited questions rushing from her lips.

Without waiting for any answers she stood aside and surveyed the spiffy little sport coupe. Very small it was—very inexpensive, but gallant and sturdy with trim lines and a jaunty air. It was painted a gleaming purple, with a long silver line streaming across the body.

"And you never told me a word! I don't see how you dared! That's why you asked what color I'd like the old boat painted. Oh, it's lovely. It's a little dream."

Then, as Pat fingered the clock, the bit of inlaid wood at the window and fooled with the gears "Well, get in, won't you? Drive her down the road a bit."

"Oh, we better wait for mother, hadn't we? And Dickie'll be wild if I take the first ride without him. Where is he? Never around when you want him! Oh, dear!"

Laura pushed open the window and called. Both hair and eyes glinted: "Try it out, Pat, dear."

They went humming and laughing down the drive.

"Purrs nicely, Pat."

"Oh, it's a bird. It's a thrill. It's just a darby. Dad, aren't you extravagant? We can't afford two cars, can we?"

"Oh, we'll scrape by. Do you really like it?"

"Do I? It's so easy and sinky to sit in. Are you going to take this one to work and leave the old one for your ladies?"

"The ladies would love that, eh?"

"Oh, is mother to have this one? No wonder she looked so thrilled. Aren't you the old sport, though!"

"We'll toss for it."

Laura came out as they drove back. They all stood there pratting happily, finding new qualities to praise as though such a car had never before rolled on wheels.

"You're pleased, Pat?" said Laura.

"Am I. But what about you?"

"Perhaps you'll take me for a ride now and then."

"What do you mean, mother?"

"It's yours, of course."

"MINE? Why should it be mine?" She looked up almost with dismay, saw her mother brush her eyes; heard her mother laugh.

"Didn't you tell her, Richard?"

"I will now: It's your's Pat, old thing!"

"You mean it?" said Pat, completely stunned. "But why? I wouldn't feel right taking it. Oh, mother, why should he give it to me?" Then with a gay, teary appeal, "after all, he was your lover first!"

Richard Dawn came over and tucked an arm about Pat. "She wants you to have it, girl. We want you home every night. And of course you couldn't hike up these hills from the train every day. So we're sending you off to college like the lady we know you are!"

Pat looked from one to the other, her cheeks red, her eyes wet. She kissed them and said silly, half hysterical things. Then to cover her glowing, uncontrollable happiness she darted down the path, grabbed the newly-arrived and astonished Dickie by the arm, hauled him, gabbering, explosive, protesting to the car. They waved excitedly and went rolling off together.

That night after dinner Pat and her father went out. They were to give the car a thorough tryout.

"Dad—but isn't it going to be awfully hard on you paying for this and keeping it up?"

"I've been lucky, Pat. The last few months Bryce has tossed me plenty of work. I'm making all the posters for his new residence park. I'm going to do all the art work in the advertising. So we can make the grade."

"Easily?"

"Well, enough. We don't ever want life to be easy. Never ask that, Pat. Takes away all the spice and rollick. Why, if I could toss you this car without mother and I having to scheme a bit, where would be the thrill of it? Easy lives are bored lives—an easy life is but a weak substitute for death. I hope you'll never have it, Pat.

"But listen, Pat—one favor I'm going to ask. Don't drive beyond 30 miles. Make that your speed limit."

"Couldn't you let me have 35?"

"No. Thirty will get you anywhere, quickly enough. Keep up that pace through the days and you'll find yourself speeding along no matter what destination you've picked. It's the jump sparks that go 80 today, 10 tomorrow and not at all the next day that never arrive."

"All right, then, 30."

"And you'll need to keep an even pace with all this new world opening, Pat."

"Dad, you don't feel that you're giving me up to the raging sea the way mother does, do you?"

"Oh, the sea may rage, but you're a pretty strong swimmer. I think I'd trust you to buck the current."

"You're gorgeous," said Pat, feeling gulpy and blinking.

He thought her fine; expected strong, brave things of her and no ado about it. She wanted to reach up and meet this happy beautiful trust.

She gave a quick toss of her head and looked with wet, shiny eyes into her father's face. "You're a peach, Dad. Gee, if I ever meet anyone like YOU!"

"You'll meet plenty. Don't be absurd."

"I guess so."

"And did you remember what I told you, Pat? Let him tell it first?"

They were parked on a little plateau in the hills above San Mateo. Through the sunset haze the bay shimmered—the boats skimmed gracefully like fairy things over the water.

Pat gazed into the distance and the quiet. She sighed: "Dad— isn't it mean and small to calculate about love? Why should a girl pretend and hold back? If I love someone why can't I come out and tell them?"

"Pat, you can answer that yourself. If you were absolutely sure of Guy, if he kept telling you with every other breath how marvelous he thought you, you'd not be going hot and cold with suspense, would you?"

"Yes, but if he did care like that, he WOULD say it. It's only the girl who has to worry about keeping him guessing. It's not fair."

"Life isn't fair—it doesn't have to bother about being fair. You play the game with the cards you get and be wise as well as brave."

"Can't a girl ever, EVER come out wildly and just throw her whole heart and soul into it?"

"I'm not telling you to be a niggard with love, Pat. Love with all your heart and soul, of course, when you meet the man you really want. But don't be a spendthrift.

"Wait till you're sure you're getting the great return. Wait till the man shows that he values and consummately wants your gifts. And let him ask for them first. Let him ask many times and in many ways. It's only human nature to regard as precious the things difficult to get. So hold back a little—even to the end."

"I tell you that I love you," said Pat, dreamily. "Does it make you care any the less?"

"Oh, you don't make me too sure, Miss Pat. You forget to kiss me. I have to step to keep myself in your graces."

"Gosh, I must be GOOD! I don't hold much back that I can see. Perhaps I'm an unconscious artist at loving? So I shan't have to worry! Thanks for telling me.

"But, dad, do you mean to say that mother never let you know she was simply nuts about you? Well, if she never told it, I'll let you in on it. She thinks you're the whole earth. She told me that nothing—absolutely NOTHING — counted from the first moment she looked in your eyes or you looked in hers. And she remembers exactly when that first glance was."

Richard Dawn colored and smiled and threw back his head with a laugh. "What else did she say, Pat?" blue eyes kindled.

"Oh, you conceited thing! Your destiny is settled. I'm the person we're talking about."

She hooked her chin on his shoulder. Her hair brushed his cheek. He smiled, inhaling the perfume and rubbing his hand on her soft, brown neck.

"Dad, after you wrote that 'dearest' letter, didn't she go quite out of her head and let you know you had her in the hollow of your hand?"

"What letter? She didn't show it to you, Pat?"

"Oh, don't get alarmed, though why you should be stingy with your own offspring, I don't understand. No. But one day I was asking her just what you looked like when you used to come a-courting. She told me where I could find some old snapshots. I guess she'd forgotten that they were done up in that letter. I opened it. I saw the first line. That's all. And you needn't begrudge it to me. I've thought gorgeous thoughts of you ever since. 'Dearest of all beautiful things, oh, beloved'—that's the way it began.

"If a man ever wrote such glorious words to me, I'd die on the spot."

"They will, Pat. Plenty of them will," said Richard, penetrantly aware of her sweet, glowing youth.

"Oh, I hope so," sighed the girl.

"Oh, I hope it!"

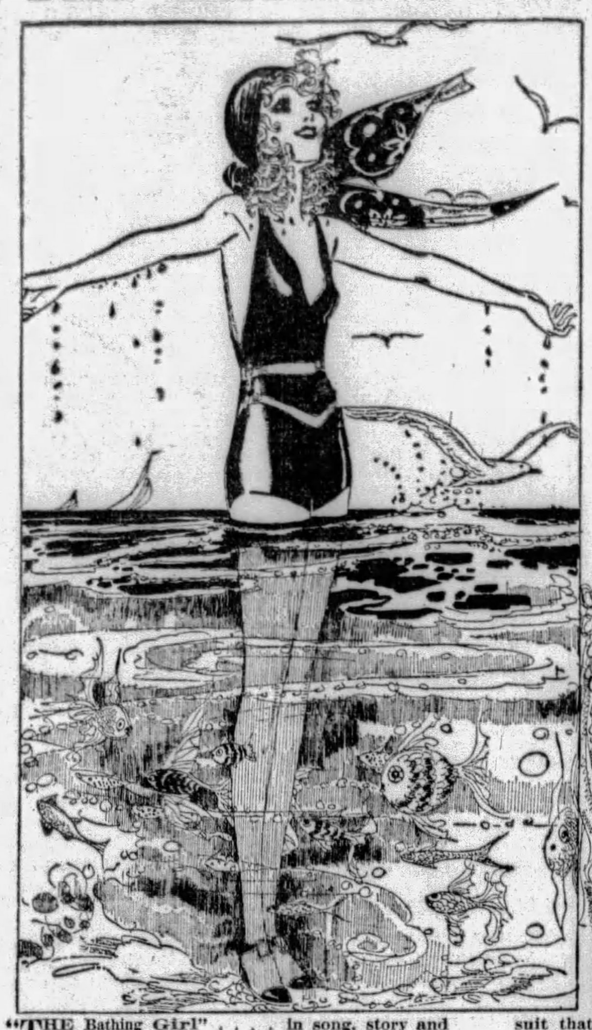
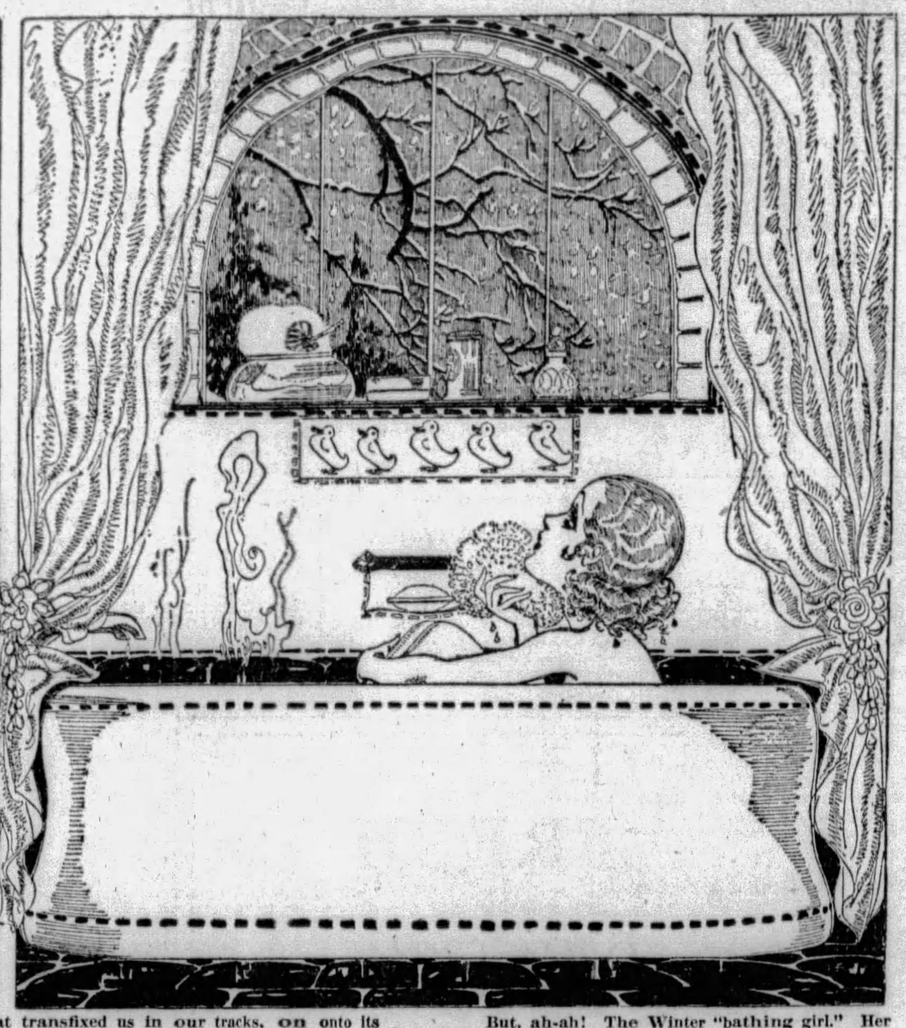
THE BATHING GIRL

Summer and Winter

Drawn by NELL BRINKLEY





"THE Bathing Girl" . . . . in song, story and magazine cover, is as old as the bathing suit itself—well, even older, for did not Venus Aphrodite arise from the blue Mediterranean before bathing suits were invented and without any on at all, and did not Sandro Botticelli paint her immortally so?

She has posed all the way from striped, square-necked costumes with stockings, laced shoes, and a bandanna under a large straw bonnet, down through bandannas over monstrous pompadours when all the bathing girls in the world wore black satin with daring little tights sewed onto their stockings underneath, down to the very first one-piece woolen suit that transfixed us in our tracks, on onto its descendants, that each year have diminished, even when we thought they could shrink no farther, until now the bathing suit has almost vanished quite! And the "bathing girl" is almost again back to Venus arising from the sea.

The "bathing girl" in Summer has all the wide blue sea for her bath. Her head, and much of her brown skin, is in the sunshine, where her eyes can look at the high clouds and those sea-people, the gulls. While her feet are on the sand of the ocean floor, and bright fish skurry past her knees, scarlet and green seaweed wave about her ankles, and baby crabs try her toes. The whole wide ocean to gambol in!

But, ah-ah! The Winter "bathing girl." Her ocean has shrunk to five by two of fresh water in a hard white bowl. No sand, no little bright fish, unless it is celluloid ones. A low ceiling of blue tile for the sky. Waterproof curtains for the clouds, and her white birds are thicker, and have turned to snow flakes! The salt in her sea is a handful from a glass bottle. The sun—the radiator!

But the bathing girl is an optimistic creature . . . haven't you always noticed how she is always smiling in a pic? . . . and, as she splashes, as much as her tiny ocean will permit, she falls to planning WHERE on the big ocean she will be a bathing girl when Summer comes again.

—NELL BRINKLEY.

How to Keep Well

By DR. COPELAND

Sensible Living Far Better Than 'Cures'

LAST summer I spent in European travel. In many ways it was a glorious vacation. Much of the territory covered was familiar ground, although some of the places I had not visited for many, many years. Everywhere was much to hold the interest and to give food for thought.

DR. COPELAND

Some of the towns I saw were "spas," bathing places. A few of them have been famous for many decades, even for a century or more.

I met many old friends and acquaintances. Some of these were persons who are in the habit of going abroad every year to take "the cure."

Taking the cure means that for a period of three weeks the diet is greatly restricted, the hours in bed are long, the exercise is regulated and insisted upon, great quantities of laxative waters are taken at regular intervals. These are the rules and their faithful observance is remarkable, indeed.

I saw men there who are captains of industry, famous lawyers, successful business men. Society women and professionals of every sort are among those who take the cure.

Do you know what impression all this made upon me? It was a renewed conviction of the conclusion I formed years ago. I venture to give it, even though nobody has asked for it.

It seems silly to me that men and women should so order their lives that "cures" are required. Why not live every day and every week and every month and every year, so that spasmodic efforts at cure are unnecessary?

"Cures" are like "weeks." We have "Clean-Up Week," "Apple Week," "Fire Prevention Week." Why not clean up, eat apples and prevent fires every week and every day?

We have just as good doctors in North America, just as good waters, just as interesting territory over which to walk, and the same rules of hygiene are just as effective. It is unnecessary to cross the ocean to have every single benefit offered by the foreign spas. We have springs in the New World just as highly curative and where all the benefits, real or psychic, can be found.

But perhaps you cannot afford to travel to Europe or even to one of our springs. In that event talk with your friend, the family doctor. Go over your ailments and recite your symptoms to him. He will outline a diet and a daily routine that will overcome your present troubles and prevent those that may be on the way.

Live each day the sort of sensible living that will keep you fit and fine. Then a "cure" will be quite unnecessary.

LOVE'S AWAKENING

A Continuation of Love's Embers

By ADELE GARRISON

Madge Is "Raked Over the Carpet" by Mother Graham

I FOLLOWED my mother-in-law into her room with somewhat the feeling of one going to execution. Full well I knew what she wished—I had been dodging the interview for days—and I knew that I would not emerge unscarred from the conflict.

Mother Graham swept across the room, lowered the shade on one window and raised another on a second, then wheeled upon me commandingly.

"Sit down," she said, indicating the chair nearest me, and I took it, watching her furtively while she ranged the room, adjusting various small articles in an irritating way she has when she is preparing to "drag somebody over the carpet," as her son expresses it. I think she consciously or unconsciously counts upon the advantage it gives her over the harried nerves of her antagonist.

Finally she sat down opposite me, folded her hands in her lap and looked at me steadily.

"Are you aware, Margaret," she began in her best autocratic manner, "that you are going away tomorrow morning, and that you have not yet consulted with me over the management of the house while you are gone?"

I essayed something about having been so busy, but she put up a peremtory hand.

"You have not been too busy to talk over things with Mrs. Bickett—I myself have heard you—and you have been giving that ape of a Katie directions, for when I spoke to her a little while ago about changing the linens tomorrow after you all had gone, so that we could get those best things washed and put away she had the audacity to tell me that she knew all about it, that you had told her just what to do, and that she didn't need any more instructions."

"Mother!" I exclaimed. Surely she didn't say that last to you."

I regretted the words as soon as they had been uttered, for my doughty mother-in-law takes any exclamation of doubt as a direct challenge to her veracity. But to my surprise she did not wither me with a contemptuous tirade. Instead she flushed with as near embarrassment as I ever had seen her display.

"She might just as well have said it, as look it in that impertinent way of hers," she retorted, while I breathed freely again. I would not have to reprove Katie for insolence as I momentarily had feared.

"But that's neither here nor there," Dicky's mother went on, her embarrassment gone as suddenly as it had come. What I want to know is why you have consulted with everyone else about the house and have disregarded ME entirely?"

Her emphasis put the pronoun in capitals, and I bit back a smile which would have been fatal. But indeed the smile was but a surface one. I felt anything but mirthful.

"You misunderstand, Mother," I said meekly. "If I haven't talked things over with you, it was because it was so needless a thing to do. You have every detail of household management at your fingers' ends. It would be an impertinence for me to do anything save hand the keys of the city you."

In spite of herself I saw a gleam of gratified vanity come into her eyes, but her voice was as caustic as ever.

"You needn't try to soft-soap things over that way," she said. "I wasn't born yesterday. But that reminds me. Where are the keys of the linen closets and the cedar chests, including that one in which Richard Second's clothes are kept?"

I thanked my particular little joss that I had anticipated the demand and taken steps to gratify it. But I braced myself to meet any brother-in-law's wrath when I answered meekly:

"I'll turn over my set to you right away. I shan't need them any longer."

Mother Graham stiffened, and her quick exclamation was like the pounce of a cat upon an unwary mouse.

"Your set," she said. "How many sets of keys are there?"

"Two," I replied, trying to make my voice as nonchalant as possible.

"Oh! you mean you have an extra set in case of loss. Then bring both sets to me. The other one won't be needed, I promise you, with me in charge. I do not lose keys."

I put up a frantic appeal to my little joss even as I said quietly:

"But I haven't the other set, Mother. I gave keys to all the closets and chests to Katherine some time ago."

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Wednesday, November 20.

ACCORDING to the rather negative quality of the astral mutations this may be a day of uncertainty as far as business is concerned. The employment is not harmonious and a proclivity toward impetuous and irritable conduct may complicate matters, although the financial prospects are fair. Social, domestic and affectional matters may bring compensations.

Those whose birthday it is may be able to turn their affairs into profitable channels during the year if they will curb tendencies to rash and turbulent actions. Purely personal matters may be happy and prosperous.

A child born on this day may be accomplished, popular and gracious, in spite of impetuous and rash flares.

The Marry-Go-Round

By HELEN ROWLAND

Why Women Suffer

MEN and women are always "misunderstanding" each other, because they refuse to speak the same language.

HELEN ROWLAND

A man is ruled by his head and his impulses, while a woman is ruled by her heart, her sentiments, and her intuition.

Half the heartaches and love mix-ups in this world are caused by a woman's tendency to judge a man's sentiments and emotions by her own.

She is forever exaggerating a man's sentimentality, idealizing his motives, and crediting him with a lot of beautiful, hidden impulses that "aren't there."

If he happens to drop around, two evenings in succession, she jumps immediately at the thrilling conclusion that it is because he can't live for 24 hours without seeing her! Whereas, it may be simply because the girl in the next block happened to be "out" when he called.

* * *

If he doesn't show up for a week, she lies awake nights, wondering "what has happened," or what she could have said to "hurt" him—whereas probably nothing has happened but a few nice parties or a new blonde in town, and she couldn't "hurt" him unless she hit him with a mallet.

* * *

A woman pours her sentiment over everything, just as she pours maple syrup over a waffle or chocolate syrup over a sundae. But, when she lets it slop over and glorify a man's most casual act or kiss, she is riding for a bad fall and a smashed vanity.

Nine-tenths of the time a man doesn't mean ANYTHING! And whatever he happens to do is done on an impulse arising from the state of his digestion, the state of his pocketbook, or the state of his mood. The GIRL is just the innocent bystander!

Men are not naturally sentimental; and a little act or word that "means worlds" to a woman doesn't mean a thing to them. To paraphrase a popular book, "A kiss is a kiss; you take it. A girl is a girl; you call on her. An evening is an evening; you amuse yourself!"

When a man feels any sentiment, he is so surprised and embarrassed that he blurts right out. He doesn't "say it with flowers" or with stunts or with subtleties—he says it with WORDS!

But girls will go right on courting heartaches, until they discover that a man is a perfectly literal, simple-minded creature with no complexes, no "deep underlying nature," no subtle motives, and mighty few emotions!

Men and women will never understand each other until a man stops saying twice as much as he means — and a woman stops thinking that he MEANS twice as much as he says! And this will never come to pass until woman ceases to be the weaker vessel—filled with romance!

Correct Manners

By Mrs. Cornelius Beeckman

The Problem of Tipping

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

1. Will you please tell me if it is correct to tip the "boss" barber or only his assistants?

2. What is the correct position to hold the hands when they are not being used at table? B. W.

1—The customary idea is that one does not fee the owner of a barber shop or any other "beauty" establishment. But there really is no definite rule about this and it depends much on circumstances, and on the type of place it is. Indeed, I am interested to see how the owners and heads of many establishments are meeting this tradition that they are not to be tipped. I have noticed often now that one price is charged you if you have an assistant do your work, and a much higher price is assessed if you have the head or owner of the place.

2. In the lap.

Formality on the Envelope

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have known for at least 10 years, a young man whose name is Jack, never as John. Is it correct when writing him to address him as "Mr. Jack Blank" or "Mr. John Blank"? DAILY READER.

IF the young man's name is John—and the chances are that it is—you should by all means address an envelope to him as "Mr. John Blank" or (better) "John Blank, Esq." An envelope is a very formal social detail, and everything written on it should be written in the most "formal form." There should be on the envelope no nickname or abbreviations.

ACTRESS TELLS SECRET

Tells How to Darken Gray Hair With a Home-Made Mixture.

Joicey Williams, the well-known American actress, recently made the following statement about gray hair, and how to darken it, with a home-made mixture:

"Anyone can prepare a simple mixture at home that will gradually darken gray, streaked or faded hair, and make it soft and glossy. To a half-pint of water add 1 ounce of bay rum, a small box of Barbo Compound, and ¼ ounce of glycerine.

These ingredients can be bought at any drug store at very little cost. Apply to the hair twice a week until the desired shade is obtained. This will make a gray-haired person look twenty years younger. It does not color the scalp, is not sticky or greasy and does not rub off."

Following the death of Norris, notes exceeding $519,000 that had been forged were disclosed.

MAN FINED $100 AS JURY FIXER

BEAVER, Pa., Nov. 19.—Charged with tampering with a jury, William H. Hatt, East Rochester, was fined $100 and costs by Judge W A. McConnell.

Jurors in the case of J. A. Norton against Chester W. Lotz for damages in an automobile accident, unable to agree on a verdict, reported to the court in a note that Hatt, driver of Norton's car and a witness in the case, had talked to Edward Buckenheimer, a juror. Judge McConnell dismissed the jury, continued the case and issued a bench warrant for Hatt.

"You talk too much. I warn you to keep your mouth shut in the future," Judge McConnell said to Hatt, imposing sentence.

MUSIC

SYRIA MOSQUE

The Pittsburgh Grand Opera Company again appeared before a large audience in Syria Mosque last night, and all solcists were cheered in due fashion after the familiar airs and duets. Verdi's "La Traviata" was sung, and the staging was impressive both in scenery and costuming.

J. Fred Lissfelt

The opera needs no introduction to a public that has heard all prima donnas essay its airs in concert and that has followed the careers of coloraturas through several generations. The pathos of the parting scenes in the second act, and the last moments of Violetta in the finale of the opera are scored with music of poignant beauty and never fail their effects. Even the orchestra has an interlude before the last scene which is a premonition of the future Verdi in the grand style.

Last night was fortunate in the trio of soloists, Onofrei and Albano carrying honors. Onofrei's "Alfredo" is youthful and free of all mannerisms. He sings in a very direct style, and while he does not always make the most of his opportunities as an actor, his music is worth while. Albano's "Germont" was dignified, quite within the role at all times, and sang with smoothness and fine restraint. Pina Garavelli's "Violetta" will be remembered for its certainty in rhythm. She simulated the dying courtesan in the usual operatic style.

Of the local singers Sylvia Snyder may be mentioned among the best for her sympathetic "Annina." The "Baron Douphol" of J. A. Thomas also was an improvement on his former appearance. Irene D'Emilio played "Flora" and Gilbert Carney the "Doctor" far too timidly. In contrast, Leon Pagan as "Marquis D'Obigny" and Samuel Goldberg as "Gastone" both were good characterizations. W. Norton, George T. Toole and George Blackwood were entrusted with very small parts.

The chorus seemed far more at home in this opera than heretofore, and its stage deportment improved in every way. Karl Heinrich and his dancers gave a short divertissement. The orchestra, under Aldo Franchetti, showed signs of a better understanding.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

Weather Conditions.

The low pressure area that has been producing the cloudy and rainy weather over the East during the past several days is now centered in the St. Lawrence valley and covers most of the eastern half of the country. The weather is mostly cloudy over the northern half of the country and rain or snow is falling at scattered places. High barometer, centered over Alberta, covers the northwest section and most of the Plains states. It is causing zero temperatures in Alberta, below 20 in Montana, and from 20 to 25 in the Dakotas. Freezing temperatures extend southward to Oklahoma and Texas, and eastward to the Mississippi.

River Conditions.

The Allegheny River is still rising slowly, but the Monongahela is falling. Stage at Franklin is 8.0 feet; Parkers Landing, 9.8; Lock No. 10, 19.0; Lock No. 7, 28.2; Pittsburgh, 23.4; Dam No. 2, 19.4; Dam No. 6, 25.7; Dam No. 9, 23.7, and Dam No. 12, 21.0. There will be a few tenths of a foot further rise at Pittsburgh, reach the crest about noon, and begin falling by 2 p. m.

Work Being Pushed On Tidioute Road

TIDIOUTE, Pa., Nov. 19.—If possible, the Warren-Tidioute road will be finished this fall. A total of 2,081 feet of concrete remains to be poured. The unfinished portion of the highway is below Althom, the road being open to travel from the Irvineton bridge to that place.

Railways Company Defendant in Suit

Elizabeth Huber, of McKeesport, filed suit in Common Pleas Court against the Pittsburgh Railways Company, asking $25,000 damages for personal injuries. She alleged that an automobile in which she was a passenger stopped on Fifth avenue extension near McKeesport October 13 last while the driver made some inquiries and that it was struck in the rear by a street car as a result of which she suffered serious injuries which will cripple her for life.

95 PIANOS LOANED FREE

Ninety-five Pianos (Grands, Players and Uprights, both new and used instruments), will be placed in homes of Pittsburgh and vicinity and they may be used until we need them—which will be an indefinite time. We have discontinued eight of our large branch stores, and are placing these instruments in our "Frederick's Annex," located at 915 Liberty Avenue. Instead of storing and holding these pianos for the regular price, we are going to slaughter the prices and take our loss now. If you have ever thought of buying a piano, now is the time. We do not wish to place our instruments in storage and all Pianos not sold outright will be placed in the homes of families who are interested in owning a piano in the immediate future, and for the valuable advertising we will receive by having good families use them. We reserve the right to select the homes in which these pianos are to be placed.

Positively No Charge For Anything

No cartage, no rent or any expense whatever. You must call at the store to make your selection There are no strings to this offer, which comes but once in a lifetime.

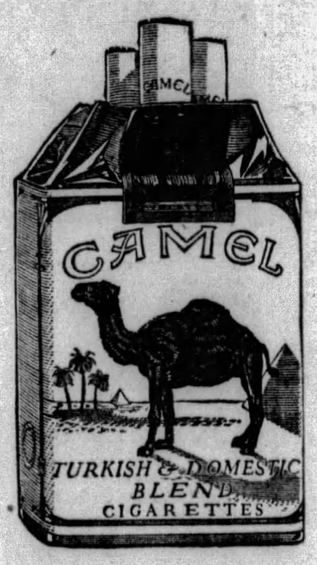
why smokers graduate to CAMELS—



The phrase "I've Graduated to Camels" originated with a Camel smoker. It expresses the experience of millions who through Camels have learned to know real smoking pleasure.

As taste in smoking develops, it naturally leads toward better quality. New smokers may not be critical but when they once experience the true mildness and surpassing fragrance of the Camel blend, they realize that here is a real superiority. It is for smokers of such discernment that Camels are made . . . for them the choicest tobaccos are selected . . . and this quality is maintained for the millions who know genuine smoking pleasure.

Drama and Comedy of Stage and Screen as Seen Through Critics' Eyes

'Wings Over Europe' Keeps Big Audience in Suspense Waiting for World to End

By GEORGE SEIBEL

FOR 20 minutes last night the audience at the Nixon Theater sat motionless waiting for the world to end. The catastrophe was fortunately averted—perhaps unfortunately, if all the world is made up of such ill-mannered ignoramuses and cowardly cads as the cabinet committee of the British Empire in "Wings Over Europe."

George Sibel

The authors of this drama without a woman character are Robert Nichols and Maurice Browne. Whoever has supplied the structural elements of the drama is a master of technique; whoever has supplied the dialogue is a master of style.

It is a great play. Some might say it is a great debate. Some might say it is a great duel or prize-fight. That amounts to about the same thing—drama is something between a debate and a duel. In "Wings Over Europe" we have two acts of continuous conflict, followed by an act of tremendous suspense.

There is good character delineation, too, but that is a minor matter in a tug-of-war. The important point is who wins—what will be the decision. If the solution is not obvious; if the correlation of forces is not put aside—then we have pure drama.

Almost like a game? It is a game. You could play "Wings Over Europe" on a chessboard.

Do We Believe It?

There are questions that will arise, of course, as one reflects upon the characters and the plot of this curious drama.

Is the central character of Francis Lightfoot a possible combination of human elements? Can the same be a Shelley and an Edison? Can man be a spell-binder and a thinker?

Demosthenes couldn't have repaired his bicycle. Newton couldn't have got elected ward constable.

Francis Lightfoot, played by Alexander Kirkland, is eloquent enough to persuade us that his invention is the real thing. He shows the neurotic idealism of a poet and the impassioned faith of a patent medicine vendor. He is Jules Verne with the silver tongue of Bryan.

Kirkland does a great piece of acting, which will be underestimated only by icemen and astronomers, who are patient and keep cool. He doesn't act like a sane human being—but geniuses aren't. Shelley once scared an old woman in a stage coach nearly out of her wits.

One Who Is Sane

Another great piece of acting is done by Morris Carnovsky, who is an evident take-off on the philosophic Balfour. As the cynic and pessimist he is the most reasonable and decent person in the cabinet, and when he is waiting for the world to blow up he is only concerned to finish the chapter in his book.

If there is anybody else on the American stage who knows the art of emphasis and pause better than Carnovsky—the art generally called diction—his name doesn't now come to mind.

But it's a great cast all through—worthy of the best traditions of the Theater Guild. John Dunn as Lord Sunningdale, and Charles Cardon as a Cockney Socialist plumber who had heard of Shelley, were among the more conspicuous among the company, with Ernest Lawford as a suave prime minister of unimpeachable authenticity.

It may have been the setting of the cabinet room—no doubt authentic as history—that gave the illusion, with the lighting that seemed to reflect a London sky, with all the stodgy men of mahogany to match the furniture! At any rate we believed the young man who had got his rhetoric from Macaulay and his philosophy from William Godwin.

He lost the debate—or duel—or prize-fight. But what could Shelley's Sky-lark do against a barking British bull-dog?

SOUND NEWS FILMS HAVE THRILL VIEWS

Hearst Metrotone News, in its current issue, shows a girl and 15 men leaping from an airplane 2,000 feet in the air at Roosevelt Field, Long Island, at intervals of less than a second between each jump. Cameramen, with sound recording devices in other planes, followed the flight of the jumpers until they reached the ground. Other interesting subjects show thousands flocking to the shrine in Boston where miraculous cures are said to have been effected at the grave of the Rev. Patrick Power; the first pictorial interview with Andre Tardieu, the new French premier, who sends a message to the American people through Hearst Metrotone News; a picture of a helicopter that "almost" flies; the Armistice Day speech of President Hoover, and other subjects.

Fox Movietone News shows pictures of the fighting in China with Russian nurses distributing food and cigarets to the Chinese; pictorial interview with Miss Margaret Shotwell, who tells how it feels to lose a million dollars in the stock market, and other interesting views, with sound, from many parts of the world.

'THE HUMMING BIRD' HIT BY BISCUIT IN PITT

By CLARENCE E. GRUNDISH

In the dictionaries and encyclopedias "the humming bird" is a feathered animal whose chief characteristic includes the ability to dart and dodge in escaping danger. But in the Pitt this week "The Humming Bird" is a play and the title character in that play. This character is one Toinette, a girl of the Parisian streets. And she's a girl who is skilled in the art of thievery and in the narrow trick of making quick getaways. Which, we presume, explains the production's title.

The fact that a humming bird is peculiar to America while Toinette is very much of France evidently caused the playwriting Maude Fulton no disquietude. She found a title that intrigues. And that, perchance, is sufficient. Naturalists may be sticklers for facts—but, ah, playwrights must be allowed liberties.

In getting down to the serious business of a review, let it be noted that "The Humming Bird" is pretty good entertainment. It is colorful, romantic and has an adventurous tinge. It has a large slice of comedy and a lesser slice of melodramatics. And, briefly, the plot is this:

Toinette Reforms

Toinette, grown into a life of crime on the streets of Paris, awakes to a love of country and the better things of life as the invading German army — it is World War days — threatens Paris. In an underworld cafe in the French capital she heroically talks the "scum" of her world into going to the rescue of France. One intermission later you find her in New York seeking a new life, and follow her to a happy, romantic climax, the hero of which is an aristocratic young fellow who turns to newspaper reporting for adventure.

Suzanne Caubaye, guest star with the George Sharp Players, makes a Toinette that is alive and charming—very charming. And it's a lot of fun hearing her struggle with the American language. "Pals" she calls "pails," "waffles" are "wiffles," and so on and so forth. Harland Tucker, a hero, impresses as being quite a Don Juan. He handles his part well. But then he should. We understand he originated the hero role in a San Francisco stage presentation.

A Very Gay Mabel

There are numerous characters. Mabel Kroman appears as a gay girl who becomes engaged to an artist and then says goodnight to him and goes out on a gay party to celebrate the engagement. Hugh Banks is there as an artist who poses before the mirror as his own model. Alice Ann Baker wears some attractive gowns and interests as an aristocratic aunt. Robert Fiske is present, disguised as an old Frenchman. But, by his voice shall you know him. Gus Forbes parades about in the uniform of a French general and, as usual, gives a finished performance—though we have a recollection the style of his salute deviated from French to American in one episode last night.

Others who appear, include Nancy Leslie, Charles Moxley, Marion Thompson, Andy Helfrich, Charles Roe, Eddie Dougherty, Eileen Dale, W. J. Eccleson, Lucette Parker, Billy Link, and Norman Porter. Some of them have faces and ability well known to Mr. Sharp's audiences. The rest are newcomers who impart "atmosphere" or display some Apache dancing.

An interesting interlude in last night's performance, which was quite a happy one after the first act—an act that left a little confusion as to what it was all about—was a biscuit throwing sequence. Mr. Banks, in the action of the play, picked up a biscuit from the breakfast table, and hurled it at Hero Tucker. But young Banks was a poor shot. The biscuit bounced against the dainty nose of Miss Caubaye.

HAROLD LLOYD BRINGS LAUGHS AND TALK TO ALDINE

Harold Lloyd is smearing the laughs around in an extravagant manner in the Aldine this week in his first talkie, "Welcome Danger." And say, it is a knockout in more ways than one! Chinamen are knocked and battered all over the screen and the audience gets slapped for a row of laughs—not once, but many times.

As a botany student, who turns amateur sleuth and goes "bugs" on finger prints, Comedian Lloyd is at his funniest. When you first meet him he is riding westward in a de luxe Pullman and reading the magazine of the man in front of him. When you last see him he is in the arms of the heroine, both having piled up in a motor accident against the heavenly atmosphere of a sign board advertising Golden Gate coffee. And in between times you see him pursuing flowers, missing trains, making love, riding cows and flivvers, taking finger prints and chasing Chinamen—and being chased—underground and overground in the San Francisco Chinatown.

Laughs and Action

There is a lot of action as well as laughs in the film, as the plot, which concerns the running of a gang of dope peddlers to earth, sprouts in as many different angles as any of the plants that come under the bespectacled Lloyd eyes. And the "gags" and funny stuff show just as much originality as do the thumbs that Sleuth Lloyd puts on the police records.

An element of mystery is there also, but always with the comedy note in prominence. Peering eyes peer, trap doors click and sliding panels slide. And dead men are scattered about carelessly, though not nearly as carelessly as the fun.

Two Hours of Lloyd

The picture is rather lengthy—it must run two hours—and the action slows up at times. But even in these moments the Lloyd presence acts as a humor stimulant. Incidentally, a capable cast is in the comedian's support. But, of course, it is he who is practically the whole show.

It can be said, too, that the voice the sound screen introduces fits pretty well the bespectacled fellow, who was known so well and laughed at so much back in those "long ago" silent days.

Dizzy

Harold Lloyd needs some coffee because he has some dizzy moments in "Welcome Danger," new attraction on the Aldine screen.

'MARRIED LOVE' ENDS GAYETY RUN SATURDAY

Dr. M. Sayle Taylor began the third week of his stage presentation "Married Love," at the Gayety, yesterday. Today and Wednesday are the last three days for women, the schedule changing to performances for men only Thursday, Friday and Saturday, when the engagement ends. A feature of this week is a "question box." Questions submitted in writing, without the use of a signature, are answered from the stage by Dr. Taylor.

MAGIC, MERRIMENT GIVE NOVELTY TO PENN BILL

Merlin the enchanter has waved his wand over the stage show in the Penn Theater this week and worked a magical transformation through one of his adepts, the Great Leon. It was a novel idea to build the program around a series of illusions of the most showy kind—such as the burning of the girl who appears unscorched in the tank of water. Even the members of the ballet change the colors of handkerchiefs by waving them, and there's an air of mystery and marvel about everything.

FOUR MARX BROTHERS CONTINUE COMEDY HIT IN ALVIN

By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

"Animal Crackers," by the National Bis—pardon—by—oh, what's the difference whom it's by, whom it's with is more important. So "Animal Crackers," with the four Marx Brothers, buffoons extraordinary, began the second week, and the final one, of its engagement in the Alvin last night. This product of the oven is hot stuff even if it is only half baked as far as its story is concerned. You'll forgive that because of the comedy. In fact, if Marx Brothers are old acquaintances, you'll naturally expect it to be crazy. And in that respect it does not disappoint.

But it is a lot of uproarious fun whenever the Brothers Marx are on the scene, and they are absent only long enough for the smartly dancing Markert-Peterson girls, 16 of them, to win plaudits for their performances on several occasions and for the other characters to thread out the thin tale of country life on Long Island, among what the program calls the newly rich, sufficiently for the Marx Brothers to come along and provide the laugh intervals.

Groucho is an explorer. Zeppo is his secretary. Harpo is a professor and Chico is a musician. And they all manage to get to the aforesaid locale of country life because the mistress is a social climber and thinks it would be nice to have some great personage like the explorer at her party. That's the layout—the Marx Brothers attend to the rest of it. And attend to it right. It's fun from beginning to end.

Other principals in more prominent roles are Julian Winter, Margaret Dumont, Marjory Ann Martyn, Margaret Irving, Sammy Weston, Louis Sorin and Dorothy Fitz Gibbon.

Playground to Get Heating System

An ordinance for the installation of a warm air heating system at the West Penn recreation center, estimated to cost $4,500, has been presented to Council.

Shriners to Give "Syria Varieties"

"Syria's Varieties," under auspices of Syria Temple, Nobles of the Mystic Shrine, will be presented in Syria Mosque tonight and tomorrow night. The entertainment tonight will be for Pittsburgh members and their families, and tomorrow night for out-of-town members. The committee in charge consists of Joseph W. McElravy, James A. Phillips, Paul R. Perry, Robert Hawk, Armour J. Allison, William H. Dunlap, Dr. W. T. Messmore, Arthur C. Moxey and J. Searight Marshall.

'JAZZTIME REVUE' ACADEMY BURLESQUE

"Jazztime Revue," with Kitty Madison, Jack Hunt, Harry Leff and Babe Abbott in the principal roles, is the burlesque in the Academy this week. A feature ensemble is billed as "Pittsburgh's Own Whoopee Girls." The show is a routine of comedy skits, altering with song features, solo and ensemble dancing and specialties.

Dick Leibert Scores

There is magic, too, in Dick Leibert's organ music. He takes that popular song of real melody, "Tiptoe Through the Tulips," and transposes it into Irish, German, Hungarian, Scotch, and Hindu—then he plays it as Kreisler would and like Sousa's band. Who ever thought that the organ knew so many languages?

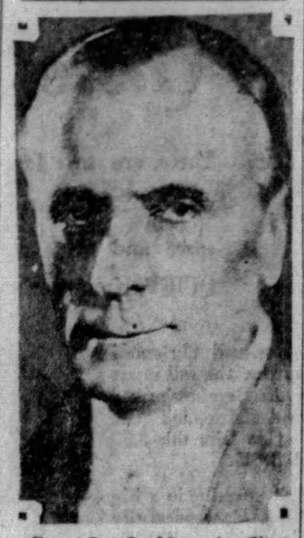
It made Earl La Vere's accordeon seem superfluous.

Clever dancers and comedians, Nat Nazarro and Elias Breeskin's orchestra—all contribute to a bill full of oriental color and startling effects.

"The Woman Lies"

As for the talking film, "The Woman Lies," with Walter Huston and Claudette Colbert, it is what might be called a modern problem play with a sugar-coated ending. Both the principals are effective and impressive both vocally and visually. A pair of youngsters, especially the little girl, supply a good romantic background. The story attempts to mix the oil of sophistication with the water of purity—a hard job—and the result is good entertainment but not chemically convincing.

Guild



Ernest Lawford has a leading role in "Wings Over Europe," Theater Guild production playing in the Nixon.

MAIER AND PATTISON IN CONCERT TONIGHT

Maier and Pattison, in a two-piano concert, will appear at Carnegie Music Hall tonight, in the second Art Society attraction. The program will include overture to "The Magic Flute," by Mozart-Busoni; prelude, fugue and variation, by Cesar Franck; Rondo in C major, by Chopin; fantasie and fugue in A minor, by Bach-Bauer; three numbers by Stravinsky; rhythmic dance, by Goosens; "Standing Before the Ruins of Rheim Cathedral," by Casella; the Schulz-Evler version of Strauss' "Beautiful Blue Danube" waltzes; a fantasy, in three parts, "Heroical Fountains," composed by Mr. Pattison.

'VIRGINIAN' NEARING FINAL DAY IN GRAND

"The Virginian," film version of the dramatization of the Owen Wister tale, remains in the Grand, where it will close with Wednesday night's showings. Gary Cooper, Richard Arlen and Mary Brian are cast in the principal roles of this popular western story.

Hits Railways Truck, Sues for $25,000

Al Hinkes, of the Highland Park district, asked $25,000 damages from the Pittsburgh Railways Company for personal injuries in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. While driving his car on North Negley avenue May 17 last, he alleged he ran into a repair truck, standing near Stanton avenue for wire repairs. Hinkes averred the collision was due to a heavy fog and the absence of a rear light on the truck.

WHY REFUSE BEAUTY?

You've always admired it in others—desired it for yourself—NOW YOU CAN HAVE IT!

Clean, sparkling teeth, resultant only from expert dental care, are the real foundation to all beauty. As Dr. Walls, Pittsburgh's prominent dentist, says, "Teeth are the Mirror of Health" . . . and in those few words he has summarized it all. Bad teeth cause bad health and with bad health, beauty soon fades away. Look at YOUR mirror now, and be honest with yourself.

RIVERS MOUNT CLOSE TO FLOOD MARK

HIGH WATERS ALONG BANKS OF ALLEGHENY AS PITTSBURGH'S RIVERS RISE

SUBMERGED RAILROAD TRACKS UNDER NINTH STREET BRIDGE, NORTH SIDE

COLD LIKELY TO CHECK RISE

B. & O. Tracks Inundated, Wharf Parking Space Cut, Work on Dams Halted

The rivers reached a stage of 23.4 feet at the Point at 8 a. m. today, 1.6 feet below the flood mark.

The waters may mount a few inches higher, Forecaster W. S. Brotzman said. The Monongahela was falling slowly; the Allegheny was rising one-tenth foot an hour.

Brotzman said he expected all rivers to be falling late today. There is little likelihood of sufficient rain to check the drop, he asserted. Colder weather is on the way.

The rising streams inundated Baltimore and Ohio Railroad tracks in the North Side and curtailed automobile parking space along the wharves. Otherwise little inconvenience was caused in the city.

Work was suspended on Dead Man's Island dam in the Ohio River near Sewickley and at dams Nos. 7 and 8 in the Allegheny near Kittanning.

CHARLEROI, Pa., Nov. 19.—Flood danger in the upper valley was averted today as the Monongahela River slowly receded after reaching a 30-foot stage. Construction activities in the Charleroi and Belle Vernon districts, where the new Pittsburgh and West Virginia Railroad bridge is being built had been menaced.

Navigation has been suspended for 24 hours, but at Lock No. 4 today the river was receding at the rate of one-tenth of a foot an hour.

Bottomlands throughout the district were flooded, but no serious damage to homes was reported.

SIDE WALKS of PITTSBURGH

by WILLIAM PFARR

SIDEWALKS feels the duty to warn Gov. Fisher, whose license number is a lonely 1, that Judge Martin's car, with a license of 48, was stolen . . . but recovered. . . . And to reveal that Pitt's champions were all warmed up to wallop Tech because Josh Williams, their crippled halfback, impressed boys with his dressing-room plea. . . . The Grand Theater will soon submit to expensive alterations, after which it will be known as the Warner. . . . Which has nothing to do with the fact that Harry Thaw was so pleased at getting through a call to New York in three minutes that he gave the William Penn operator a $2 tip. . . . Or that Matty Rumin knows a woman who is so busy in her candy store that she weighs, rather than counts, the nickels.

We don't like to accuse the Theater Guild of misrepresentation but the goat in last week's "Porgy" wasn't the one that was in the New York cast. . . . The original was quarantined in England because the goat quota was filled, or something. . . .

TWO Pitt students, Bill Everett and Arthur Symons, of Wilkinsburg, who shipped to China as deckhands, are back with the most vivid pictures you'll ever see of a Chinese revolution. . . . And Clarence Rice, of Yost Produce, and Russell Fickley, of Beltzhoover, have written and had published their first song, "I Dreamed That I Was Loving You" . . . Which is, we'd say, a brand new idea, eh? . . .

Society note from Ed Prendergast: Eloise Anderson, the town's most beautiful blonde, is leaving for New York to continue her art studies. . . .

ART NOTE: House-painter John Kane's portrait of himself almost in the altogether will be, or is, in the Boston Exhibition.

Haberdasher's proclamation: The town's best-dressed man is none other than Col. Moore, the boss of the William Penn . . . but "Red" Hukill, of Webster Hall, is the best-informed clerk and Charlie Heubaugh, of the Roosevelt, is the most courteous, so we hold . . .

* * *

SPEAKING of well-dressed men, Mayor Kline may be delighted to know that he was the first Pittsburgh Mayor to succeed himself since 1858, when the term was extended to two years. . . . And Rod Zachary, of the Stevens Hotel, Chicago, has arrived to replace Ed Moriarty as an assistant manager of the William Penn. . . . Moriarty is transferred to the Eppley hostelry in Louisville.

Coincidence: Dr. Edward J. McCague, famed physician, and Boris G. Glagolin, famed Russian actor, who look alike, accidentally bumped into each other at Carnegie Tech. . . .

And do you know that if you spell Joe Glick backwards you are confronted by Keilg Eoj . . . Eskimo pie!

HOEY'S CHARGES GIVEN TO BAR

Charges of collusion between attorneys and police station attaches at the Central Station were made in a written statement sent by Police Inspector James N. Hoey to the Allegheny County Bar Association. The letter was mailed to Attorney William Watson Smith, president of the association, after he had requested the charges from Hoey.

Last week Hoey suspended Turkey William Flaccus in connection with alleged agreements between police officers and attorneys and at that time declared he would report the matter to the Bar Association. According to Hoey, police station attaches agree to obtain attorneys for prisoners and when authorized to do so, call upon certain members of the bar.

Hoey contended it was a matter which the Bar Association should investigate.

Smith stated that under the associations' bylaws, it was not within the province of the president to prefer charges against individual members, but he was empowered to present the case for the consideration of the association's offense committee. This, he stated, he was willing to do at any time Inspector Hoey turned over the evidence in his possession.

Hoey then mailed a brief containing the affidavits and evidence of the charges to Smith and promised full co-operation with the bar head in the case. He said that he would continue his efforts to break up the practice insofar as the police were concerned.

Attorney William B. McFall, of the Bar Association, said today that Hoey's complaint had been received and would be "thoroughly investigated." The complaint has been referred to the committee on offenses, McFall sa[id].

Woman, 84, Hurt In Falling, Dies

Mrs. Margaret White, 84, died early today in Homeopathic Hospital from injuries suffered when she fell in her home September 12.

Boy Shoots Friend Who Refused Him Ride

MANISTEE, Mich., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Because his friend, Bernard Oswald, 17, failed to give him a lift in his car as he passed on the road today, Veto Baraskivicz, 14, fired both barrels of his shotgun into the back of the car. Oswald was wounded in the neck but his condition was not regarded as serious.

State police turned Baraskivicz over to juvenile authorities of Lake County, where the shooting occurred.

TAGS ASSIGNED AUTO ELITE

Pennsylvania's motoring elite—those socially and politically prominent individuals whose automobiles bear registration tags from 1 to 100—was announced today for 1930.

In the list given out at the Bureau of Motor Vehicles, the Mellon family here stands out most prominently, having been granted six of the coveted "low number" tags. Gov. John S. Fisher, as usual, has number one.

18 COME HERE

Eighteen out of the first hundred license plates come to Pittsburgh with but one of the tags, No. 64, still unassigned. Rumor has it that the Governor's office at Harrisburg is receiving applications for this signal honor and this end of the state is expected to supply its full quota without delay.

The Mellon representation in this select list of motorists includes the Secretary of the Treasury, A. W. Mellon, with No. 48; W. L. Mellon, former chairman of the Republican State Committee, 26; Helen W. Mellon, 33; R. B. Mellon, 57; Richard K. Mellon, 59, and T. A. Mellon, 89.

HOLDERS OF TAGS

Among the other Pittsburghers are U. S. Senator David A. Reed, No. 94 an 22; W. G. Clyde, president of the Carnegie Steel Company, 70; Howard Rigby, former attache of the Governor's office, 84; James L. Stuart, Secretary of the Highways, 9; Mrs. Mary Flinn Lawrence, 29; James Francis Burke, 31; Peter Glick, 32; Paul C. Wolff, 49; W. G. Castin, 52; Joseph G. Armstrong, 62, and former Governor John K. Tener, 63. Armstrong also has been granted JA-63, his initials and age.

Besides Senator Reed the only individual assigned two tags among the first 100 is W. W. Atterbury, of Philadelphia, president of the Pennsylvania Railroad. With the exception of Joseph R. Grundy, president of the Pennsylvania Manufacturers' Association, and Mayor Charles H. Kline, of Pittsburgh, virtually all of the prominent political and industrial figures of the state are included in the select "list of 100."

Class at Bellevue To Meet Tonight

The Bethany Bible Class of the Bellevue Christian Church will hold its monthly meeting tonight at the home of Mrs. James A. Swan, 246 North Balph avenue, Bellevue. Assisting the hostess will be Mrs. George Miller, Mrs. Edward Beard and Mrs. Henry Netting.

Hiland Church to Present Playlet

"Mammy's Little White Rose," a playlet, will be given in the Hiland Presbyterian Church, Perrysville, tonight, by the young people of the church. Proceeds will go to the painting and decorating fund.

HIGHER SCHOOL TAX UP TODAY

The Board of Public Education was expected to act today on a recommendation made last night by the finance committee that the 1930 millage be set at 11¾ mills, an increase of one-quarter mill over the tax which has stood since 1922. During this period the board has expended $21,022,960 for new buildings and grounds.

The increase was made mandatory by action of the Legislature to meet salary increases for teachers, recommended by the Citizens' Committee on Teachers' Salaries. If adopted by the board today it will mean that taxpayers will pay 25 cents additional on each $1,000 of assessed property.

The committee awarded a contract for erecting portable buildings at the Lincoln school to S. W. Briggs, whose bid was $3,195. A contract for a rest room for teachers at the Lockhart school, North Side, was awarded to the Robinson & James Company at $778, while one for a stage curtain and a valance for the Morningside school was awarded to Boggs & Buhl at $514.45.

W. C. T. U. Meets At Wilkinsburg

The regular monthly meeting of the Wilkinsburg W. C. T. U. will be held tomorrow afternoon, at 2 o'clock, in the First Presbyterian Church. Mrs. Frank B. Davis will lead the devotions, and a report from the state convention recently held in Warren, Pa., will be given by Mrs. V. V. Snyder, who was a delegate.

WILL BE HOST TO CADDIES

Instead of the customary annual dinner for the caddies on Monday, November 25, the South Hills Country Club will entertain the boys with a boxing bout. John J. Leahy, chairman of the caddie committee, will be master of ceremonies and will be assisted by the members of his committee. They are: John Graham, Charles K. Brown and Enos Kirkpatrick.

Other entertainments will be provided after the bouts, foremost of which will be a buffet supper under the supervision of W. H. Williams, chairman of the house committee. Prizes will also be awarded to the caddies holding the highest credits for the season. Two hundred and fifty caddies are enrolled. Club members also will attend.

The boxing bout promises to be a big affair as very few of the boys have ever seen a boxing ring, let alone a real bout.

Young Reds Hiss Cleveland's Council

CLEVELAND, O., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Police were called to City Hall last night to quell a disturbance started by 40 young men, women and children, members of the Young Communist League, who broke up a meeting of City Council with a demand for passage of an ordinance providing free street car rides for school children.

After the leaders had been ousted by the Council's sergeant-at-arms, the children began hissing Council members and were finally driven out of the chamber by a squad of police. The children went down the street singing the "Internationale."

Allegheny Elks To Hold Bazar

Allegheny Elks will hold a bazar in their temple on Cedar avenue. The bazar will open November 25 and will continue until December 7, with dancing every night. Proceeds will be used to clear the mortgage on their temple.

FREE CARMAN IN DEATH

Motorman Joseph Labritz, tried on a charge of involuntary manslaughter in Criminal Court for the death of Sarah Jane McGee, 2, of House 39, Library road, Castle Shannon, July 10, was ordered acquitted by Visiting Judge J. Frank Graff, of Armstrong County, after the evidence was all in. The jury placed the costs on the county.

Labritz testified that he was watching two slightly larger children who had run across the tracks near Grove Station, Castle Shannon, and failed to see the little tot, who, too small to step over the rail, had crawled over it just behind the other children. They cleared the track, but the slowed-down car crushed the little child.

The Utopian Bible class of the Bellevue Methodist Protestant Church meets this afternoon at the home of Mrs. W. A. Walker, 228 Belva street, Avalon. Mrs. J. A. Watson will be associate hostess.

5 YOUTHS HELD IN AUTO THEFT

Five youths were held on larceny charges in Central Police Court today in the theft of an automobile from South Eighteenth and Sarah streets on Armistice Day.

They are alleged to have taken a car belonging to Pannier Brothers, 1207 Sandusky street, to Baldwin Township and stripped it of tires.

They were docketed as Walter Maleski, 1707 Edwards way; Edward Prussinoski, 1925 Mary street; Joseph Kierzkowski, 121 South Twenty-first street; Ernest Wilhelm, 625 Margaret street, Mt. Oliver, and Melvin Strunk, 711 Margaret street, Mt. Oliver.

Dismissed Sleuth Gets New Badge

Patrick E. (Happy) Moran, former city detective dismissed last spring by Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh, today has a brand new private detective license, conferred upon him by Judge Harry H. Rowand, in Quarter Sessions Court. Moran, who lives in Brownsville road, plans to engage in the detective business on his own.

Supt. Walsh, Wife, Leave for Seashore

Superintendent of Police Peter P. Walsh and Mrs. Walsh left Pittsburgh last night for Atlantic City, where the police head will recuperate from an illness which confined him in Mercy Hospital more than a week.

The Camera Question Box

The Sun-Telegraph's "Camera Question Box" each day will ask a question of public interest to Pittsburghers and will photograph those interviewed.

Today's Question: How could $10,000,000 be best spent for public improvements in Pittsburgh?

R. CARSON, Homewood, chauffeur: "The money could be best spent to build a subway through the downtown section. It would relieve a lot of traffic congestion now becoming a menace. If anyone doubts this, just let them drive in the city traffic for only one day, especially during the morning and evening rush periods. With a subway, a lot of slow trolleys would be removed. As it is, they hold up traffic."

R. Carson.

JOHN M. SCHWEIG, Lucina street, Overbrook, executive: "The money should be spent on an elevated railway surrounding the Golden Triangle, similar to the one around Chicago's famous loop. An elevated system would provide speed for the downtown, as far as rail traffic was concerned. Slow trolleys would be done away with. It would be a big improvement.

John M. Schweig

EDWARD A. MUELLER, South St. Clair street, tuner: "I'd build a subway with the money. If I had any money left over, I'd build a traffic double deck ramp to hurry along traffic. Everyone knows Pittsburgh needs such improvements if we want to keep pace with the growing population and other cities. A ramp and subway would avoid the bottle neck traffic conditions that now confront us."

E. A. Mueller.

S. L. KLEBER, Brookside Farms, manufacturer: "I think the money should be spent on a subway. The subway would keep slow moving trolleys off busy sections downtown. I prefer a subway to an 'L' because it doesn't add to the street noises and doesn't detract from the beauty of streets as an elevated would. Subways are speedy and enable shoppers to reach the downtown quickly from residential districts. In the future, the initial tube should be linked with others from various sections of the city."

S. L. Kleber.

JOHN MARQUIS, Lawson avenue, Crafton Heights, salesman: "What Pittsburgh needs is a wharf and river terminal. The money could be used to good advantage in making possible this great project. The matter has been under discussion for a long time but nothing definite has been done. Since the canalization of the Ohio river, traffic on waterways has increased greatly. As time passes this will increase. Pittsburgh will be left in the lurch if it can't have a good terminal."

John Marquis.

JEANNE O. HAYES, Fifth avenue, publicity director: "An elevated train system should be built with such a sum. That's the big thing Pittsburgh needs right now. It should be built with an eye to the future. The city's needs will be greater then than now. Chicago and Philadelphia elevateds relieve a lot of traffic congestion and there is no reason why one here shouldn't do the same."

Kaufmann Art School Aid to Students

By PENELOPE REDD.

The newly completed art school of the Irene Kaufmann Settlement was viewed for the first time yesterday by Henry Kaufmann, the donor.

"Fun for the many as they swim in the Urban pool or see plays in the auditorium, is of course, of paramount importance; but, we do not forget the few who merit individual instruction in the arts," said Mr. Kaufmann, who has made it possible for Pittsburgh children to secure excellent art instruction at a trifling cost within the building he has created.

Penelope Redd.

One of Mr. Kaufmann's "few," William Wolfson, an etcher and lithographer, has reached national prominence through the recent choice of his lithograph for the "Fifty Prints of the Year." Two others, from the "few," William Shulgold and Sam Rosenberg have received the highest awards locally, have exhibited in the Carnegie Internationals, and also in the major eastern exhibitions.

ABILITY DEVELOPED

Sam Rosenberg, who is the director of the art school, has developed students of marked ability, within the last seven years. Several have already graduated from the Carnegie Art School with honors. A half dozen have exhibited with the Associated Artists. One pupil, Milton Weiss won the George Bellows Memorial Award last year in competition with the art high school students of the entire country. Mr. Rosenberg, garnering the few, at the Irene Kaufmann Settlement is gradually building up a group of exhibition stature.

Bill Rockne's Yarn

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., Nov. 19.—Knute Rockne started his big game in Chicago Saturday with his Irish team, but after California made a touchdown, he rushed in his Eyetalians. With the Irish a-fighting, and the Eyetalians playing football, there is no beating that team.

They still call it football, and there hasn't been a goal kicked since Indian Jim Thorpe would stand in the center of a football field and place a drop-kick through the president of the university's window.

While we are decorating pilots that make fast records in a wonderfully equipped plane, stop and give a great hand to this one in Seattle, who, with two Boy Scouts aboard, made a forced landing on the top of a department store roof and saved all hands.

POLICE TRAIL THIEVES IN $20,000 TAPESTRY ROBBERY

STALLED AUTO LOOTED OF LINENS

Imported Materials Taken In Homewood; Possible Outlets Under Scrutiny

Detectives today were on the lookout for persons attempting to dispose of imported linens, antique tapestries and draperies valued at $20,000 which were stolen from the automobile of F. J. Musarrig, of the El Tower Apartments, late yesterday.

Squirrel Hill police reported that the merchandise was stolen from Musarrig's machine when he ran out of gasoline in Lang avenue, near the Pennsylvania Railroad. Musarrig locked the car and walked a short distance to a gas station. When he returned a few minutes later, police said, he discovered a window in the machine broken and the tapestries, linens and draperies stolen.

It was believed by police that the thieves were familiar with the victim's business and followed him, waiting their opportunity to steal the stuff.

Veteran Brings Suit On War Risk Policy

David Morgan, of 2008 South Eighteenth street extension, veteran of the World War, filed a suit in Federal Court, seeking to recover from the government $7,647 on a war risk insurance policy. In his bill of complaint he avers that under the policy he was to have received $57.50 per month in event of permanent disability during the life time of the policy. He said he has been permanently disabled since last September 29, 1918. Morgan entered the Army April 8, 1918, and was dishonorably discharged April 14, 1919.

County Will Settle 6-Year-Old Claim

Settlement of a six-year-old claim against the county by the Thomas Cronin Company was ordered by the commissioners at their meeting yesterday.

The claim is for $33,330 for word done in 1923 building a retaining wall in Mansfield avenue. Recommendation that the claim be settled for $12,750 was approved. The project was abandoned after the organization of the County Department of Public Works. The claim was chiefly for rental of equipment tied up because of the abandonment.

Two Children Hit By Trucks, Injured

Struck by a truck near his home, John Wierbielski, 7, of Glassmere, was in the Allegheny Valley Hospital, suffering from lacerations of the head and internal injuries. The truck was said to have been driven by Miles A. Lusk, of New Kensington.

John Keegan, 6, of Bairdsford, suffered a probable fracture of the skull when struck by a truck near his home. He was taken to Allegheny General Hospital.

Mothers' Branch To Hold Meeting

The Mothers' Branch, Avalon Presbyterian Church, will meet tomorrow at 2:30 p. m. in the church rooms. A home economics expert will give a demonstration. Mrs. Grace Stedeford will have charge of the music.

GIRL ASKS AID, HER MEMORY BLANK

Blonde About 18 Unable To Establish Identity Gets Police Assistance

Police of the Central Station today were endeavoring to establish the identity of a blonde girl about 18, a victim of amnesia.

Her memory virtually a blank, the girl approached Cornerman Thomas Kinney at Fifth avenue and Smithfield street last night and asked him for assistance. Kinney took her to the station, from where she was removed to the Allegheny General Hospital. After an examination, it was evident she was suffering from loss of memory.

She was returned to the matron's department while police were making effort to learn her name. She has blue eyes, is five feet six inches tall and weighs about 130 pounds. She was attired in a brown fur coat, with hat, stockings, shoes and dress to match.

In the pocket of her coat police found a compact, her gloves and the card of a downtown business firm.

FUND FOR SHADELAND BRIDGE REPAIR UP IN COUNCIL

SPAN CONDITION DANGEROUS, MAYOR SAYS

Legislation for Purchase Of Land for Boulevard Traffic Circle Presented

Council today will consider an ordinance appropriating $30,000 for repairs to Shadeland Avenue Bridge over Woods Run.

The ordinance was sent to Council yesterday with a letter from Mayor Charles H. Kline and Controller Henry O. Evans who certified that an emergency existed as a result of the dangerous condition of the bridge.

Daniel Winters urged a day's delay before passing the measure. Winters recalled that city engineers sounded panicky alarms years ago that other bridges "were falling down," whereas the spans are still safe and in daily use.

CONFER ON ROAD PLAN

"If it takes the Shadeland Avenue Bridge as long to fall as it has for the Smithfield Street Bridge to collapse, we will be safe in holding the matter over for another day for a full discussion of the situation," Winters said.

Council has adopted P. J. McArdle's resolution calling for a conference next week with city engineers to review plans for extending Mt. Washington roadway from Liberty Tunnel to South Tenth street. The conferees, probably, will also discuss the south approach to the proposed Tenth Street Bridge in its relation to street changes brought about by the roadway extension.

Council has received legislation authorizing the purchase of property near the present eastern terminus of the Boulevard of the Allies for a future traffic circle.

TO ACQUIRE LAND

One ordinance provided for the acquisition of land to furnish area for the widening of Zulema street at Coltart avenue, Fourth Ward, at a cost of $5,000 to permit the widening of the Boulevard of the Allies from Bates street to a point near Juliet street.

Policeman Hit by Auto Asks $40,000

Henry B. Pebler, a city policeman, asked $40,000 damages for personal injuries from O. M. Pannier, of Sandusky street, North Side, in a suit filed in Common Pleas Court. Pebler averred that while he was standing alongside a street car at Bigelow boulevard and Fifth avenue September 27 last, he was struck by an automobile owned by Pannier and driven by an agent. He alleged that he suffered concussion of the brain, a sprained neck and other serious injuries, confining him to a hospital for a long period.

of teaching by sending his students through all the departments of the settlement to make rapid, pencil sketches of girls sewing, boys at games or in the swimming pool—any activity to show their busy comrades.

SKETCHES FROM LIFE

On the sketch the youngster notes, by means of a code, the color, its intensity, and its value. Then the young sketcher proceeds, in the studio, to recreate in color the scene he has observed. From the preliminary color study an oil painting is evolved on a panel. The completed panel will be incorporated as part of a scheme of wall painting with which Mr. Rosenberg intends to decorate the main working studio of the art school. Eventually the project will be extended to provide mural decorations for the entire building. Thus, Mr. Rosenberg gives a definite goal to the art students while teaching them to work directly from life in motion.

A look out into the twilight upon the children on the playground as they were sliding, whirling and swinging, prompts the beginning of a painting. Henry Kaufmann, also watching, said: "Right it is for youth to have good times; and should we find the talented few, we, too are happy."

Gleaming hair!

The way modern hair dressers accentuate your hair by lovely lines and contours make it important to keep the hair in perfect condition.

Now, millions know the quickest way to give the hair new life and lustre; to bring out its natural color, is with Danderine. It is so easy to use; you simply moisten your brush with it each time you arrange your hair.

Danderine dissolves the crust of dandruff; stops falling hair; puts the scalp in the pink of condition. It helps the hair grow long, silky, abundant; gives it more lustre than brilliantine. It makes the hair easy-to-arrange; holds it in place. Waves look nicer; stay in longer when "set" with Danderine.

NEW RECEVERS PAVE WAY FOR TELEVISION

Westinghouse Announces Patent Making Possible Film Show Broadcasts

The Westinghouse Electric and Manufacturing Company announced today that Dr. Vladimir Zworykin, a research engineer at its East Pittsburgh laboratory, has invented a new type of television receiver which permits the pictures to be seen by a roomful of spectators at one time. He calls it a "kinescope."

In the television receivers used until now the images could be seen by only one or two persons.

The outstanding feature of Dr. Zworykin's apparatus is a cathode ray tube which gives it advantages over the scanning disk method of visual broadcasting.

OPENS NEW FIELD

The pictures formed by the kinescope are four by five inches in dimension, but can be made larger or brighter by increasing the voltage. A reflecting mirror on the receiver permits the picture to be seen by a number of spectators.

The Westinghouse company is constructing a number of kinescopes and will give them a thorough field test through Station KDKA, which already is operating a daily television broadcast with the scanning disk type of transmission.

Prejudice Thrives Where Ignorance Hives!

AN ANCIENT PREJUDICE HAS BEEN REMOVED

AMERICAN INTELLIGENCE beckons all to cultivate knowledge. Tyranny, intolerance and poverty wither as schools grow in this great land of opportunity.*

"toasting did it"—

Gone is that ancient prejudice against cigarettes—Progress has been made. We removed the prejudice against cigarettes when we removed harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from the tobaccos.

YEARS ago, when cigarettes were made without the aid of modern science, there originated that ancient prejudice against all cigarettes. That criticism is no longer justified. LUCKY STRIKE, the finest cigarette you ever smoked, made of the choicest tobacco, properly aged and skillfully blended—"It's Toasted."

"TOASTING," the most modern step in cigarette manufacture, removes from LUCKY STRIKE harmful irritants which are present in cigarettes manufactured in the old-fashioned way.

Everyone knows that heat purifies, and so "TOASTING"—LUCKY STRIKE'S extra secret process—removes harmful corrosive ACRIDS (pungent irritants) from LUCKIES which in the old-fashioned manufacture of cigarettes cause throat irritation and coughing. Thus "TOASTING" has destroyed that ancient prejudice against cigarette smoking by men and by women.

"It's toasted"

No Throat Irritation—No Cough.

"It's Toasted"—the phrase that describes the extra "toasting" process applied in the manufacture of Lucky Strike Cigarettes. The finest tobaccos—the Cream of the Crop—are scientifically subjected to penetrating heat at minimum, 260°—maximum, 300°, Fahrenheit. The exact, expert regulation of such high temperatures removes impurities. More than a slogan, "It's Toasted" is recognized by millions as the most modern step in cigarette manufacture.

ROCKNE SUGGESTS LOCALS FOR TRIP

ACCORDING to latest reports, the selection of an Eastern or mid-Western football team to meet a Coast eleven in the big Tournament of Roses game in Pasadena on New Year's Day will be made earlier than expected, possibly within a day or two, and in view of Pitt's decisive victory over Carnegie Tech last Saturday, with only a Thanksgiving Day win against Penn State needed to complete a season without a defeat or a tie, local gridiron followers are hopeful that a message will come very shortly to W. D. Harrison, director of athletics at the university, notifying him that the Panthers have been chosen.

W. D. Harrison

After last Saturday's great exhibition there can be no doubt that Dr. Sutherland's eleven is the best in the East, Notre Dame, in the Middle West, shapes up as the only qualified rival in line for the Coast invitation, and Pitt's chances look all the more encouraging now since it develops that the South Bend university is not favorably inclined toward letting its team make the trip.

MOREOVER, Coach Knute Rockne, of the South Bend stars, is reported to have recommended Pitt. Before last Saturday's game with Southern California, Rockne is said to have informed a friend that even if he were fortunate enough to win all of his remaining games, he was quite sure the Notre Dame faculty would not sanction a trip to California.

"Our team has done a great deal of traveling this year," Rockne is quoted, "including two trips to Chicago which upset the routine, and this would militate against another Coast trip. Personally, I would not favor such a trip, for the reason that my team played a thoroughly representative coast aggregation before a great audience in Chicago. I suggest the Pitt Panthers as the likely outfit to go to the Coast."

JOE DONCHESS, Pitt's terminal star, and an all-America end if ever there was one, will pass out of the football picture as a player at the close of the present season, but he will continue to be a cog in the Panther football machine, nevertheless.

For next year and the following season, at least, it will be Assistant Coach Donchess. Though no longer eligible to play after this season, Joe will remain in the university two more years to complete his six-year medical course.

Joe Donchess

IT IS learned that Donchess is to be appointed an assistant coach to give special attention to the ends. He will not displace any member of the present staff, but will be an addition to the corps. It would be difficult to find a man better qualified for the job. As the greatest end in Pitt's history, Joe knows every detail of end play, and even though his own playing days will be over he will still be a great help to the Panthers for the advanced schooling he will be able to give the candidates for the position at which he has long been one of the country's greatest.

MANAGER FRANKIE FREDERICKSON, of the Pittsburgh hockey team, issues the following statement to the ice fans of Pittsburgh: "I want to take this opportunity, on behalf of the members of the Pittsburgh team and myself, to thank the fans publicly for the reception tendered us and the evidence of good will shown on the occasion of our opening game last Saturday night.

"True, it was disappointing to lose the inaugural contest, but it was quite evident that the fans were with our boys, and at every opportunity they gave us new encouragement. Hockey is a most exciting game, one of the fastest sports known, combining all the attributes essential to giving its followers thrills and keeping them in a state of excitement for the full 60 minutes of play.

"SINCE the inception of major league hockey in the East, its growth has been phenomenal, and it is only a matter of time until other winter sports will sink into comparative insignificance. The future of major league hockey in Pittsburgh lies in the palms of the local fans. Professional sport, like any other legitimate business enterprise, cannot function successfully without patronage.

Frank Frederickson

"The attendance at the professional games this season will undoubtedly be the factor that will determine whether or not Benny Leonard, owner of the franchise, will feel justified in interesting either local or outside capital in the erection of a palatial arena for the future home of hockey in Pittsburgh or move his franchise elsewhere.

"LET me assure the fans that I will do my utmost in my role as manager to inspire the boys under my command to give their best at all times. Moreover, to the best of my ability, I will endeavor to bolster any weak spots on the club, and to do everything possible to satisfy and please our patrons. The patronage, encouragement and cheers of the fans mean more to the players than anything else. The fans can do more than any other element to make our season a successful and memorable one. We are certain to have our ups and downs, but win or lose we will try to give the patrons their money's worth, so that we can continue to deserve their patronage. They say the world loves a winner, but I am also sure that the world shows its fair share of admiration for a loser, provided the loser puts up a game battle. We want to win for our own sakes and for your satisfaction, but if we do lose, we intend to win your applause by battling gamley."

NOW that success has rewarded the efforts of John T. Taylor and W. S. Haddock to obtain the big National championship track and field meet of the A. A. U. for this city next summer, following the Sun-Telegraph's suggestion that an attempt be made to land the important event for Pittsburgh when Los Angeles withdrew from the bidding, a boom in track athletics hereabouts is certain to result.

Not only will the holding of the greatest of all annual track meets here for the first time since 1911 be a big boost for Pittsburgh throughout the country, and add largely to this city's fame in sports, but it will serve, before it is held and afterward, to stimulate athletic competition and interest in this district beyond any mark reached in recent years. The women's outdoor swimming championships will go elsewhere as a result of Pittsburgh's geeting the track meet, but the latter event is by far the more important and the local A. A. U. officials, representing the Allegheny Mountain Association, are to be congratulated upon their success in obtaining the award.

LEAFS TO PUT BUCS TO TEST AT GARDEN

CARL W. SHATTO.

The Pirates, who have not won an opening game since Pittsburgh was admitted to the National Hockey League, and who were turned back by the Montreal Maroons in the local lid-lifter last Saturday, will make another attempt to break into the victory column tonight when they entertain the Toronto Leafs at Duquesne Garden.

Two years ago the local puckmen fought through eight battles before they gained their first decision. Last season the Bucs copped their first triumph in their third start. Manager Frank Frederickson and his stalwarts can see no reason why this improvement in their season getaway record should not be continued, and they are confident that their 1929-30 record will show a victory on their second time out—tonight.

DUKE MADE ASSISTANT

A move which establishes a precedent in National League hockey, and which may result in an improvement in the Pirate showing, was made yesterday when Duke McCurry was signed to assist Manager Frederickson in the directing of the team. McCurry, a prominent figure in local ice circles since the days when Pittsburgh was collecting amateur championships, is to direct the team from the bench tonight, and he will continue to serve in the capacity of assistant pilot throughout the season.

McCurry was signed at the suggestion of Frederickson, who carries the double burden of player and manager. After trying to do two things at once in the opener Saturday, Freddie decided that his playing handicapped him in his work of directing the team, and that his work of directing the team handicapped him in his playing.

McCurry, a senior in the dental school at Pitt, knows his hockey and is well supplied with mental equipment. With the Duke directing the play from the bench and Frederickson free to devote all his attention to his play, the work of the Bucs is likely to show a general improvement.

LOWREY MAY NOT PLAY

Frederickson put his charges through a long workout yesterday, and with the exception of Lowrey and Darragh, the Bucs are in fine condition for tonight's fight. Lowrey, handicapped by a sprained ankle in the opener, now has an added affliction in an attack of flu, and there is some question as to whether or not he will be able to take his place in the lineup. Darragh's cracked rib has not completely mended, but he gave a brilliant exhibition of skating and stick handling in the inaugural, and he will be out to repeat his performance

Bud Jarvis, Archie Briden and Cliff Barton, the Pirates' promising rookies, will see plenty of action tonight. Manager Frederickson is contemplating several lineup changes, and the new men figure in his plans. Barton did not get into the lid-lifter, but he now is well acquainted with the Bucs' formations, and will make his bow against the Leafs.

FAST GAME LIKELY

Play in tonight's game should be faster but less bruising than it was in the Garden opener. The Leafs are just as fast as the Maroons are rough, and in Blair, Bailey and Harold Cotton, former Pirate, they boast three skaters who compare well with the niftiest in the circuit. Bailey was the National League's leading scorer last season, and he still is a "rookie." Blair is the best center to break into the big time in years, and Cotton, well known to local fans as a result of his years of service here, scored a timely goal and showed exceptionally well in Toronto's first two starts.

Tonight's game will mark Cotton's first appearance here in an enemy uniform. He was traded to the Leafs for Jerry Lowrey late last season.

JOE M'GINNITY IS BURIED

McALLISTER, Okla., Nov. 19.—(INS)—Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity, famous baseball player of 25 years ago, who died in New York last Wednesday, was buried here yesterday.

Pall bearers were men who were his pals years ago when he was mule driver in the No. 7 Coal Mine at Krebs, near here. McGinnity played baseball on the side in those days.

McGinnity gained the name of Iron Man in 1900 with the Brooklyn team. He pitched and won seven games in six days, a feat that has never been equalled.

The body was accompanied here by McGinnity's daughter, Mrs. A. V. Lappen, and her husband, of Brooklyn.

The Sadhu is a member of a peculiar sect in India who renounced the world and gave themselves to penance. They are supposed to be sitting in contemplation of their reincarnation. However, they apparently are just sitting. They make no sound, express no wish and apparently are apart from the activities of this world. There are many of these Sadhus performing their manifestations along the banks of the Holy River, the Ganges. I made many sketches and took pictures of them during my travels in that tremendously interesting country.

JACK THOMPSON BOUT 'BUST' AT GARDEN

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

They could have, or should have, set the Jack Thompson-Billy White main bout at Motor Square Garden last night to music. It was that sort of a fight. Pardon me, did I say "fight?" I mean one of those things.

Thompson, clever California Negro, won by a technical knockout in the eighth round when Referee Red Robinson took pity on the fans and stopped the "brutal" exhibition with Thompson putting on a flash of two-fisted punching and having White dizzy on the ropes. And all of this after Jack had fought through the seventh round with his right hand alone, claiming his left was injured. It seems he merely forgot the alibi for the punk display in the face of the crowd's sarcastic cracks when he cut loose in the eighth.

Indeed, the customers, and there were many of them there, the turnout being one of the best of the season at the Garden, began to walk out on the thing in a body in the fifth round, vowing they never would return to see two out-of-town slickers try to put it over on them.

LOOKS LIKE AN ACT

It looked for all the world like an act after Thompson had got off to a brilliant boxing and hard-punching start in the opening round. He rocked White twice with hard lefts to the body followed by booming rights on the chin. Thompson showed the class of a champion in this session, only to begin holding up his opponent in the second round, missing punches so deliberately and so palpably withholding the steam from those that did land that the crowd got wise to him at once and began to boo. It was so raw that

HARMON ASKED TO RESIGN

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—The Herald and Examiner said today that Patrick T. (Paddy) Harmon had been asked to resign the presidency of the Chicago Stadium Corporation which owns the $5,000,000 sports and exhibition arena.

The request was made by the executive committee, the newspaper said, with the explanation that "a change of presidents will be beneficial to the stockholders."

The committee made it clear, according to the published account, that it had no personal ill feeling toward Harmon, nor criticism of his management of the various sporting events. The executive committee is composed largely of directors, who must take whatever further steps are to be made.

Harmon would not discuss the matter.

The directorate includes Vincent Bendix, John J. Mitchell, Jr., Sheldon Clark, Clement Studebaker, Jr., Arthur W. Cutten and B. A. Masse.

JOEY KATKISH, PAUL BALINT KNOCKED OUT

NEW CASTLE, Pa., Nov. 19.—Phil Tobias, New York, was awarded the decision over Ernie Peters, Chicago, in 10 rounds at Jolly Bowl last night. Tobias won by a slight margin, Peters putting up a remarkable fight all the way. In the scheduled six-round semi-final, Romeo Pacelli, New Castle, knocked out Joey Katkish, of Pittsburgh, in the fifth round. Katkish was getting up as Referee George Chip finished the count.

Bus Hardy, Beaver Falls, knocked out Paul Balint, of Pittsburgh, in the first round of their scheduled six-round match. Balint's head struck the floor hard as he was felled by a right-hand punch.

Johnny Jennings, of New Castle, won the decision in four rounds from Barney Davies, of Cleveland.

Jim McKey, of Akron, knocked out Larry Gaston, of Cleveland, in the second round of their scheduled four-round match.

Sullivan Awards Are Set Up By A. A. U.

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Establishment of two annual awards in memory of the late James E. Sullivan, pioneer executive of the Amateur Athletic Union, were decided upon by the convention yesterday.

One, known as the Sullivan Trophy, and in the form of a gold cup, will be awarded each year to the outstanding American athlete. The other, known as the Sullivan Service Medal, will be awarded to the athlete, leader or executive figure considered to have done the most for any of the branches of sport fostered by the A. A. U. The medal award will be open to foreign as well as American competition.

The convention appropriated $2,500 from the James E. Sullivan Memorial Fund on the recommendation of Joseph B. MacCabe, of Boston, to cover the Sullivan Trophy award.

LOCAL GOLFERS QUALIFY

PINEHURST, N. C., Nov. 19.—Three Pittsburghers playing in the Fourteenth annual Carolina tournament on the links here yesterday qualified together in the third division.

A. P. Dysart scored 53-47—100; A. L. Vencill, 52-50—102, and Lawrence Barr, 50-52—102. H. C. Lowther, of Beaver, was in the fourth division with 58-54—112.

OFFICIALS CHOSEN

Gordon Mullen will serve as meet director and W. S. Haddock will act as referee at the championship swimming meet to be held Saturday evening at the P. A. A. The championship events on the program are 100-yard senior A. M. A. breast stroke for women, 500-yard senior A. M. A. free style for men, and low board divine for men.

INDIANS BOAST IMPRESSIVE RECORD

By JESS CARVER.

Mr. Lone Star Deitz, a socially and otherwise prominent citizen of Lawrence, Kan., will visit Pittsburgh this week-end, chaperoning his Haskell Indian football team here for its game with Duquesne at Forbes Field.

Coach Deitz.

Lone Star and his Injuns will arrive in town Friday morning and will pitch their tepees in the first vacant lot they come to not filled up with parked autos at half a buck a throw. All the Braves will be on hand. Ferocious Blow Wind, Tall Trees, Hunting Dog, Big Bone, Long Knives, Little Bone, Prairie Dog, Spotted Turtle and the rest of the Chippewas, Creeks, Cherokees, Pimas, Delawares, Oneidas, Cadds and Piutes will be used in the jollification at Forbes Field.

Haskell boasts an impressive record. The Indians have defeated Friends University (38-7), North Dakota (13-6), Baker (7-0), Butler (13-6), Creighton (19-12) and Missouri Teachers (22-6). The only team able to down Lone Star's club this year was the powerful Loyola University of New Orleans machine, said Loyolians taking a 19-12 win.

NO PITT-TECH DRILL

There was no practice listed for either Pitt or Tech yesterday. It is doubtful if there will be any more today.

Bob Higgins, Joe Bedenk and Larry Conover, beauty experts of the Penn State coaching staff, attended the Pitt-Tech game Saturday. They will be back with reinforcements Thanksgiving Day.

As Walter Winchell would write it—its a boy at the Hank Hangertner's (Ulhardt Hangartner-Mary Cook). Mother and child (and father) are doing very nicely.

BELIEVE IT OR NOT

The first thing that strikes you about this Pitt football team is the line . . . the second is Parkinson. Then you are past being struck.

At that, the game Saturday wasn't half as hard on the ball players as the after-game hangovers were on some of the spectators.

WEAK ELEVENS OFTEN HURT BIG TEAMS

By CAPT. (BIFF) JONES,
(Head Football Coach United States Military Academy.)

From the standpoint of the quarterback an extremely easy game, such as that put up by Dickinson against Army, is likely to lead to bad habits of thought.

The most fundamental principles can be violated and still the score will roll up.

Passes can be thrown from behind your own goal line. Nine times out of ten they will be completed, an obviously incorrect percentage. Or suppose the opponents intercept. In a big game an interception down here usually means a score. But in the little game, even if the opponents do get the ball in scoring position, the man power of the defense is able to stop them.

NEVER IN HOLE

In a game of this type, the quarterback is never put in a hole where he has to kick. In the entire game Saturday Army only punted twice. Realizing the important part still played by the kicking game in major contests, I think it a wise plan, in some of the easy early-season games, to instruct the quarterback to kick on first down every time he gets the ball in his own half of the field. This is the only way to make sure that some kicking will be done. This is also the scientific way to keep the score down. Kicking on first down up to the 50, of course, gives the other team every posible opportunity to use its attack, if any.

In Saturday's game the Army quarterback on several occasions passed on fourth down, when around midfield. This situation normally calls for a punt. There would be times when calling the pass would be all right—for instance, behind in the score and a short time left to play, or, if the opponents presented a glaring displacement of backfield strength, making completion of the pass practically certain. This last situation, by the way, rarely arises.

In the small game, the quarter-

A. A. U. HEAD WARNS AGAINST COMMERCIALISM

FOUNDATION'S REPORT GETS MENTION

ST. LOUIS, Nov. 19.—(INS.)—Delegates to the Amateur Athletic Union turned to the election of officers today after Avery Brundage, national president, last night warned members that commercialism is threatening amateur athletics in America.

"The report of the Carnegie Foundation is an earnest study pointing out certain demoralizing tendencies that exist in college sport today, calling attention to the evils which all students of athletic affairs realize may follow in the train of football games attracting receipts of a quarter of a million dollars," Brundage told delegates at a banquet last night.

HARMS SPORTS

Brundage predicted the final decay of college athletics if the present tendencies persist.

"If the tendencies pointed out in the Carnegie report are allowed to prevail," he continued, "it will not be long before our college stadia are as forlorn and empty as the Roman Coliseum.

"During the past few years it has become increasingly popular to attack the amateur code. It is asserted that our amateur rules are producing a race of cheats and liars, and that they should therefore be abolished.

"The amateur code has been coupled with the Volstead act as an agent tending to break down respect for law, and the Amateur Athletic Union has been denounced for attempting to uphold such an archaic system.

"Into the amateur code has been incorporated all the laws of good sportsmanship, and if amateur sport is not marked by fair play and courtesy, by an honest observance of the rules without resort to technicalities, and if it is not conducted on a lofty plane with a chivalrous regard for friend or foe, it falls short of its object."

ELECTION TODAY

Besides the election of officers today, the delegates are to award athletic tournaments to associations affiliated with the A. A. U., in various parts of the country and the naming of next year's convention city.

Most of the tournaments have been distributed, but St. Louis is prepared to raise $10,000 or more to take the 1930 senior boxing championships from Boston, the St. Louis delegates claiming that the easterners were allowed too many votes.

Three of the new world records were entered in the book yesterday as events made with the starting blocks. The starting blocks were not officially sanctioned as yet by the A. A. U. and will not be formally recognized until the International Federation passes upon them at its next session in May.

In the meantime starting blocks may be used, but records, such as the 9 2-5 seconds for 100-yard dash and 20.6 for 220-yard dash, credited to George Simpton, of Ohio State, and the 22.8 for the 220-yard low hurdles, allowed R. Rockaway, also of Ohio State, will have to be described as marks "made with starting blocks."

MARKS RECOGNIZED

Other world records recognized at yesterday's session included: 16-pound shot put, 51 feet 11⅝ inches, made by Herman Brix, Los Angeles A. C.; discus throw, 163 feet 8¾ inches, made by Eric Krenz, Stanford U.; pole vault, 14 feet 1½ inches, made by Lee Barnes, University of Southern California; 25-foot rope climb, 6 seconds, made by Robert Burton, Los Angeles A. C.

Charles Borah, Southern California; Frank C. Wyckoff, Glendale Junior College, and Emmett Toppino, of Loyola University, New Orleans, tied the world mark for 100 yards at 9 3-5 seconds.

WEAK ELEVENS OFTEN HURT

back does not have to bother to intelligently probe the defense, for soft spots to be used when needed. Neither does he have to expend any mental energy trying to create these soft spots by maneuvering defensive players out of normal position. It often takes a good quarterback nearly an entire game to accomplish this against a good team.

MUST KNOW RIGHT PLAYS

Quarterbacks in a game between equals, must always keep foremost in their minds what plays are going, and more important, what plays are not going. It is a costly and frequent procedure to keep calling plays that are not going. Always be right.

Some coaches, in order to get the most practice for their teams, in a game of this caliber, instruct the quarterbacks as follows:

"After the game is well in hand, call only plays that go at the opponents' strong points."

This, of course, calls on the team for more physical effort, and is perhaps a good principle.

The game Saturday did illustrate one thing. A forward passing attack is no good without a running attack to go with it. Dickinson had a good passer and several excellent receivers. The passes were well designed. It tried many, but could not consistently advance the ball due to the fact that the Army defense could afford to set itself for the pass. Had Dickerson had a strong enough team to advance even a little by rushing, its passes would have looked better.

PIRATE FOE TONIGHT

HAPPY DAY

LINKS TUTORS MAY CHANGE PRO BERTHS

By VERN SWARTSFAGER

It's a cinch professionals at several of our district country clubs will change hands before the 1930 golf season rolls around, if Dame Rumor and a certain amount of common sense may be considered.

For instance, it would not be at all surprising to learn that Archie Loeffler, former pro at Hill Crest, in New Kensington; at Willow Springs, San Antonio, Tex., and now a private tutor to a wealthy Long Island business man, would be stationed in Tom Gray's place at the Ambridge Country Club next year.

CHANGES EXPECTED

And, although there does not appear on the well-known horizon any material facts relating to their specific cases, it is said that Walter Andrews will not return to the Beaver Valley Country Club, nor Walter Johnstone to the Butler Country Club. Peter Walsh is rumored to have left the Greenville Country Club, and the Indiana Country Club is looking for a man to replace Gammon.

Emil (Dutch) Loeffler, who now holds the pro-greenkeepership at the Oakmont Country Club, will sign an out-of-town professional as his assistant (keeping Bill Rowe, nevertheless) and an assistant greenkeeper.

Tee to Green

The National open championship of 1931 will be played at the Oakmont Country Club, if present reports on the subject materialize. It will be a compliment to William C. Fownes, Jr., former U. S. G. A. prexy, who spent many an hour assisting in the work of testing the new golf ball, which is to be the standard pellet after December 31 of next year.

Inasmuch as the National open will be the first real test of the new ball, local golfers will have the edge on the rest of the country in seeing whether or not it affects the games of the big stars.

Eddie Townes, former local pro, will be in town this winter as an instructor at the Downtown Golf Club, second floor, 313 Fourth avenue, which Ben and Archie Loeffler are conducting. He may stay here next year as pro at one of the clubs.

The report that Horace Brand would leave the Uniontown Country Club this year is all wet. Horace is carrying his signed 1931 contract around in his hip pocket.

The Pennsylvania Society golf committee of the Sons of the American Revolution will meet Friday at 12:15 in the eleventh floor dining room at Kaufmann's, according to Col. Franklin Blackstone, chairman of the National and State golf committees.

Good Managed First Eleven At Coe

CEDAR RAPIDS, Ia., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—George W. Good, secretary of war, who died in Washington last night, was the organizer and manager of the first football team at Coe College in 1891.

A professor at Coe College recalled that Good, while a student there, went on a strike. This happened in 1887 when Dr. James Marshall was elected president. The college president was a strict disciplinarian and expelled several students for infractions of the rules. In sympathy with the expelled students, many other students, including Good, went on strike and refused to attend classes.

Good left Coe to attend the Iowa State College during his freshman and sophomore years, but he returned to Coe for his last two years of college work.

In his college days Good was active as a promoter, and made much of the money to pay for his college expenses in this way.

HASKELL WINS LAST GAME AT HOME

LAWRENCE, Kan., Nov. 19.—Haskell Indian School here outdowned and outgained the Kirksville State Teachers College, of Kirksville, Mo., to a score in each period of a night game held in the Haskell Stadium last night. The final score was 22 to 6, the Teachers gaining a touchdown in the second period.

Fireworks and Indian yells featured the last home game of the braves before they leave the last of the week for Pittsburgh, where they will engage the Duquesne University eleven Saturday afternoon.

Haskell opened last night's game with a drive from the kickoff that netted them 65 yards and a touchdown, Murphy scoring on a line plunge.

Wilson, Indian halfback, scored in the second period on a long end run, after Charles and Murphy each had ran 25 yards. Henry, Kirksville end, scored the Teachers touchdown on a long pass from Turner. Capt. Weller, of Haskell, place-kicked a goal from the 25-yard line in the third period and Wilson ran over the third Haskell score on a wide end run in the closing minutes of play. The score followed Cost's interception of a Kirksville pass on the Teachers nine-yard line.

Stewart owned a number of hunting leases in this section and operated them as an adjunct to his resort hotel. He came here from Austin in the fall of 1923. Among the teams he had coached before going to the University of Texas were those at Clemson College, South Carolina; Oregon Aggies, and Nebraska University.

Massey weighed 128; Blitman, 129. Johnny Jadick, Philadelphia, won a slashing victory over Louis Vincentini, of Chile, in the 10-round semi-windup. Jadick weighed 133; Vincentini 135.

BERG TOPS ELKINS

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Jack (Kid) Berg, English junior lightweight, won the decision over Eddie Elkins, of Harlem, in their 10-round bout at the St. Nicholas Arena last night. Elkins surprised the fans by carrying the fight to the British boxer in the early rounds. Berg weighed 138 pounds; Elkins 137½.

Ben Jeby, of the East Side, gave Tony Vacarelli, of Harlem, a terrific trouncing in the 10-round semi-final. Each weighed 160.

HAYMANN STOPPED

WICHITA, Kan., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Angus Snyder, of Dodge City, Kan., was awarded a technical knockout in the seventh round of his scheduled 10-round fight here last night with Dr. Ludwig Haymann, German heavyweight aspirant. Snyder weighed 190½, and Haymann 197.

ANNARINO VICTOR

NEWARK, O., Nov. 19.—George Annarino, Newark bantam, knocked out Sailor Lee, of Akron, in the third round, here last night. Homer Ronan, Newark, stopped Kid Walker, of Akron, in the eighth round. Nordie Smith, Akron, outpointed O. K. Twyham, of Akron, in 10 rounds.

ICE PIRATES PLAY LEAFS

the Leafs' front line, and Art Smith, Happy Day and Art Duncan, three tried veterans, do the defending in front of Goaler Lorne Chabot.

ANOTHER CONACHER

Toronto's first goal of the new season was scored by Charley Conacher, younger brother of the famous Lionel, former Pirate, now player-manager of the New York Americans. Local fans, recalling the deeds of the great Lionel, will give young Charley plenty of attention.

In two starts this season the Leafs have scored seven goals. They have such power and speed that they figure to finish well up in the race, and they probably will give the Pirate defense plenty of trouble tonight.

The capacity crowd which attended Saturday's opener left the arena convinced that the changes in the rules have served to make the fastest of games faster than ever before. The new laws are popular with the fans, if not with the players, and another capacity crowd probably will be out to see the Bucs and Leafs do their stuff. The probable lineup:

PIRATES.		LEAFS.
Miller	G.	Chabot
R. Smith	R. D.	A. Smith
MacKinnon	L. D.	Day
Frederickson	C.	Blair
Darragh	R. W.	Bailey
Milks	L. W.	Cox

Spares—Pirates: Drury, White, Lowrey, Barton, Jarvis, McCaffrey, Briden. Leafs: Duncan, Cotton, Conacher, Pettinger, Horner, Brydson, Primeau.

U. OF DETROIT TO APOLOGIZE

DETROIT, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—A formal apology not only expressing regret at the disorders that followed the University of Detroit's football victory over Michigan State at East Lansing last Saturday, but renouncing the allegiance of those responsible will be forwarded to the athletic board of State College.

This decision was reached last night after a meeting of the board at which Charles E. Dorais, coach of the Detroit team, declared the entire Titan football squad was on the way home when the disorders started.

In his report to the board, Dorais also took occasion to deplore drinking at football games. "If it is allowed to get a start," he said, "it will ruin football."

Twenty-two boys and young men who gave Detroit addresses were fined in Lansing and East Lansing for their part in the disorders that followed the game.

SMOKE TALKS
by the DUTCH MASTERS

My love is more shapely than Venus,
And dark as a daughter of Spain,
About her a fragrance that's sweeter
Than rose gardens after a rain.
Day by day, do I find her more lovely,
With beauty the years cannot mar—
Who's speaking of women, you skeptic?
I mean my Dutch Masters Cigar.

A lady wrote us recently that every Valentine's Day, birthday or other gala occasion, she gives her husband a box of Dutch Masters. Husbands, who are accustomed to receiving collegiate neckties or hand-painted bedroom slippers, will probably turn green with envy.

* * *

Mr. Webster, who wrote the dictionary, defines a cigar as "a small roll of tobacco for smoking." Evidently the old gentleman had never enjoyed a good cigar. We don't pretend to be able to write a dictionary, but if that was the best thing we could say about "the smoke of kings and the king of smokes"—we'd swap the old typewriter for a pick and shovel.

* * *

We never could figure out whether our Dutch Masters should be classed as a luxury or a necessity. We don't know a greater luxury, and we know darned well we couldn't get along without them.

WEST VIEW, MAJESTICS TO FIGHT SUNDAY

E. PITTSBURGH ENCOUNTERS MONESSEN

By TOM BIRKS.

The eyes of sandlot followers will turn to Exposition Park Sunday where the season's greatest local independent gridiron battle is expected to be flashed. The West View team will meet the Hope-Harvey Majestics. After considerable dickering, Manager Art Rooney and Paul Muzzio signed on the dotted line. Stanley Berkman will flash his Thiel football learning opposed to Levey the Quantico Marines ball carrier.

Despite the fact West View lost to McChesneytown, there is little doubt but that Paul Muzzio has banded to gether a great club. Muzzio has been handicapped by injuries to Boots Klinzing, and Mose Kelsh, and the absence of these two stars has had a lot to do with West View's failure to score in its last two games.

FIREMEN MEET MONESSEN

The East Pittsburgh Firemen clash with Monessen, and Jack Mier promises to give the Firemen all they can handle. Monessen is popular at the Quarry Grounds.

The McKeesport Olympics travel to Akron to meet the Awings, and there is a chance the locals will be defeated by that powerful club. Should Akron beat the Olympics, it will remove them from the present independent title race. When Manager Paul Muzzio booked East Liverpool and the Sharpsville Merchants, he took a chance of getting beaten, and had he lost, he would have been ruled out. The same ruling must apply to the Olympics. In which case, the Olympics would be in the same class as West View.

There is talk of changing the West View-Olympic battle to Rainbow Gardens. At present a contract is in force calling for the appearance of the Olympics at West View. The contract was arranged on a home-and-home basis. The heavy rain of Sunday did not break the contract, both managers agreeing to call off the game.

Hope-Harvey is suffering from the weather. Art Rooney had a verbal agreement to meet the Olympics at Rainbow Gardens Sunday. Then the Akron game, with a liberal offer in the form of a guarantee, came along and Manager Iverson naturally took it. The Hope-Harvey game was pushed back to December 1. With West View feeling that this is the date the Olympics should show at West View Park, it would seem the Majestics are not getting the breaks.

BIG TILTS ON TAP

Art Rooney lost no time in scheduling McChesneytown for Thanksgiving Day. The Macs travel to St. Michael's Sunday to meet an undefeated club.

On Thanksgiving morning, it is said the Homewood-Linwood game will be played at the Homewood playgrounds. It will be for the championship of the East End.

These are the games in which the material for the all-star teams is selected. And from watching all of the leading games this fall, it would appear that picking an all-star team is going to be tougher than ever.

Referee Guilty In Death of W. Va. Boxer

FAIRMONT, W. Va., Nov. 19.—(AP.)—C. C. Gosney, referee at the boxing matches here last winter in which John Securro was fatally injured, yesterday was found guilty in criminal court of unlawful assault. Judge E. M. Showalter sentenced Gosney to three months in the county jail and assessed a fine of $100 and costs. Boxing is illegal in West Virginia.

Lonnie McCale, who was Securro's opponent, recently completed a jail sentence on a similar charge and was released on parole. L. M. Lytton, promoter of the match, awaits trial on the same charge.

I. L. TO OPEN 1930 SEASON APRIL 16

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—The International Baseball League failed in its efforts to elect a president to succeed the late John Conway Toole yesterday and postponed any further efforts to fill the vacancy until the minor league meeting in Chattanooga, Tenn., next month.

After spending most of the afternoon balloting, the league found itself unable to give a majority to either of two candidates, understood to be Jack Hendricks, former manager of the Cincinnati Reds, and William L. Dill, New Jersey state commissioner of motor vehicles. Each was understood to have four votes of the total of eight. In the meantime Charles H. Knapp, as chairman of the board of directors, will continue to act as pilot.

The league voted to uphold Billy Southworth, manager, and George Toporcer, second baseman of the Rochester Redwings, in whatever appeal they may make from punishment meted out to them for a disturbance at the last game of the "Little World Series." Southworth was fined $500 and Toporcer $200 in addition to a year's suspension.

The league also voted to open the 1930 season on Wednesday, April 16, and end it on Sunday, September 21, with each club playing the usual 168 games. As usual the Northern clubs will open in the South, with the following schedule for April 16: Buffalo at Newark; Toronto at Reading; Rochester at Baltimore; Montreal at Jersey City.

In the fight for the presidency, the field originally was understood to include three candidates—Hendricks, Dill and Phillip G. Bartelme, former graduate manager of athletics at the University of Michigan and now connected with the St. Louis Cardinals organization.

JACK THOMPSON GO A 'BUST'

Boxing Commissioner Havey Boyle called over Referee Robinson at the bell and told him to warn Thompson to level with his best efforts or the bout would be stopped and both men would be ejected from the ring and their money would be withheld.

White, who is a Jewish veteran, hailing from Jersey City, came out of his corner talking for the third round, and Thompson sailed into him, but before the round ended Jack himself tired as Billy took his best socks and remained erect but did little fighting back. They were mauling at short range at the gong.

CROWD WALKS OUT

From then on it became gradually worse, with the crowd starting its walkout at the end of the fifth round, Thompson beginning to fight with his right alone in the seventh and then finishing the bout with a two-fisted attack in the eighth. As the uneven whatwasit was halted by the referee, White insisted on continuing, but not only the refefee but the crowd as well had seen enough and welcomed the end. Thompson came over to Commissioner Boyle to tell him about his hand and they repaired to the dressing room for a peek at it. Boyle announced he will dispose of the case after an investigation. It looks as if both participants will be handed long suspensions, but they are likely to receive their purses.

Thompson weighed 145½ pounds and White 147 at 3 p. m. The former displayed unmistakable signs of boxing class and punching ability in spots and likely could have won in a hurry had he cared to. As for White, he proved nothing more than a good taker. His vaunted right hand knockout punch is one of those slow motion things that never should land on a good, fast-moving boxer, and he was no fit opponent for Thompson.

ALL TECHNICAL KAYOS

All of the preliminaries also ended in technical knockouts. Tom Malco, of Soho, 147, slaughtered Joe Dinger, of New Castle, 143½, subbing for Joe Columbo, of Louisville, in the scheduled eight-round semi-final, which was stopped by Referee Al Grayber after 1 minute 18 seconds of the sixth round. Dinger, a wild right hand swinger, never had a chance. He took counts of nine in the fifth and sixth rounds and when he went down again the arbiter interceded.

Fortune Evans, of California, Negro sparring partner of Thompson, won by a technical knockout over Frank Monroe, veteran middleweight, of Fair Haven, in the fourth round of the second bout when he dropped Frank for a count of four and ripped his left eye wide open with a hard right. Monroe, who had put up a bitter fight but had taken a terrific punching, and also had been down for eight in the second round, after outslugging Evans in the opening round, was blinded by the cut and staggered about the ring defenseless and a target until the referee called a halt. Evans, who scaled 165 pounds against 164 for his opponent, looked like a corking boxer and puncher.

SMACKEY STOPS REESE

Homer Reese, of the East End, 140½ pounds, making his professional debut, found the going too tough against Johnny Smackey, of Canonsburg, 137, subbing for Andy Andrucci, of the East End, in the opening bout and, after he had taken a bad cuffing, his manager, Johnny Ray, refused to send him out for the fourth round. They were booked for six. Reese had little but a punch and lost it when he tired. His greenness stood out in his wild rushing and missing and after the first round he was a chopping block for Smackey.

Frank Brown and Frank Ferris were the judges and Joe Slumbo was back as announcer, with A. C. Couch at the bell.

Between Rounds

Jack Zivic and Tiger Randall are in the windup at the Garden next Monday night. It's pretty much of a local natural and marks the first appearance of Zivic in the East End arena in many moons. Time was when he was the ace attraction there.

One of the treats of the season is to sit and listen to Rudy Ceder and Hans Roberts popping off to each other in German.

Here's a good one. Broadway Johnny Cox, manager of Farmer Joe Cooper, sends in a challenge to Buck McTiernan for a return bout. Which is the tipoff on whether or not Cooper really won their bout there last week, in which he was awarded the decision. Ever before hear of a winner challenging a victim to a return bout?

BELMONT AT WELLSVILLE

Jimmy Belmont, of Braddock, boxes Roger Brooks, of Cleveland, in the eight-round main bout of a show in Wellsville, O., Thursday night. Ted Yarosz, of Monaca, is in with Billy Yeitz, of Cleveland, in the six-round semi-final and Dick Edwards boxes Young Max Schmeling and Kid Francis opposes Frankie Lanz in four-round preliminaries.

Jimmy Thomas, Able Witz's hard-hitting Negro flyweight, of the Hill, and Johnny Edwards, of Huntington, W. Va., have been matched to box the opening bout at McKeesport, Thursday night. Thomas also is booked with Ross Fields, of Weirton, W. Va., for one of the preliminaries at Washington, Pa., next Monday night. Joe Clark, also of the Witz stable, will meet Freddie Thompson, of Washington, in the opening bout at Washington.

Pete Zivic leaves tonight for St. Louis, where he boxes Johnny (Pee Wee) Kaiser in one of the 10-round bouts of an all-star card tomorrow night.

BILL M'KECHNIE PLEASED OVER TRADE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Rabbits being much more plentiful than baseball players who can stay in the major league pace, Bill McKechnie, new manager of the Braves, is having fine success in the woods while meeting with fair luck in the quest of the bigger game.

Skipper Bill is back in Wilkinsburg today after some pleasant days spent in the wilds. He has postponed his business trip to Boston until the end of the football season, unless there is an urgent need for his presence at the Hub of Culture.

Bill McKechnie

McKechnie is pleased over the deal which he helped to put over last week. The trade brought the Braves a promising young outfielder who bats righthanded in return for Outfielder George Harper, a veteran of many years' play, and Pitcher Arthur Delaney.

The incoming prospect is Walter Berger, who has starred for the Los Angeles club of the Pacific Coast League for the past two seasons. A representative of the Braves who followed Berger reported that he was worth the players mentioned, so the deal was completed.

OUTFIELD SHAPES WELL

The Wilkinsburg baseball tactician had to give up a clever right-handed pitcher in Delaney. Arthur came to the Braves from the Oakland club of the far-away circuit; apparently the Los Angeles folks liked his style and Skipper Bill was willing to part with him in order to add to his pasture patrol.

McKechnie, through the acquisition of Berger, is now able to show the fans of Boston and the National League in general a combination of fly-chasers that should yield sufficient stars to make up a dependable trio.

Among others, the new pilot will have Lance Richbourg, Jimmy Welsh, Earl Clark, Ralph Boyle and Berger. Richbourg would grace any club in baseball owing to his many qualifications. Lance can do almost everything desired and he does many things like a star. Welsh is not quite as dependable as Richbourg, yet he is a fine performer. Clark has remarkable possibilities, but he has been injured and sick a lot since the joined the Tribe.

CLARK IS SPEEDY

Appendicitis took Clark out of the Braves' lineup last year at a time when he was becoming the toast of the league. He is a right-handed batter, and how he can sprint around the baselines!

In the event that Berger is ready to play in the big show, McKechnie's outfield problem will be just about solved. Skipper Bill probably will wish to have one right-handed hitting fly-chaser in action, and Berger or Clark should fill the role.

Berger batted around .340 for the Angels this year, and he was almost as good in the previous season.

McKechnie's idea is to replace some of his veterans with youngsters. The trading of George Harper was in line with this policy. The departure of Lester Bell appears to have been partly influenced by the money consideration, it being McKechnie's feeling that the cash thus acquired could be used well in the purchase of cited minor leaguers.

SEEKS NEW INFIELDERS

New faces probably will be seen at the two outside points of the Braves' infield. George Sisler will hardly be the regular first baseman, and McKechnie has nothing definite to offer as to third. Walter Maranville seems to be the only fixture for the infield at this time.

The Braves' pitching staff is in need of strengthening, yet McKechnie will find some valuable hurler in Boston, and he is at his best in handling and developing the sharpshooters. Also, there is room for improvement in the catching division.

TITLE SCHOOL TILT SET FOR FRIDAY

The scholastic football championship of the city will be decided at the Stadium on Friday afternoon, beginning at 3 o'clock, with Schenley High and South Hills High, victors in Section 1, and Section 2, respectively, the contestants.

Authorities of Schenley and South Hills met in conference yesterday in the office of the director of city school athletics, C. Lawrence Walsh, and decided to play their championship on Friday, rather than as a preliminary to the Pitt Freshman-Penn State Freshman battle on Saturday.

Principal Sauvain, of Schenley High, Principal Winters, of South Hills High, Mates, faculty manager of South Hills High and Walsh attended the meeting.

The officials for the title tilt will be A. L. Walsh, Paul Johnson and Howard Dorsey. Their positions have not been decided.

A special admission for students was set. The student bands of both schools will participate in the color features of the game.

CANADA NAMES RING CHAMPS

QUEBEC, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—The Canadian Boxing Federation has named the official holders of all the Dominion's fighting crowns as follows:

Heavyweight, Larry Gains, Toronto; light-heavyweight, Charley Belanger, Winnipeg; middleweight, vacant; lightweight, Al Foreman, Montreal; welterweight, Jackie Phillips; featherweight, Leo Kid Roy, Montreal; bantamweight, Joe Villeneuve, Quebec; flyweight, Frenchy Belanger, Toronto.

There was some discussion in convention over the award of the bantam weight crown to Villeneuve, Montreal delegates asserting that Bobby Leitham, of that city, had defeated the champion at the title weight. He was not awarded the title because officials of the Quebec commission had decided the title was not at stake. The Federation decided that Leitham should be given a chance to challenge Villeneuve for the title and that the champion would be obliged to meet him within six months after the challenge was issued.

The federation voted to instruct incoming officers to take up with the National Boxing Association of the United the question of broadening the National Association and making it an international one with the right to exercise control both in the United States and Canada.

Hartnett to Have Tonsils Removed

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Gabby Hartnett, Chicago Cub catcher, will have his tonsils removed sometime this week in an effort to find a cure for the ball player's ailing arm, which handicapped him during the 1929 campaign.

STRIB FOULS CARNERA IN FOURTH

LONDON, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—William L. (Young) Stribling, Macon, Ga., heavyweight, made his European ring debut before the Prince of Wales and 8,000 other fans last night, only to lose on a foul in the fourth round of his 15-round bout with Primo Carnera, huge Venetian carpenter.

Two blows, a left and right, to Carnera's body were ruled foul and Stribling was disqualified amid the booes of the largest crowd that ever saw a fight at Royal Albert Hall.

The referee's action terminated a spectacular fight in which Stribling, outweighted by 95 pounds and handicapped some eight inches in height, carried the fight to his Italian foe and seemed on his way to an easy victory, probably by a knockout.

The American heavyweight gave Carnera a severe beating about the body in the first two rounds which he won easily. In the third, Stribling connected with a right to the Italian's chin and Carnera went down for a count of six. In a fury, Carnera got up and swung his left to Stribling's jaw and the American was floored for a count of nine.

The fourth round had barely started when Stribling sent home two solid blows to the body and Carnera went down again. Both were ruled to have landed low and the American was promptly disqualified.

ANDY A SPRINTER

Andy Blair, long and angular centerice player of Toronto Leafs, is a 10-second sprinter who won cinder path titles before becoming a professional hockey player. He recently beat Gordon Bryden for the sprinting title in the Leafs' camp. Harold Cotton won the club golf title.

Long's Sport Comment

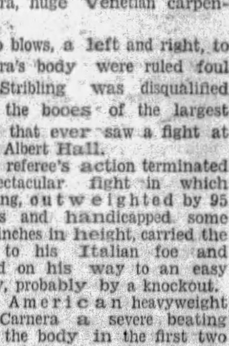
that it added another chapter to a most unusual story of Irish triumphs in this annual fixture.

For in every one of the three games that Notre Dame has won in its four successive years of competition with Southern California, the victory has been achieved by the margin of a single point through the kicking of a goal after touchdown when the enemy failed in a similar attempt. The Irish were always there in the big pinch. The South Benders won in 1926, 13 to 12; in 1927, 7 to 6, and in 1929, 13 to 12. Southern California's only win came in 1928, 27 to 14.



Ervin Brame

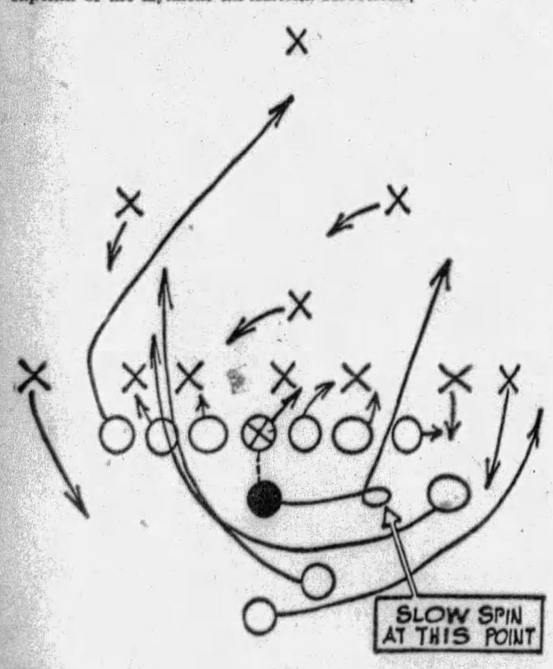
PITCHER ERVIN BRAME'S extra value to the Pittsburgh baseball club as a pinch-hitter is shown by the National League statistics covering that department for the 1928 season, compiled by Sid Keener, of St. Louis. In 21 trips to the plate as an emergency swatter, Brame made good with hits no fewer than 10 times, for the remarkable average of .476. Ira Flagstead, of the Pirates, also turned in a fine record as a pinch-hitter, delivering seven times in 16 tries, an average of .438. The Pirates' total pinch-hitting record was 33 hits in 113 times at bat, a mark of .292. The Cubs' pinch-hitters, though a complete bust in the world series, led the National League for the regular season, with 32 hits in 84 times at bat for an average of .323. Hazen Cuyler starred with five hits in seven trips, an average of .714, the highest average made by any player who was used more than twice as a pinch-hitter. Figuring the frequency of his appearance as a pinch-hitter, Red Lucas, of Cincinnati, wins the individual league honors, with 14 hits in 42 times at bat, an average of .350.

Football Strategy

By Howard Harpster

All-America Quarterback, 1928

(Note.—Harpster, as the quarterback of the Carnegie Tech eleven last fall, gained national recognition as one of the most brilliant leaders of all time in the football realm. Experts hailed him as "the player with the mind of a coach." He captained the All-East team that defeated the All-West team in California at the end of the season and was generally picked as captain of the mythical all-America selections.)



NO. 22—A GOOD SPINNER PLAY

QUARTERBACK takes the ball from center and runs over and fakes to outside half, then continues pivot with ball hidden. Outside half fakes carrying the ball and follows fullback through weak side. Right guard and right tackle keep opposing guard in, while right end lets tackle charge in a step and then takes him out. Back man fakes to right, drawing end and tackle in his direction, and allowing quarterback to spin through hole between opposing guard and tackle.

Needless Pain!

Nowadays, people take Bayer Aspirin for many little aches and pains, and as often as they encounter any pain.

Why not? It is a proven antidote for pain. It works!

And Bayer Aspirin tablets are utterly harmless. You have the medical profession's word for that; they do not depress the heart.

So, don't let a cold "run its course." Don't wait for a headache to "wear off." Or regard neuralgia, neuritis, or even rheumatism as something you must endure. Only a physician can cope with the cause of such pain, but you can always turn to Bayer Aspirin for relief.

Bayer Aspirin is always available, and it always helps. Familiarize yourself with its many uses, and avoid a lot of needless suffering.

BAYER ASPIRIN

Further Selling Shows Up at Opening—Trading Volume Relatively Light

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—(AP.)—Further selling developed at the opening of today's market, but trading was relatively light in volume. Westinghouse Electric dropped 5½ points and Union Pacific, Union Carbide, National Cash Register, Air Reduction, Columbia Gas and Consolidated Gas yielded 1 to 2½ points. U. S. Steel common opened fractionally higher and Dupont and Brooklyn Union Gas showed initial gains of 1½ points each.

Failure of a small New York Stock Exchange house, announced just before the close of the market yesterday, apparently caused no uneasiness and brought forth no unusual volume of liquidation. Brokerage house comment was much more cheerful in character and buying recommendations were numerous.

A block of 8,000 shares of Reynolds Tobacco B at 41, off ½, was the largest transaction in the first half-hour of trading. General Motors opened with a block of 5,000 shares at 41⅜, off ⅛, but nearly all the other industrial and railroad leaders opened with transactions of only a few hundred shares.

General American Tank fell back 7¾. United Fruit 3¾, U. S. Freight 3 and United Aircraft 2. Early losses of a point or so were registered by Southern Pacific, Pennsylvania, Rock Island, International Telephone, American Telephone and Woolworth.

Western Union rallied 4 points, S. H. Kress and Public Service of New Jersey 3 each and Baltimore and Ohio, A. M. Byers and Borden advanced a point or so. U. S. Steel extended its initial gain to a point and then fell back to yesterday's closing quotation of 160.

Foreign exchanges opened firm, with sterling cables quoted 3-16 of a cent higher at $4.87½.

Reserve Members' Borrowings Lower

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—Net demand deposits of Federal Reserve member banks decreased $195,000,000 in the week ended November 13; time deposits, $79,000,000; borrowings from Federal Reserve Banks, $42,000,000; loans on securities, $377,000,000, and holdings of government securities, $2,000,000.

SOBERER YEAR IN 1930 SEEN BY AYRES

Fewer Investment Trusts And Mergers, More Sweat Less Swank Forecast

By MERRYLE STANLEY RUKEYSER

BOSTON, Nov. 18.—Col. Leonard P. Ayres, leading president of the Cleveland Trust Company, in writing out the specifications for the business outlook, has formulated this arresting prophecy:

"Nineteen-thirty will be a slower, soberer business year, with more business failures and fewer mergers, with more sweat and less wank, with more trust in investments and fewer investment trusts. A year of more faith, less hope, and more charity."

Col. Ayres believes that underlying conditions are vastly stronger than those which accompanied former major convulsions in the stock market, and that the recent market collapse does not foreshadow a trade depression, although he believes that the slowing up process will continue in an orderly manner for some months. He pointed out that the recession in trade preceded the Wall street collapse, and was ascribable primarily to the slowing up in automobile production since the early summer and also to the setback in the construction industry.

FORECASTS CORRECT

A year ago, Col. Ayres made 12 specific forecasts, of which nine proved correct, two wrong and one half right. Whether the Cleveland soothsayer can maintain his batting average in the forthcoming year of course remains to be seen. Here are his specific forecasts for 1930:

1—Short term interest rates will show a down trend in the early months and rise before the close of the year. The average rate of interest for the full year will be lower than in 1929 but higher than in 1927.

2—The production of automobiles will fall below the 1929 peak.

3—The total value of new building construction will not vary from the 1929 total by more than 5 per cent.

4—Stock prices at the end of 1930 will be above the low prices of 1929, but below the peak prices of 1929.

5—Steel production will be less than in 1929.

6—It is unlikely that there will be much change in the cost of living.

7—Average of non-agricultural prices will be lower than the average in 1929, but not by more than 5 per cent.

8—There will be more unemployment early in the year, but with conditions improving as the year advances.

9—The average hourly industrial wages rates will not differ by more than 3 per cent.

10—There will not be much change in the cost of building construction, although there will be a moderately declining trend.

11—Industrial profits will be lower.

12—Tourist travel will decline.

STOCK OUTLOOK

As for the outlook for stock prices, Col. Ayres said:

"I doubt whether we shall have a sideways movement, with a narrow range of fluctuations. I think a scalloped bottom, with a succession of false starts and disappointing recessions, is more likely. Then will follow several months of stagnation with small price fluctuations after which there should be a vigorous advance. I harbor fears lest the banking efforts to ease credit to encourage business might not make the stock advance too vigorous."

In analyzing the present desirability of common stocks, the Cleveland financier pointed out:

"The good common stocks today are better investments than ever before. Corporations are bigger, better financed and better managed than ever before. After we get over this market situation, common stocks in the future will sell at higher price earnings ratios than they used to before the recent great bull market started. I think the public will still continue to prefer stocks to bonds as long term investments.

Arguing that no old fashioned hard times for business lie ahead, Col. Ayres insisted that the country is entering the first of a series of new style business cycles.

"This," he declared, "is the example of a down turn in stocks and in business without an accompanying shortage of credit. There will be no credit shortages for years as long as we have an excess stock of gold. In the new cycles business will go through moderate sized fluctuations instead of the old-time violent swings up and down. This current down turn in business will be a restricted one, and will not leave a mass of wreckage to be cleared away. Swings in business are likely to be less violent in the future, but swings in the stock market are likely to be more violent. The recent debacle is a sample of the new market tendencies, because our stock market has learned how to go on and on regardless of central bank warnings, and how to withstand the competition for funds from business. Security prices in the future are likely to go up in great waves of high prices, with extreme excesses, and then come crashing down, because, like in this one, bull markets will eventually commit suicide."

PIG IRON SALES LIGHT

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Sales of pig iron in the New York area last week amounted to between 4,000 and 5,000 tons or practically the same as the preceding week. Customers are still cautious in their attitude and little forward buying is in evidence. Altogether, there is around 2,500 tons of business under negotiation.

Southern interests are still reported as selling iron in northern territory and are getting ready with their sales campaign for the first quarter of 1930. So far, interest in first quarter business in both districts has been at a minimum.

CORPORATE EARNINGS

Pet Milk Company and subsidiaries reports for nine months ended September 30, net profit was $628,374, after charges and federal tax, against $754,365 in the same 1928 period.

McGraw Electric Company reports earnings for the year ended October 31, 1929, of $1,037,500 or $4.15 per share, after all charges and federal taxes. Figures for the comparative year of 1928 are not available because of new company alignments.

Firms Abandon Plans to Raise Capital Because Of Stock Crash

THE severe readjustment which has come about in the stock market since Labor day naturally has played havoc with plans of many corporations designed to raise additional capital for one purpose or another through the sale of additional stock to shareholders on price basis attractive by comparison with prevailing open market levels of the stock. The Associated Gas and Electric Company was among corporations thus affected. Many corporations have since decided to forego such offerings. But the executive committee of the Associated Gas and Electric met yesterday to modify the terms on which its latest offering made to shareholders of record on October 31, last, was made.

Brokers' loans have shrunk much more rapidly than thought possible up to a few weeks ago. It was maintained by many that there would be a large shrinkage but no one forecast a fall of nearly $2,500,000,000 over the past three weeks and almost $2,650,000,000 since the peak was reached October 2. Brokers' loans are now off $1,160,000,000 from where they were the first week of this year and are only $650,000,000 above what they were the first week of 1926. This despite the fact that over the past four years something like $25,000,000,000 new securities have been sold to the public, with most of the issues listed on the New York Stock Exchange.

IF it is true, as has been said so often in the past, that construction work has been held up all over the country because of the inability to finance such activities at reasonable rates, due to the great demand for money in the financial district, steps could be taken for considerable activity in this direction. Federal, state, county and municipal construction could be started on a large scale, and this would do much to keep up industrial activities in many lines. It would not be surprising if something along such lines were attempted in the next two months.

It cannot be denied that the credit structure now is better than it has been at any time during the current year. This has been reflected by the lowering of the Federal Reserve Bank's rediscount rate, the ease in call and time money and the trend in bankers' acceptances. With more normal market conditions, this credit ease would have found reflection in stock prices. As it is, the buying power of the rank and file in Wall Street has been reduced so materially that the favorable influences are not attracting the attention they would have earlier in the year. Eventually, the availablity of funds for market and commercial purposes will come when courage has returned to the investor and stocks are no longer in heavy supply.

DEALING with credit developments in the period the Federal Reserve bulletin just issued chronicles the part played by the Reserve Banks during the recent market upset from a standpoint of taking over collateral loans which had formerly been shouldered by non-bank lenders. Loans to brokers by such lenders, it is pointed out shrunk by $2,000,000,000 during October, as a result of withdrawals by foreign lenders, investment and trading companies and corporations and individuals. Loans for out-of-town banks which include considerable such money dropped by $800,000,000. New York City member banks increased their loans by $1,000,000,000 in taking over the load, and moreover aided further by adding to their investments and advancing loans to customers. The banks, it is pointed out, were aided materially by the reserve system in carrying out their task.

Commodity markets have shared the improvement which has come about in the financial situation since the stock market established its bottom levels last week. The rebound has been most pronounced in the grain market, particularly as it affects wheat prices, at top levels yesterday of around $1.33½ a bushel for the May delivery, that grain showed a recovery of some 12 cents a bushel from the low reached early last week. Cotton too, while it was reactionery yesterday, ruled nevertheless at levels showing recovery of between $4 and $5 a bale from the lows of last week's decline.

Exchange Firms Must Report Bonuses

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—New York Stock Exchange has notified its members that all firms planning to distribute a Christmas bonus to their employes must report their plans in writing to the committee on quotations and commissions for its approval.

The notice calls attention to Section 1, of Article 20, of the constitution, last paragraph of which reads as follows:

"No employe shall be paid other than a fixed salary not varying with the business unless the prior written approval therefore shall have been given by the committee on quotations and commissions."

Public Service Gas Sales Set Record

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Sales of gas by Public Service Electric and Gas Company, subsidiary of Public Service Corporation of New Jersey, broke all records for the September quarter and for the nine months ended September 30, 1929, according to figures just made public.

Sales of gas for the quarter ended September 30, 1929, aggregated 5,811,893,194 cubic feet, against 5,583,576,361 cubic feet sold in the same quarter last year, the increase being equal to approximately 4 per cent. For the nine months ended September 30, 1929, sales of gas increased 3.96 per cent, the total for the current year being 18,326,839,840 cubic feet against 17,628,167,757 cubic feet sold in the corresponding period last year.

THE NEW PACKARD STANDARD EIGHT

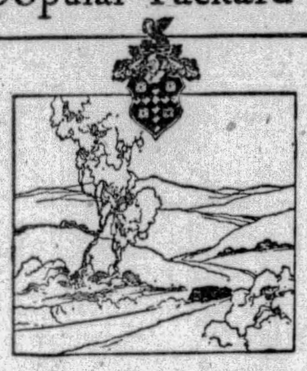
the most popular Packard in history



THE NEW Packard Standard Eight is the most complete and luxurious car offered at anywhere near its price in the truly fine car field.

Sales, since its introduction in mid-September, prove it the most popular motor car Packard has ever built. This is but natural. The new Standard Eight cars are outstandingly more advanced, more beautiful, more comfortable and convenient than even the higher-priced Packard Eights of the past.

Truly a Packard—Throughout

The Packard Standard Eight is literally a smaller edition of today's larger and costlier Packard cars. It is provided for those who desire the luxury and distinction of Packard Eight transportation in a car of modified wheelbase, and at more moderate price.

The Standard Eight differs from the Packard Custom and De Luxe models in size, power and degree of individuality available in color, upholstery and appointments—but in excellence of engineering and expert craftsmanship it is identical with them.

It embodies all the engineering refinements and improved incidental comforts and conveniences found in the larger cars—provides the brilliant performance and supreme riding ease logically expected from cars bearing the Packard crest.

Newly Refined and Improved

Chief among the engineering advances is the improved powerplant with its four-speed transmission and still further refined straight-eight engine. Body refinements include improved-vision pillars; adjustable sun-visors; newly perfected shatter-proof glass; dash-board lockers; adjustable steering gear and driver's seat; and new beauties in fixtures and upholstery.

Visit our show rooms at your earliest opportunity and inspect the distinguished new Standard Eights. Then let us put the model of your choice in your hands for a luxurious demonstration drive.

Two out of three who buy Packard Standard Eights give up othermakes of cars to do so. They have found that Packard transportation costs no more. We can show you with actual figures that you, too, can enjoy the distinction of Packard ownership at no greater expense than you are paying for motoring in your twelve to fifteen hundred dollar car.

Your old car will be accepted as cash and you may purchase out of income if you prefer. When may we serve you?

ASK THE MAN WHO OWNS ONE

SOMETHING OF INTEREST TO EVERY YOUNG MAN

There is nothing more important in a young man's life than his plans for the future. What is he going to do when his schooling is over and he is faced with the realities of earning a livelihood? Before he has received the coveted diploma, perhaps, he has made up his mind. He will go into business or follow a profession. Regardless of the path he chooses, there is one essential step necessary to success—the establishment of a good banking connection. It is never too early to lay the foundation of friendly banking relations. Every young man should open a bank account, even though it must be small at the beginning. As the account grows, it becomes the basis of a lasting business acquaintanceship between banker and depositor. Young men are always welcome to open a checking account at the Mellon National Bank.

WARD'S SECOND HALF UNDER ESTIMATE

Previous Figures Revised And Indication Now is That Profit Will Be $4

CHICAGO, Nov. 19.—Montgomery Ward & Co.'s profits for the second half of 1929 have been affected by several unfavorable factors and will not be as large as anticipated earlier in year.

Earnings in 1929 on 4,620,768 common shares now outstanding can be estimated around $4 a share, or possibly somewhat better. On average number of shares outstanding during 1929, however, these earnings would be between $4.75 and $5 a share.

In year ended December 31, 1928, net profit was $17,703,835 after interest, depreciation, federal taxes, etc., equivalent, after dividends on the $7 no-par Class A stock, to $14.26 a share earned on 1,141,251 shares of no-par common stock outstanding the greater part of the year.

NEW MONEY OBTAINED

In August, Ward received over $57,000,000 from sale at $50 a share of 1,141,251 additional common shares, which will be outstanding only little over a third of this year. The company stated, however, that sale of this stock would provide funds for growth not only during balance of 1929, but during 1930.

Only a relatively small part of proceeds from this financing has yet been used for expansion purposes. Bulk of proceeds not needed at present has been loaned on call. Profits from application of these funds to company's retail expansion program in 1930 are expected to materially increase amount earned a share on present outstanding stock.

14 TIMES EARNINGS

At its price of 57 yesterday, Ward was over 14 times its estimated 1929 earnings of $4 on the stock to be outstanding at the year end, and 11 to 12 times the estimate of $4.75 to $5 on the average number of shares outstanding during the year. The current dividend rate of $3 annually gives a return of 5.2 per cent on purchases of stock at the current level. The high for 1929 has been 156⅞ and the low 49¼.

Unless rate of increase over 1928 picks up in November and December, sales of Montgomery Ward & Company for full year 1929 will not quite reach $300,000,000. In September, company's sales gained 25.55 per cent and in October 21.05 per cent as compared with last year.

Ten months' sales this year were $225,880,000. To reach $300,000,000 for the full year, sales in November and December together would have to reach $74,120,000, an increase of $16,712,000 or about 29 per cent over sales of $57,408,000 in last two months of 1928.

SALES INCREASE VARIED

Percentage of Ward's monthly sales increases this year has varied widely, as shown by following table:

	1929 inc. over 1928.	1928 inc. over 1927.
Gross Sales: 1929.
January ..... $ 18,128,836	37.08	.52
February 16,653,270	28.21	2.58
March 22,616,668	27.05	*.51
April 21,573,323	25.33	*3.72
May 19,878,804	25.26	*3.45
June 21,955,639	14.47	14.86
July 19,868,343	41.73	16.41
August 24,955,313	46.73	23.02
September 26,127,589	25.55	27.08
October 32,181,217	21.05	23.26

Ten months... $225,880,002 20.11 12.14
*Decrease.

November sales last year were $25,456,106, increase of 10.05% over 1927; and December sales were $31,951,820, increase of 27.26%. Sales for full year 1928 were $232,354,738, increase of 14.80% over $202,403,959 in 1927.

Examination of the table shows that in the first four months of this year (which compared with months of small increases and even of decreases last year, before the chain store expansion program began to show up in sales figures) Ward was able to report substantial percentage increases in monthly sales.

FREIGHT PREPAYMENT

In May, which was a month of good increase in 1928, the percentage of increase over last year fell off considerably and got down to less than 15 per cent in June.

In July, Ward followed suit on Sears' announcement that it would prepay postage and in addition announced that it would prepay freight. Sales responded sharply in July and August, but the rate of increase fell off again in the following two months, and unless it picks up sharply in November and December Ward will fall somewhat short of reaching the $300,000,000 mark in gross sales this year.

INVENTORY QUESTION

An important factor in final determination of net profits will be status of company's inventory accounts at end of year. Ward's retail expansion through the medium of numerous merchandise chain stores has caused its inventory to grow rapidly, and necessitates the raising of large sums of working capital through offerings of additional stock to stockholders. Full benefit from application of proceeds of latest stock offering, of course, will not all accrue this year.

Lago Oil Output Higher For Week

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—In week ended November 15, Lago Oil Transport Corporation produced 652,929 barrels of crude oil in Venezuela or 93,276 daily versus 640,517 in preceding week or 91,502 daily and 878,393 in 1928 week or 125,485 daily.

Shipments totaled 634,896 barrels, or 90,699 daily versus 670,975 in preceding week or 95,854 daily and 604,079 in 1928 week or 86,297 per day.

Spang, Chalfant Spends $500,000 at Etna

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

SPANG, CHALFANT & CO., INC., has completed plans for the modernization of its Etna plant at a cost of $500,000. This follows the completion of extensive improvements at the seamless tube plant at Ambridge.

The work to be done at Etna will result in savings in costs which are expected to pay for the improvements within three years. Some of the developments will pay for themselves within 18 months. While the program is primarily aimed at economies, the resulting gain in efficiency will substantially increase the output of the existing pipe furnaces. In some cases this will result in increases of 30 per cent in capacity.

Plan Electrification

A LARGE portion of the expenditure will be used for a complete change in the power system. At present the company operates its own power plant. This is to be abandoned and the plants will be operated on purchased power in the future.

All of the existing motors are designed for the use of 30 cycle power. These will be replaced by motors designed for the use of 60 cycle power which is supplied by the utility companies. In addition to lowering costs by the use of energy generated by large central stations, large savings will be made in future repair costs. The cost of rewinding or replacing 30 cycle motors is higher than that of 60 cycle equipment which conforms to standards followed throughout almost the entire country.

New Galvanizing Plant

THE galvanizing plant is to be moved to a new location. This will take the fumes from this operation away from the pipe furnaces where they tend to cause harm. It will also make a large amount of space available for the installation of new pipe finishing equipment.

At present the machinery for threading, making couplings and other finishing operations is isolated from the pipe furnaces. This makes necessary the moving of large quantities of pipe from one department to another which adds to producing costs.

Straight Line Production

THE company plans to install individual machinery for threading and making couplers for each pipe furnace. This will eliminate all unessential handling of materials. The skelp, steel strips from which pipe is made, will move through all operations in practically a straight line.

At the output end of each furnace all necessary equipment for final operations will be located so that there will be a minimum of distance between each machine.

Other Improvements

FAR reaching changes are also being made in production methods. Instead of having to heat an entire piece of skelp to welding temperature, arrangements have been made to raise the edges to be welded to a higher temperature by playing a jet of oxygen on desired parts of the metal.

The program at Etna definitely lays to rest rumors which have been circulated for several months that Spang, Chalfant is planning to discontinue its operations at that point. The improvements will make the plant one of the most modern welded pipe mills in existence.

Continuous Pipe

THE company has taken a leading place in the development of new pipe producing methods. Recently a half interest was secured in the Fretz-Moon pipe mill at Butler. This plant makes small sizes of butt welded pipe by a continuous method. An unbroken strip of pipe miles long could be produced by this process if such a product should be found desirable. In actual practice the value of the process lies in the fact that the pipe can be cut to exact lengths required by the trade. Under older methods pipe could only be made economically at random lengths. Exact lengths are especially desirable to many types of consumers. Attractive costs are also being secured under the method used at this plant.

Coiled strips of steel are used at the Butler plant. When the end of one coil has been reached the beginning of another is welded on. The strips pass through heating furnaces and the welding rolls without any break until a sufficient quantity of the desired size has been made.

GASOLINE WAR UNLIKELY

SAN FRANCISCO, Nov. 18.—B. T. Sweney, president of San Francisco Gasoline Stations, Inc., and Bay Counties Gasoline Stations, operating a string of more than 150 Standard Oil of California service stations in the San Francisco Bay area, discounted reports of an impending gasoline price war in an interview with a New York news bureau representative this morning.

"The situation is normal and there is practically no unsettlement in our territory," Mr. Sweney declared. "We have made no change in our price of 20 cents per gallon for gasoline.

"It is true that reduced prices were in effect at a few stations in the East Bay area over the week-end. A few independent stations, we discovered, cut their prices for the holiday trade and we granted our operators permission to meet the price reduction. Prices at all our stations have been returned to 20 cents today, however, and there is no reduction impending."

Mr. Sweney stated that all stations operated by the two companies he represents have rigidly maintained the 20-cent price in San Francisco and will make no reduction.

Officials of Shell Oil Company stated emphatically that no change had been ordered or was impending in the posted price of 20 cents at Shell Service stations operated by Van Fleet and Durkee. While some operators in the East Bay area cut the price to 18 cents over the week-end, they did it without authority from the company to meet competition resulting from price-cutting by independents. So far as officials could learn this morning, prices at all Shell stations were being maintained at 20 cents.

Florsheim Shoe Co. Has Record Year

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—M. S. Florsheim, chairman of Florsheim Shoe Company said:

"Our fiscal year closed October 31. Preliminary figures indicate the best year in volume and net profits in history. Cash government and municipal securities amount to $4,633,610. Indebtedness of all kinds exclusive of taxes amounts to $141,442. Orders for the coming season are coming in nicely and we are looking at the future with considerable confidence."

Indicted Constable Out in Dry Slaying

BENTON, Tenn., Nov. 19.—(AP.) — Constable Gus Swann was at liberty on $5,000 bond today following his indictment on first degree murder charges late yesterday for shooting, last August, Orville Burger to death when the latter offered him a drink. The officer will be tried in Criminal Court next March. Swann said Burger fled when the constable attempted to arrest him.

This Town of Ours

MILLER & LYLES, the actors, have phffft! . . . Will Rogers broke two ribs a fortnight ago, but got into another plane, and didn't even tell his press agent about it . . . It's a girl at the Hugh (Mentor) Leamys, and at the Bobby Connollys (Blanche "Follow Thru" Mixie) . . . The Conde (Vanity Fair) Nasts and the Lee (Theatre Guild) Simonsons (Caroline Hancock) anticipate blessed events . . . Enrico Carutho's thon ith thelling thox . . . Wallace Beery, the star, had a stroke on the 1st Nat'l Hollywood lot last wk.

Lillian Foster, who slapped Hannen Swaffer's pan in London, once did the same thing (during a rehearsal of "Paradise") to director Robert Milton. . . . The affectionately autographed likenesses of John M. Casey, the Boston censor, and Police Sup't Patrick Crowley hang in the manager's office of Boston's most offensive burlesk house. . . . The entire chorus of "Fifty Million Frenchmen" has been replaced by 18 yr old beauties from H'wood. . . . Marjorie Oelrichs warbles semi-wkly for WABC. . . . Noel Coward's most assiduous chum has stranded him for one of the most attractive debu-Tondelayos.

GENIUS OF RAZZ

"RAZZ" is not Americanese, at all . . . It is from the Italian "razzio!" which is Latinesque for giving anyone "the bird." . . . John Considine, Jr., who was That Way about Mary Nolan, is now limp over Joan Bennett. . . . The Provincetown Playhouse group went through 16 Thou on "Winter-Bound" before it premiered. . . . Every little movement has a theater all its own. . . . Helen Chandler had to dye her hair almost white for the moom pitchers. . . . "Patti" Patterson, Russ Patterson's (no kin) model, will embellish Chris Morley's new revusical. . . . J. J. Shubert, Jr., grads from U. of P., in June. . . . The Aubrey Fincher romance, after a 5-wk honeymoon, has foundered. . . . The best indication of how the recent Wall St. crash hit the snootier set is the enormous drop in good champagne—now down to $85 per case.

J. Patterson, Chitrib and Nydailynews monarch, turned down the current News-reel Theater gag 10 years ago, arguing that it was a decade ahead of its time. . . . . Prez Hoover, who usually goes to beddie at 11:30 post meridian, is disturbed at 2:30 ante meridian so he can follow the stock bulletins in the Times, which is sent via special plane. . . . . Katherine Burke, the middle Lady Godiva in "Whoopee," will strand Ziegfeld for 1st National phlickers. . . . The finger-pointers on The Grandest Canyon would have you believe that Elmer Rice's Pulitzer Prize play, "Street Scene," is not unlike O. Henry's "Between Rounds." . . . Lew Leslie rec'd opening tickets to "Song of Love" from the star, Belle Baker, who was his first headache.

OH, CROCODILES

RECOMMENDED to diversion seekers: No room, sorreh!

Alan Dale's daughter is columning for the Great Neck News . . . . . Beatrice Lille is a Canuck . . . . . Joe Weber, of Weber & Fields, who gave Gus Edwards his first job, will be directed in his first movie by him. . . . A. Schoenfeld, who parented the tome, "Joy Peddler," forced the Dist. Att'y to give back the confiscated copies last wk. . . . . Believe it or not, there's a lawyer in town named Oliver Wendell Belkowitz. . . . . Nathan L. Amster, who is telling his extortion woes to a judge, has backed several Jones & Green shows. . . . . The Fred Berrens-Fifi D'Orsay romance is blazing again. . . . . E. Cantor's book, "Caught Short," reached 36,000 the 2nd day!

Sealtell, the magician at the Club Richman, who can also read minds, had to open the envelope he got to learn that he was fired. . . . . You can't ask James Barrett, the World's city editor, how he feels because he is an ardent Xtian scientist——M. J. Meehan, one of the late Riordan's advisers, fainted on the Exchange floor several times last wk and is on the verge of a breakdown at the Savoy-Plaza. . . . They didn't tell you that the day before he committed suicide with a gat Riordan ransacked his doctor's office for poison.

MRS. AMOS, EH?

RUTH PICKERING, managing editor of the Theater Guild magazine, is Mrs. Amos Pinchot, and you know who he is! . . . . Betty Oenslager, the society gel, has given up the struggle in New York, where she has been exploiting Harper's and has gone back to Harrisburg, where the woodpeckers once ate up the depot. . . . Two persons in the same family aren't allowed to work at the J. Walter Thompson Ad Agency, except the president, Stanley Resor, and the Vice-Prez, Mrs. Stanley Resor. . . . When Irving Berlin was asked by orthodox friends why he married Ellin Mackay, he replied: "Love is a greater religion!" . . . . Cole Porter hasn't any hats.

The young sophomore on the SEPost's cover (Nov. 9) is Caroline Ashton Pyle, 15, of Wilmington Friends' School . . . The picture was painted by Mrs. Ellen B. T. Pyle, her mamma . . . The Walter Guilfoyles (Ethel Daniels of "Artists and Models") have a boy . . . Chas. A. Wagner copped Poetry Magazine's $250 award . . . Gene Roberts, of Publix, and Bunny Moore, phormer Ziegfeld phemme, anticipiate a blessed event.

MOVER OF STARS

WHEN Robert Chandler painted the sky on the Grand Central Station ceiling he had such fun! . . . He ignored the designs and put the Dipper here and the North Star there, instead of there and here . . . Julia Marlowe's real tag is Sarah Francis Frost . . . Norman Foster, the actor, won't let his wife, Claudette Colbert, who has the shapeliest shafts in town, frequent a night club, the miser! . . . The very odd McIntyre says that G. J. Nathan, the critic, was never barred by a manager . . . Klaw & Erlanger Shu-booted him seasons ago, and E. Selwyn didn't invite him to "Other Men's Wives" last wk . . . Nathan, however, voluntarily barred himself from all Gustav Blum-ers.

UNSCRAMBLE THESE ANAGRAMBLES

DAILY ANAGRAM PUZZLES

TRY your hand at this fascinating game of Anagrambles—the game that is taking the town like the crossword puzzle craze took the whole nation for a ride through the dictionary.

The game is quite simple. Merely change the following words by the addition of the single letter indicated. Do not omit any letter of the original word. The letter may be inserted at the beginning of the word, anywhere within the word, or at the end. Thus, the word "pate," by the addition of the letter "l" becomes either "pleat" or "plate." The word "drag" may be changed to either "grade" or "raged" by the addition of the letter "e."

The original word must be changed in meaning by the commentary letter. To change "mine" by adding "d," to form "mined," would be incorrect. Rearrange the letters of your word to change its meaning, not its tense or number. Take a pencil now and write in your newly formed word in the spaces provided.

A day that might have meant so much—and she has to be excused. What a pity there's a woman left who does not know of Midol! One or two tablets in time, and not a twinge of pain throughout the periodic process. Or an end to such suffering at any time, five to seven minutes after Midol is taken. Yet this merciful medicine is non-narcotic. Its wonderful results are due to the fact it acts directly on the organs affected; so it's utterly harmless, and it is only common sense to use it. Midol comes in a clever little case of metal you can slip in the smallest purse. And the cost of this comfort is fifty cents.*

*Midol's comfort is not confined to any certain days or age. It relieves at any time of life. Its ease is felt immediately in cases of nervous headache, backache, cramping, hot flashes and all febrile pain peculiar to women.

RUSSIAN MINE WORKER REGAINS HEALTH AFTER LONG ILLNESS

"Back in the Russian village where my folks all came from," said Mr. E. Yonkovitch, of Washington, Pa., "they used to say that my family raised the best wheat and the strongest men in all that part of Russia. My father could pick up a sack of wheat weighing about two hundred pounds, and toss it into the bin like it was no heavier than a pillow. He lived to be ninety-six years old and was never sick a day in his life.

"I was nearly as strong as my father and never had been sick either, until I came over here to work in the mines. But here the foul smoke and bad air and irregular hours of sleep, change in food and water, and lifting weight too heavy for most any man, were too much for me. Worse than all that, I was trying to get along without the health-giving elements of the Russian soil and air which every Russian needs in order to be strong. I had not yet learned to use World's Tonic. Naturally I got sick. Catarrh and stomach trouble hit me at the same time. I lost appetite and nearly all food disagreed with me. I would have gas after eating and my stomach would swell up and get as hard as a rock. My head was bad with catarrh. Foul catarrhal droppings, reeking with poison, fell into my stomach and it, too, seemed to get bad like my head. I had to use physics every night to get my bowels to move. I tried lots of different American medicines but none did me any good. Then my buddy told me about World's Tonic, the amazing new remedy made from plants brought from different parts of the world. Almost as soon as I started taking World's Tonic I felt the benefits. My system was cleansed, refreshed and strengthened. My bowels are now working regularly. I now can eat any American foods, the same as I did our foods back home. In a short time the catarrh in my head healed, my appetite picked up, and I rapidly grew strong and well again like I had been back in Russia. Surely, I owe it to this wonderful World's Tonic which can help all Europeans as well as Americans."

World's Tonic is on sale at Dow's (formerly McCulloch's) also May's, and Mayflower Stores, and other modern drug stores. (B-27)

BIG IDEA CONTEST

This is Merely Doakes, who submits a plan for faster and juster justice. "Eliminate trials," he suggests, "and let the jury go out to a motion picture show. Then authorize the judge to select one lawyer from each side and lock them in the jury-room with a chess board—winner take all. The smarter man wins — which is true of the present system — and it won't take nearly so long."

Says Genevieve, the kitchen cynic—

"We don't need faster justice so much as we need slower lawyers."

Note—We continue our Book Review of "Palaces of Sin"—the fearless Society Expose by Col. Dick Maple, the Indiana Flash.

AS I stated, this woman says, "My Dear Colonel" and nestled up to me as though she would like to get my pocketbook, and with a look that made me "sick" said, "You asked my daughter a short time since what became of Miss Clara Middle, to whom I have perceived you are attracted."

I said, "Yes I have an idle curiosity to know where this charming lady has gone as I have never seen her of late," at which Mrs. Bigmout heaved a sigh that sounded like a fish horn, and said, "Colonel, I have been married and a lady." I says, "Yes, I know you were married," then I coughed and did not finish my sentence. "Therefore," she says, "I feel that I can talk to you upon the subject of Clara Middle." She didn't "get it" when I coughed, which proves what "monkeys" some of these society folks are, reader. But she gave me a look that would "sour goat's milk" and then—

Women Voters Come Here To Choose Work Program

Pittsburgh will find pleasure tomorrow in welcoming the delegates to the tenth annual convention of the Pennsylvania League of Women Voters, the sessions of which are to be held Wednesday and Thursday in the William Penn Hotel. Conferences on various topics Wednesday morning precede the formal opening of the convention in the afternoon, and the meetings will close Thursday night with a banquet, at which the featured address will be "Adventures in Education" by Dr. Alexander Meiklejohn, of the University of Wisconsin.

It is to be noted that this is not merely a convention of women, but of women voters. That is, of women qualified to assume the full responsibilities of citizenship. And for what purpose do they meet? To adopt a program of work and to adopt a budget, the bulletin of the organization states. There is something inspiring in that aim—to adopt a program of WORK.

The women do not know what that program will be until after it is voted by the convention, but the importance of it is indicated in the pre-convention conference topics, "Reorganization of the Court System of Pennsylvania," "Regulation of Public Utilities," "Juvenile Delinquency," "Disarmament and the World Court" and "The Edmonds Act." Discussion of the latter topic in conference is to include the views of Dr. John A. H. Keith, state superintendent of public instruction, and Charles E. Dickey, superintendent of the schools of Allegheny County, as to the effect of the law on the schools of the state.

In seeking for something that will have the general good of the commonwealth as their aim, the delegates to the convention assuredly are doing something that is worthy of the highest commendation. Merely out of politeness we would welcome them sincerely, but when they come with such a high purpose, ideal and unselfish, we must assure them that they are guests who rank first in our degree of admiration.

Hoover's Speech Will Hold Attention of Whole World

There is a two-fold distinction to the Armistice Day address of President Hoover which thoughtful people here and elsewhere will be quick to comprehend.

In the first place, it is a clear, sincere, and straightforward expression, not of the temporary sentimentalities of a small minority, but of the abiding sentiments of the overwhelming majority of the American people.

Witness the emphatic indorsement they have given that deliverance throughtout the household of the nation.

In the second place, the Armistice Day address has arrested and will long hold the respectful attention of the world because it goes to other nations as the permanent program of a mighty people "who with wisdom love peace, but who love righteousness more than peace."

It is a prudent program proposing practical ways and means for the pursuit of lofty ideals.

It calls for preparedness for defense as well as preparedness for peace.

It calls for equality with the strongest upon the seas because that is essential to our national security and must be therefore a condition precedent to any further limitation or reduction of our naval forces.

It calls for the strengthening and supporting of our foreign service "as the great arm of our government dedicated to the organization of peace."

It calls for the codification of the law of nations and for the peaceful settlement of justiciable disputes.

It pledges the United States in effect, to strive at all times and in all places to obey the mandates of the farewell address "to observe good faith and justice toward all nations," and "cultivate peace and harmony with all" and "thereby give to mankind the magnanimous and too novel example of a people always guided by an exalted justice and benevolence."

And in that spirit President Hoover proposes for the consideration of the world the exemption of food ships from any interference in time of war. In other words, to renounce "starvation of women and children" as a weapon even of defensive warfare.

All in all, the Armistice Day address, coming as it does on the eve of the London conference, solidifies the position of the United States, not only in the issues to be dealt with at that conference, but in the whole field of foreign relations.

It charts a way of life that the American people are firmly resolved to follow and offers their co-operation with all the world in the constructive tasks of peace.

Hints About Christmas Preparation Are in Air

Rumblings of Christmas can be heard. Stores are taking on their holiday appearance, although Thanksgiving Day has not yet arrived. People who send gifts abroad are beginning to do so. Banks already are preparing for the distribution of huge Christmas funds, which will put millions of dollars into circulation.

We hadn't been thinking about Christmas until we observed these signs of its imminence. They are hints that we can make Christmas preparations a matter of leisure instead of hurly-burly if we begin now. The forehanded are always more comfortable and satisfied than the tardy.

Exit the Phone Girl

We Shall Miss Her.

The robot phone girl is invented. You dial an automatic telephone and a silvery mechanical voice passes the number on to another exchange, here or anywhere, without error.

This is miraculous. Also, in a way, regrettable. For it spells the eventual doom of our most admirable, long-suffering and courteous class of public servants.

Like the barber and the mother-in-law, the telephone girl has been the target for countless wisecracks, mostly unjustified. She endures positive and frequent impoliteness without reprisal. Many a man who would not dream of insulting a woman face to face does it daily in the safe anonymity of the telephone—a singular and disheartening social phenomenon, when you reflect on it.

Every week, too, you read of some fire, flood or other harrowing disaster wherein the phone girl sticks to her post, pushes plugs until the danger is over, never even thinks of quitting.

The robot will do that, and do it better. But it won't thrill you. The robot will have only the valor of ignorance—and that, somehow, takes all the bloom off the performance.

"Bugs" Baer Says:

A Bear Market

WE read in the New York Times that Bugs Baer has died in the Central Park Zoo.

"Bugs" Baer

Bugs was the honey bear given to the city of New York by the imperial suburbs of Canada. Walter Kelly, the Virginia judge, states that the writer went up to the zoo to take a look at his nameplate.

There upon, the bear took a look at the writer, crawled to the back of his cage and died either from fright or shame.

Mr. Kelly will print that paragraph in the New York Press. All that we can say is that the poor animal isn't the first bird to collapse on a bear market.

We were present on New York City Hall steps when Mayor Walker dedicated the four-legged cornerstone. His honor, the Jimmsy, poured a glass of clear, sparkling canal water on the bear's ears.

The Mayor said, "I christen thee Bugs. And I don't see what you are going to do about it."

If a cat can squint at a queen, a bear can ogle a mayor. The cub didn't like the civic shower bath and made a neat snap at the municipal spats.

As the glistening shower struck the bear on the skull he seemed to ponder, "There is sure to be some guy present, who never tasted liquor in his life, to swear that this ain't water."

Then the bear took a look at me. Honors were about even. My knees were just as baggy as his.

Then we took him to his cage in Central Park where he starved a year on the bounty of the writer.

On pleasant Sunday afternoons, we used to share a bag of peanuts with him, giving him the bag and the shells.

We also gave him a charge account at the best grocery stores. But he never took advantage of it.

While the Virginia judge claims that he perished of either fright or shame, a diagnosis indicated it was a judicious blending of the two.

His career was illustrious. They brought him down from Canada in an airplane, gave him his moment on City Hall steps and then tossed him into a Central Park cage. Sometimes, a guest of the city can be guested too much.

He passed out amid the fanfare of margins and the chorus of call money in Wall street. Like all the other bears he thought he was on velvet until the panic joined him too.

Isn't It So?

A clear conscience is the trump card in the game of life.

Good goods come in small packages. A peck of trouble is easier to get than an ounce of happiness.

QUIT TALKING PANIC

By Herbert Kaufman

THERE has been no panic, no possibility OF a panic—none of the elements that PRODUCE panics have existed in the current situation. And the sooner we stop using the WORD panic, the quicker America will return to confident attitudes of mind and resume its enthusiasms.

The bull movement has shifted operations from Wall street to Wail street. Don't believe the HALF of it. There never WERE twenty million speculators—or fifteen, or ten million, gamboling in the lamb pastures.

If such wild figures were valid, they would indicate averages of fifty to a hundred per cent of the families in the United States, with at least ONE member dabbling on some Exchange.

Poppycock!

The decline in security values doesn't represent anything like corresponding cash losses. Most of the shrinkage resolved into unrealized profits and the balloon stuffing, with which pool manipulation was outrageously sophisticating ticker quotations.

NOBODY knows, or CAN know for months to come, the extent of the damage or the number of individuals who share it.

Savings banks haven't YET reported on wiped-out balances; insurance companies have made no statement as to advances against, and the hypothecation of policies; and lapses in mortgage payments are STILL to be totaled.

The badly hit birds are suffering in silence; caution and commonsense warn them against credit-damaging admissions.

Not an important brokerage house or fiduciary institution is known to be in difficulties. Neither big merchants nor small tradesmen are appreciably filing bankruptcy petitions. Dunn and Bradstreet fail to note disturbing increases in requests for extension.

BUT——

EVERY business organization, sales force, and soda fountain rodeo, IS filled with calamity howlers and gloom spreaders, boasting of scars from unsuffered wounds. Pikers and peewits, by myriads, are enjoying Barmicide feasts of woe, pretending, like Munchausen, to imaginative fiscal adventures, seizing the opportunity to pose as important ex-financiers, without having risked a PENNY in speculation.

Rumor mongers, unqualified experts and baseless opinion are peddling theories of conspiracies to wreck the Hoover Administration and to smash American prosperity for the benefit of foreign bond flotations.

The less a man KNOWS about the market, the more he seems to deliver conclusive judgment.

Industry is not threatened with immediate retrogressions.

THE national balance sheet is sufficiently reassuring to warrant tax reduction, lowered re-discount, and optimistic declarations from money masters, merchant princes and Federal Officials.

Legitimate enterprise finds it easier to secure promotion and operating requirements than a year ago.

The resources withdrawn from channels of trade, to provide call money requirements, will now resume normal service, revert to construction, expansion, replacement or railroad and public service equipment and the stabilizing of employment.

There are no excess inventories to be written off, no post-war stocks or congestions of unsalable crops. None of the circumstances responsible for the inevitable adjustments in 1920 are ANYWHERE apparent.

We've stopped shooting craps to aim at targets again. Our working capital is unimpaired; smokestacks are belching; and the outlet for essential commodities undiminished.

Fools who continue to sell short, are selling America short—and DESERVE what's coming to them.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

THE wise books will tell you a lot about the status of Women Workers in 1929. . . .but they can't tell you half as much as you'll learn by listening to Ella, the stenog, while she spills the day's doings to Mabel, the file clerk. . . .or by reading letters like this:

Dear Miss Robinson:—

Usually I like what you write, but you sure made me mad lately, when you said that "women aren't emotionally as reliable as men in business. There isn't any difference in the emotions of businessmen and business women. . . . BUT THERE'S A LOT OF DIFFERENCE IN THE WAY MEN LOOK AT THOSE EMOTIONS.

A man can and does kick up as much fuss in the office as any woman. Sometimes it's necessary fuss and sometimes it is plain silliness and bad temper. But no matter what it is, AS LONG AS HE IS A MAN HE CAN GET BY WITH IT. BUT LET A WOMAN KICK UP THE SAME AMOUNT OF FUSS AND SEE WHAT HAPPENS. At once all the men brand her as "temperamental" . . . "unreliable" . . . "unbalanced" . . . and, if they don't fire her, proceed to treat her as a child or a half wit. Yet she may not have said half as much as a man would have said under the same circumstances.

I have had an example of this in my own department. I have charge of six girls in a certain department of a big insurance company. Before I went there a man had been in charge for 11 years. They had let him run things to suit himself and when I came in, after his death, I found a lot of wasteful, old-fashioned methods in use. Everything needed a good shaking up.

I stood it for a while, for I knew that a new employe should always work his, or her way in, tactfully. Then I laid my suggestions before the higher-ups. They listened, with that polite, patient kind of listening you give a kid. But they didn't do a thing. It was plain that they couldn't imagine a woman bettering a man's methods. I waited for a while, until I had some more figures to show them, and started in again. Same result.

Then I got mad. I was up against it. If I didn't make good in that department they'd hold me responsible. But I couldn't make good with those old methods. Yet, if I tried to change the methods, they'd give me the dog eye like they had before. But I had to take a chance. So I stood right up and made a yell. . . . Well, the result was that they gave in. They couldn't deny the figures. And I'm now giving results. BUT DO YOU THINK THOSE MEN WILL ACKNOWLEDGE THAT I WAS RIGHT? WILL THEY BE GOOD SPORTS WITH ME, THE WAY THEY WOULD WITH ANY MAN WHO HAD MADE THEM COME TO TERMS? I'LL SAY THEY WON'T!

I find I have acquired a reputation for being "awfully temperamental."

That's just a sample. Any business woman can give you dozens of similar experiences. MEN WILL CHUCKLE AND BOAST ABOUT SOME MAN'S BLOWUP . . AND PROBABLY GIVE HIM A RAISE IN SALARY . . BUT THEY'D CALL A SIMILAR BLOWUP IN A WOMAN "TEMPERAMENT" OR "INSUBORDINATION."

Maybe some day women will achieve a real equality in the business world, but it hasn't come yet. It's still a man's world . . AND MEN STILL REGARD WOMEN AS INTRUDERS AND VIEW THEIR ACTS THROUGH PREJUDICED EYES.

That's Eleanor's story . . . Eleanor Stewart do YOU stick by it?

Text for Today Depart from evil, and do good; seek peace, and pursue it.—Psalms, xxxiv:14.

THE SCIENCE OF LIFE

By H. G. WELLS
In Collaboration With
Prof. Julian Huxley and George P. Wells.

BUT as they spread they become cut off from their blood supply, for the capillaries do not extend into the epidermis. Only the deepest epidermal cells are properly nourished; the others are all in various stages of starvation. The most superficial cells, being remotest from the blood-stream, actually die, the outermost layer being composed of dead cells.

Now these dead cells are dry and horny; they form a tough rampart between the outer world and the living tissue. These cell-corpses are ordinarily brushed or washed away as they die; but when they are allowed to accumulate, as under a bandage which is not undone for many days, they form dense white masses of flaky scurf or scarf-skin, showing to what an extent our bodies die daily. The epidermal cells are the martyr volunteers of the cell community. It is their sole business to multiply and perish so that their corpses may protect the state.

H. G. Wells

The skin guards the body from the hordes of bacteria.

Sometimes, through a cut or a scratch, the bacteria lurking in the air or on our skins make an entry, whereupon there follows a battle royal in our tissues. The first response to any injury to the epidermis is a dilation of the capillary vessels in that region. Chemical products of the injured stuff stimulate them to dilate. By thus increasing the local blood-flow reinforcements of white corpuscles are at once rushed to the affected spot.

More and more leucocytes are brought to the battle area, which becomes "sore and inflamed." The bacteria, keeping and extending their footing, multiply in the tissues and destroy tissue cells; the leucocytes frantically consume both bacteria and debris, and in excess of zeal perish themselves of indigestion.

At the end of a day or two we find a mass of dead and dying bacteria and cells, a mass that is disintegrating into the yellowish fluid called "matter" or pus, and round this mass we find a cordon of living leucocytes, sheathing it and hemming it in so that there can be no further spread of the trouble.

Finally, since the blood supply of the skin lying over the abscess is now quite cut off, the skin breaks down and the abscess "points," discharging its contents into the outer world. Mr. Everyman washes it, ties it up, and does his best to forget it.

But not always do the leucocytes prevail. And then the bacteria may succeed in invading the blood stream, and once they have got access to blood vessels they are swept round the body and all the tender tissues of Mr. Everyman are at their mercy.

This is when the warfare becomes really serious for him. Leucocytes join issue with the bacteria in the blood, fresh armies of leucocytes are formed in the bone marrow, the lymph glands and other special centers of proliferation, and at the same time there is a chemical battle between toxins (poisons) and antitoxins. The whole body becomes the seat of war.

The power to swallow up and destroy hostile cells is not confined to these phagocytes which wander about in blood and tissue.

In the spleen there are localized cells which take in any undesirable bodies from the blood that circulates past them.

During recurrent fever, for example, the spleen-cells are found to be full of organisms responsible for that complaint. The two parts of our interior surfaces which are most exposed to infection are also protected in this way, for cells in the liver exercise a similar filtering power on blood from the intestine, and so do cells in the lungs.

Moreover, the walls of our intestines are dotted with special oval areas where leucocytes can be formed when necessary. These guard-houses are called Peyer's patches. Presumably this is because of the bacteria that swarm in our digestive tubes, warmed by our own heat and taking our food not only out of our mouths, but out of our very bowels. To an organism able to resist our digestive juices—and there are many such—the tender intestinal wall affords an easier way of entry into our blood than the horny skin, and it is therefore necessary to garrison strongly that weak point in our defences.

The tonsils of the throat and the appendix at the entrance to the large intestine also, are composed entirely of leucocyte-forming tissue of this kind. They are particularly strong salients on the line of defensive fortification. So at nearly every vulnerable point Mr. Everyman is garrisoned against his smallest (and greatest) enemies.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Broadway has become suddenly blackmail shy. Philanderers who used to pay right down to the quick when sweeties grew avaricious are now showing up at the district attorney's office and putting their cards on the table. Blackmail is usually paid when the victim is in a panic.

Records show nothing calls the bluff of blackmailers so neatly as referring them to direct dealings with a capable lawyer. The high rewards of the sinister calling have been due to the fact that those annoyed try to deal directly with the tormentors.

For the sake of innocent wives and often equally innocent children, the good sport takes a clip on the chin, gets a signed release and resolves to be a better boy. The gouge, however, has been overworked. Men out for a merry evening with loose ladies find themselves in a nice fix.

Their wives report receiving mysterious phone calls, and perfumed notes are sent to homes until, in desperation, they cough up. Adroit gold diggers are often able to gather in a half-dozen gullables, which beats stringing along a lone sucker. And such diversion!

Tables were turned during the past year on four greedy sirens who were told coldly to do their worst. The "worst" was a picture of the victims in a day's tabloid sensation, but resulting in a back-fire of the records of the ladies which did not look well in print.

The biters were bitten—and they didn't get a sou. Added to this was the boomerang of having methods exposed and putting them under the careful espionage of the police. A great criminal lawyer says the only escape from blackmail is to make a clean breast of derelictions to wives.

Then immediately seek protection of the police and district attorney, who have bureaus where such threats are treated sub rosa. Records of any payments should be put in their hands. In a 10-year period, New York is said to have paid $10,000,000 in blackmail. Ooch!

One of the most expensive cigars on the market is elaborately wrapped in gold leaf and retailing for two berries. For special banquets the same concern fashions an 18-inch cigar that sells for $5 each. A rich theatrical man burns up three of the $5 selections daily. You know, deep thinking!

* * *

A tobacco dealer with a Park avenue clientele reports he has not more than a dozen discriminating cigar smokers of another day—the sort who, before purchasing, used to pinch, examine the leaf under a strong light and sniff rapturously at the prospective smoke. The cigaret craze is blamed.

* * *

Yet the same informant declares few cigaret smokers burn up more than a package a day. He has heard of those who consume 60 and 90 a day, but knew only one with such an appetite. "I was one of his pall-bearers," he observed significantly.

* * *

He further announces that chewing tobacco is almost extinct in high circles. He does not sell a half-dozen plugs a year. Kin Hubbard once said there is just as much chewing as ever, but fewer white beards and white vests.

* * *

Grantland Rice's beautiful daughter Florence has a bit in Ring Lardner's hit show and makes it hum. Rice and Lardner have neighboring estates at East Hampton.

It is 2 a. m. In the next block they are blasting in two building excavations. A gang of workers under my window are cutting through asphalt with one of those deafening drills. Hourly torpedoes explode along Grand Central tracks. If something isn't done, I have a notion to make a statement to the papers.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

ARE you harassed, hurried and worried from the time you get up in the morning until you retire at night?

You think you have the hardest job in the world, with few exceptions.

But the tension under which you work might be avoided if you would plan.

Planning ahead you would get up a little earlier in the morning and do each duty without cause for fuming and fussing.

But that extra half hour in bed plays havoc with your day.

It delays you so that you may be late arriving to report for duty.

That makes you nervous and excited.

Your condition is not conducive to thinking and planning.

You plunge ahead without mind direction.

Perhaps you are the kind that loafs on the job, feeling that you can hustle later and make up the time you waste.

Haste results in mistakes, again you work under tension which only physical activity will satisfy.

Or you may do the unimportant things first, forcing yourself on the consequential matters to follow.
